Dishing Out Money.
Cities Are Big.
Crime's Stories.
150,000,000 To One.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

An individual promoting a new agricultural implement has called upon friends of this writer saying that he was sent to urge upon them the value of his machine and the desirability of investing in it. The writer has authorized no such visits, nor has he recommended any investion whatever.

OUR GOVERNMENT, which appears to be in the business of "dishing out money," recently distributed through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation one thousand one hundred and eighty-two millions of dollars. A good deal of money.

Five thousand five hundred and ninety-nine big borrowers got $1,118,000,000. Five hundred and seven thousand six hundred and seventy-two farmers got $64,000,000.

This money is all distributed, undoubtedly, with the best of intentions and as much intelligence as the distributors can bring to their work. But it seems a pity that it is not possible to contribute more of the money to a greater number of human beings.

FOR INSTANCE, if two million veterans received two thousand million dollars bonus money, which the government mus pay later anyhow, would not that help business by stimulating spending, buying and employing?

You can't make plants grow except by putting water at the roots. Piling it up in a reservoir does no good.

You can't make business grow except by putting money into the pockets of those that spend money.

HUMAN ANT-HILLS that we call "great cities," and that perfected flying machines will scatter when human beings become civilized, are growing rapidly.

It is interesting to reflect on the solemn promise that "prohibition would put an end to crime, poverty, insanity."

The intentions were of the best. The results, not so good.

IF YOU travel much on railroads, it should comfort you to know that the chances against your being killed in an accident are one hundred and fifty million to one, very good odds.

Extraordinary safety in railroad travel is due to two things. First, excellent roadbeds, excellent equipment, good management, and second, FAITHFUL, SOBER RAILROAD WORKERS, ENGINEERS, SWITCHMEN, CONDUCTORS, devoted to their task and to duty.

IN AN encyclical recently addressed to the clergy of Mexico, the Pope instructed them to obey the laws of Mexico, in regard to churches and all religious matters.

Protesting against anti-Catholic laws that allowed only one priest to a population as great as 100,000, and comparing Mexico's attitude toward religion with that of Russia, the Pope nevertheless enjoined on the bishop and clergy obedience to law.

Now the papal delegate in Mexico, Monsignor Leopoldo Ruis y Flores, is expelled from the country by official order as a "pernicious foreigner, serving a foreign power."

As it happens, the papal delegate was born in Mexico.

MEN OF good digestion, able to transform into brain tissue curly things cooked in fat, will be delighted to hear that this is "Doughnut Week." Doughnut statistics sound impressive. Americans ate 3,600,000,000 of them last year, about thirty doughnuts per head, including babies.

But doughnut figures are small compared with cigaret statistics. Three billion cigarets would

Hearing Witness

HYMIE MARTIN

"Pittsburgh Hymie," today before the Police Trial Board a witness in the hearing for Detective Capt. Forner, charged with permitting license cards to be smuggled to Central Police Station prisoners. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

FORNER'S FATE UP TO CLARK

Whether Detective Capt. Howard (Doc) Forner is to be fired for permitting "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin to smuggle papers to two prisoners in Central Police Station's cellroom, was left to the decision of Public Safety Director James M. Clark at a hearing today.

The Police Trial Board, after hearing testimony that Martin took ownership papers to James Foster, of Cleveland, O., and John Russo, of Youngstown, O., following their arrest for driving an automobile without them, turned the case over to Clark for disposition.

Clark said he would make his decision after reviewing transcripts of the testimony. During the hearing Forner assumed full responsibility for permitting Martin to enter the cellroom.

Martin testified he received the ownership papers from a friend of Foster. Martin was not questioned about a report that he gave a police officer two cases of whisky for letting him in the cellroom.

Tong Man Attempts To End Life Here

In the headquarters of the On Leong Tong at 522 Third avenue today a Chinese tried to end his life, homicide detectives reported. With serious knife wounds in the abdomen, Yee Fong, 48, was rushed to Mercy Hospital.

He came here Monday from New York. Arriving, he jumped from the moving train near the Pennsylvania Station and created a scene. Detectives said he labored under the impression enemies were trying to take his life.

September Holds Dry Record Here

The past month was the dryest September in Weather Bureau history, it was revealed today. The bureau was established in 1871. Only .59 of an inch of rain fell during the 30 days. In 1914, one of the three years in which there was less than inch of rainfall, the figure was .69.

WATER FIRM HERE CUTS RATES

South Pittsburgh Co. Files Schedule With P. S. C.

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 5.—The South Pittsburgh Water Company has filed a new, reduced rate schedule, the Public Service Commission anounced today.

The new tariff becomes effective with bills rendered November 1, 1932.

The new rates will provide a reduction of about $1.86 for the average consumer, the commission stated. The new schedule will result in a loss of about $82,000 a year in the revenue of the company, exclusive of such losses as may be incurred as a result of prevailing business conditions.

MINIMUM RATES

The new tariff substitutes minimum rates for the present service charge and includes certain allowances of water without additional cost.

Consumers are given an allowance of 1,500 gallons of water for a minimum charge of $2 a quarter and other allowances in proportion to the minimum charge, which varies with the size of the meter.

The commission stated the large majority of the company's consumers obtained their water through a ⅝-inch meter at the rate of between 10,000 and 50,000 gallons a year. The new rates will provide the following percentages of reduction:

Ten thousand gallons of water a year, 17 per cent; 20,000 gallons, 13 per cent; 30,000 gallons, 11 per cent; 40,000 gallons, 9 per cent, and 50,000 gallons, 8 per cent.

CONFERENCE SERIES

The reductions were achieved as the result of a series of conferences held over the period of several months. The commission pointed out that such conferences permitted a free and informal exchange of views in a satisfactory rate reduction without the expense and delay incident to a formal rate proceeding.

In addition to serving parts of the Sixteenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth and Twentieth wards in Pittsburgh, and all of the Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first and Thirty-second wards in Pittsburgh, the company serves a number of adjoining boroughs including Bridgeville, Carnegie, Munhall and West Homestead and Mifflin Township.

CITY SAVING SMALL

The City of Pittsburgh has been paying the difference between the city rate and the South Pittsburgh Water Company rate for citizens of the city living in the company's territory in the South Hills, amounting to approximately $300 000 last year.

Controller James P. Kerr says the city will save under the new schedule less than $35,000 in the differential paid for 19,000 customers in the city.

Charlie Chaplin Ill From Food Poisoning

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Believed to have been the victim of ptomaine poisoning, Charles Chaplin, film comedian, was reported as improved after a three-day illness. Studio officials said his condition was not serious.

BOY PRINCE, HELEN WEEP AT PARTING

Michael Sailing Home At Command of 'Cruel' King

International News Service.

DOVER, England, Oct. 5.—After a tender farewell scene with his mother, Crown Prince Michael of Rumania left England this afternoon.

Returning to Rumania at the command of his father, King Carol II, the youthful prince departed aboard the Channel steamer Isle of Thanet. His mother, Princess Helen, remained with him in his cabin until just before sailing time.

Cynosure of all eyes because of Princess Helen's charge that King Carol was "cruelly and heartlessly" tearing her son away from her, Michael, his mother and his aunt, Princess Irene, of Greece, ate luncheon in the public dining room of the Lord Warden Hotel after motoring down from London.

MET BY KING'S AIDE

After luncheon, they drove to the pier, where Michael was met by Col. Grigorescu, King Carol's aide-de-camp.

The 10-year-old boy burst into tears as he boarded the ship. His mother threw her arms about him and tried to stem his tears as they walked up the gangplank, but Michael was still weeping bitterly when Princess Helen left his cabin as the last whistle blew.

Too overcome by emotion to watch the steamer's departure, Princess Helen left the pier hurriedly in her automobile. Persons gathered by the pier-side saw her, with a handkerchief to her eyes and shaking with sobs, accepting the consolation of her sister.

As the limousine drew away, Michael's tear-stained face was seen peering through a porthole

CITY QUITS BUS LINE FIGHT

After announcing the city would oppose an independent 15-cent bus line from Mt. Washington to Pennsylvania Station, Assistant City Solicitor Charles P. Lang this afternoon said that with acceptance of designated stopping places downtown the city would not offer formal objections.

Lang had taken his place beside counsel for the Pittsburgh Railways Company and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company when a hearing opened before the Public Service Commission on the application of the Liberty Bus Line, owned by August Villani and Adelmo Rossi.

Residents of Mt. Washington testifiedi n behalf of the new company, saying that present service is inadequate. The Liberty company offeffrs 10 tokens for $1.25, compared with a straight 25-cent fare or nine tokens for $2 charged by the Motor Coach Company.

Allen Youth Held, Rose Fails Him

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—William W. Allen, 21, brother of Edward H. B. Allen, who was acquitted last February in the slaying of Francis A. Donaldson III, his sister's sweetheart, was arrested today for allegedly driving the girl's automobile while under the influence of liquor.

When arraigned before Magistrate R. Louis Hamberg, William was held in $600 bail for a further hearing next Wednesday.

Rose Allen, 18, who turned against Edward during his trial and testified as a prosecution witness, repudiated William when apprised of his arrest today.

She told police her brother was driving the automobile without her consent or knowledge.

Rose's car was badly damaged when it crashed into the rear of a milk wagon, injuring Morris Toll, 26, the drivef.

National, State Bank Call Issued

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The Comptroller of the Currency issued a call today for the condition of all national banks at the close of business Friday, September 30.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The State Department of Banking today issued a call for the condition of all state banks and trust companies as of September 30. The reports must be published.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—A call for a report on the condititon of all state banks and trust companies as of Friday, September 30, was issued today by the State Department of Banking.

WIDOW STABBED BY STRANGER

A mysterious attack on Mrs. Betty Elliott, a 35-year-old widow, of 3 Tokio street, rear, when she was summoned to her kitchen door last night, continued to puzzle East End police today.

The woman was stabbed in the right breast, presumably with an ice pick. She said her assailant, a stranger to her, was a well-dressed youth aged about 25, and added:

"I heard someone knock on the door. While I held the door ajar and attempted to engage the man in conversation, he pulled the screen door open, struck and ran. I can't advance any reason for the attack. I have never been threatened."

Mrs. Elliott was unaware that she had been stabbed until she turned on a light in the kitchen and saw blood on her dress. Awakening her son, Glenn, 8, sleeping in an adjoining room, she sent him for a physician.

PRESIDENT'S FARM TALK ANSWERED

Speaker Says Hoover Has Left Trail of Broken Promises

The text of Speaker Garner's statement appears on Page 10.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Striking back at President Hoover's criticism of Democratic policies, Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential candidate, today laid the fundamental cause of the depression at the door of the Republican administration.

He declared in a formal reply to the President that the Republican leadership has not only "brought disaster" in this country, but has "contributed to the woes of the world."

POOR LEADERSHIP

Replying to the President's declaration that foreign disasters are responsible for much of America's trouble, Garner said:

"He is still using those long range glasses which reveal nothing except what occurred in foreign lands. It seems impossible for him to focus them upon his own country in an effort to ascertain the real cause and effect of the depression.

"He has not yet discerned the fact that lack of administrative initiative and leadership and blind adherence to obsolete policies here in the United States are the fundamental cause of the domestic as well as the world condition."

The real depression, Garner asserted, began from the moment the President signed the Hawley-Smoot tariff act. This, he said, caused foreign nations to erect barriers to American trade.

PROMISES BROKEN

Garner said the President has "left a trail of broken promises behind him" and has "sacrificed the confidence of the American people."

Although the President criticised the so-called "pork barrel" building program of the Democratic House, Garner said, he now is claiming credit for inaugurating a huge federal construction program to provide employment.

The President, he said, blocked the program of the Democratic House which would have assured farmers the credit necessary to prevent foreclosures.

Masefield Hinted As Nobel Winner

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—John Masefield, the British poet laureate, was mentioned today by the newspaper Tigningenn as a possible candidate for the Nobel prize in literature for 1932.

The newspaper said, however, that it was likely the prize would be divided between Paul Valery, the French poet and critic, and Stefan George, the German lyric poet.

Justice's Son Admits Killing at Trial

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Horace McKinley, 28, of Wynmoor, Pa., son of Justice of Peace William E. McKinley, of Springfield, Pa., admitted on the witness stand today that he had killed Edward O'Brien, of Philadelphia, for whose death he is on trial.

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—President Hoover barnstormed his way back toward Washington through the central states today, with a feeling of renewed confidence.

The jeers that disgruntled Iowa farm leaders had predicted would meet him last night in Des Moines had developed into healthy cheers, inspired largely by his outspoken campaign address, and everywhere along the line he met only with the most cordial of greetings.

At Fort Wayne, Ind., he made a five-minute rear platform talk from his special train to more than 15,000 persons assembled at the flag-bedecked railroad station and, for the first time, made public reply to the personal reports which he said he had learned have been circulated about him in the Middle West.

ATTACKS FOES

The President said:

"During my public life I have believed sportsmanship and statesmanship call for the elimination of harsh personalities between opponents.

"On this journey, however, I have received a multitude of reports as to widespread personal misrepresentations which have been promulgated in the Midwest in the past few weeks.

"I regret that the character

Roosevelt, Al Smith End Political War

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Al Smith has shaken hands publicly with Franklin D. Roosevelt—and between them they have shaken Tammany Hall to its foundation.

Politically, that is a highly important development in New York. And it may prove of even more importance in the presidential election next month.

Tammany took one of the worst lickings in years in the state conventions just ended here and Smith and Roosevelt administered it. The Tiger went back to the city nursing numerous wounds and without being in a very favorable position for retaliation.

Smith and Roosevelt found common ground in their advocacy of Col. Herbert H. Lehman for the gubernatorial nomination. John F. Curry, the Tammany leader, did not want him. With his up-state allies, Curry backed Mayor John B. Thacher, of Al-

Rody Marshall's Son, Homesick, Quits School

Rody P. Marshall, III., today attended classes in Frick school.

That's not nearly as important as that he failed to attend classes at Staunton Military Academy.

Young Rody, 14-year-old son of the late Attorney Rody Marshall, noted criminal attorney, definitely did not like being away at military school.

After a few days' attendance, Rody decided he preferred living at home. It was the plain or garden variety of homesickness.

Rody left Staunton, Va., Saturday, intent on hitch-hiking home. He was picked up by Martinsburg (W. Va.) police. His mother sent the family chauffeur to bring him home.

Rody enrolled in Frick School yesterday.

Four years ago, when his brother, Rody Marshall, Jr., died after breaking his neck in a dive at Narragansett Pier, R. I., Mrs. Marshall had the younger boy's name changed from John to Rody, to carry on that made famous by his father, accounted the ablest criminal attorney in the history of the Allegheny County bar.

Radio Stations Quizzed On Long Hoover Talk

Whoever handled the radio arrangements for President Hoover's opening campaign speech last night at Des Moines caused Pittsburgh stations to be swamped with telephone calls.

It all happened when the President spoke for 41 minutes longer than the Republican National Committee had scheduled him to speak. The program was to have been on the air from 8:30 to 9:30, but the President continued to speak until 10:11 resulting in the unexpected cancellation of Ed Wynn's program and the first 12 minutes of the "magic rug" entertainment over WCAE. The original schedule also had disrupted Ben Bernie's program.

More than 300 telephone calls were received at WCAE asking the reason and a large number also were received by WJAS.

INSULL DODGES INTERVIEW, MAY FIGHT EXTRADITION

FRENCH LAWS SEEN AS AID TO MAGNATE

Illinois Goes Ahead With Battle to Return Financier

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Breaking an appointment with newspapermen, Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate now under indictment for embezzlement and larceny, left his hotel here on a mysterious mission today.

While members of his family refused to disclose his destination, it was believed he had gone to seek legal advice concerning extradition proceedings already launched by Illinois authorities.

PROMISED STATEMENT

Insull asked newspapermen to come to his hotel at 10:30 a. m. to receive a statement regarding the indictment.

More than 20 correspondents and a group of photographers showed up at the appointed time, only to be informed that Insull had left an hour earlier with his son.

Meanwhile, nothing definite could be learned regarding Insull's probable course of action. French law will give the indicted man numerous opportunities to fight extradition, and well-informed observers predicted failure unless the state of Illinois in the event Insull decides to combat the proceedings.

ARREST ASKED

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—An airplane, bearing representatives of the state's attorney's office, was to be dispatched at once to Toronto, Ontario, to keep Martin Insull, brother of the deposed utilities magnate, under surveillance, it was announced today.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson made his decision after receiving a report that Martin Insull, who with his brother was indicted for embezzlement and larceny, had left his hideaway at Brillia, Ont., and arrived at Toronto.

Shortly before the plane was to depart, the prosecutor sent telegrams to authorities in Toronto ordering "arrest and detain" Insull and urging "close surveillance of boats and trains." The telegrams were addressed to the Hon. E. Bayly, deputy general, and to the Toronto chief of police.

Meanwhile, it was announced today that receivers for Middle West Utilities Company and National Electric Power Company, Insull units, will ask the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan to liquidate New York bank loans against the companies.

JURY FREES 14 BANK OFFICERS

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Former Congressman Everett Kent and 13 other officers and directors of the closed Bangor Trust Company, of Bangor, Pa., charged with conspiracy to cheat and defraud the bank's depositors of more than $140,000 by extending illegal lines of credit to several slate companies, were found not guilty today in a sealed verdict returned by a jury before Judge R. C. Stewart.

Costs of the case are to be paid by Northampton County.

Gen. Butler Injured In Fall Down Well

NEWTON SQUARE, Pa., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, retired, was confined to his bed today with a back injury received yesterday when he fell down a ladder in a well.

With his back in a cast and against the advice of his physician, Butler left his bed last night long enough to address the Ex-Soldiers' Association of Montgomery County at a rally in Norristown.

Rogers Starts Air Trip to Argentina

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Will Rogers, film comedian, hopped off from Burbank Airport at 6:38 a. m. today for Buenos Aires.

Rogers will make the entire trip by airplane arriving at Fort Worth, Tex., at 8 o'clock tonight and leaving there early tomorrow.

He expected to be away from Hollywood three weeks.

Ordered by his father, King Carol, to cut short his London visit, the "boy who was a King" wept bitterly and even had contemplated running away. But in the end he realized he must bow before his father's command.

COURT IGNORES CHARGES

Court circles in London remained silent in regard to the unprecedented charges of "cruel heartlessness" hurled by Princess Helen against her royal ex-husband, but she was understood to have the sympathy of the British royal family.

Concerning the atmosphere of bitterness produced by these charges and a long chain of events preceding them, a close friend of the princess told the London Daily Mail:

"How petty are the pinpricks, how vindictive the persecution to which Princess Helen has been subjected!

"This is shown by the fact that King Carol has been telephoning personally from Bucharest to denounce Michael's mother.

"The King is angry because she has allowed the boy to wear long trousers in London, while the King has ordered short knickers as his costume."

WEARS BANNED TOGS

When the Prince and his mother went to Buckingham Palace for tea, the lad wore the clothes his father had banned.

The Rumanian charge d'affaires called on the Princess in a vain attempt to induce her to withdraw her charges against the King. Then he denied reports that Michael was being sent back to Bucharest because he had discovered, in a newspaper, the true import of his father's relations with the beautiful Magda Lupescu.

The embassy said Michael would be taken to Paris to see the auto show, then visit relations in Germany before returning to Bucharest October 14 for the King's birthday.

COUNTY SCANS NEW SYSTEM

The report of the survey made by the Central Records Company for electrifying the record keeping system of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes is being studied by the County Commissioners.

In submitting the report yesterday a representative of the company told the Commissioners.

"This system embodies the remote control system that is used in big power stations, communication by telephone and railroad operation. It is a new combination of well proven facts."

Commissioner Charles C. McGovern thanking the company for its survey asked several questions about its use and said:

"We must go slow in putting in any mechanical systems. We have the voting machines on our hands and they are not so hot."

Peggy's Ex-Mate Must Pay for Gems

CHICAGO, Oct. 5. — (INS.) — James Stanley Joyce, of Clinton, Ia., one of the earlier husbands of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, today was confronted with a court order to pay a $16,738 jewelry bill of his present wife.

Mrs. Nelle Joyce started divorce proceedings shortly after she purchased the jewelry in October, 1928. Last year a Superior Court judge granted a verdict in favor of E. M. Gattle & Co., New York jewelers. The verdict was upheld yesterday by the Appellate Court.

Second Australian Quits Cabinet Post

CANBERRA, Australia, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Prime Minister Joseph A. Lyons today accepted the resignation of J. E. Fenton as postmaster general of the Australian government.

Fenton refused to support the ministry tariff proposals and objected to the trade agreements of the Ottawa imperial conference. E. W. Hawker withdrew September 20 as minister of markets and transport.

Club of Golfer Misses Ball, Kills Hare

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—H. E. Smith, just learning about golf, hasn't reached the chapter on birdies, as yet, but knows all about rabbits.

Smith swung hard enough at the Sunningdale course yesterday to have got what he estimated at 1,000 yards—had he only connected.

Instead, he missed the ball, but the club, sent sailing over a fence, hit and killed a rabbit.

CAR MIRED, MAN SHOT, QUIZ WIFE

KANE, Pa., Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Unconscious from two bullet wounds in his head, Neil Sullivan, 42, a salesman, was found slumped beside his wife in their automobile which was stuck in mud a short distance from their home here early today.

Sullivan was rushed to Community Hospital where physicians said he had little chance for recovery.

Mrs. Sullivan, detained at her home by Detective J. J. Allison and state police, declined to give any information on the shooting. Neighbors, however, informed authorities they heard the couple quarreling while trying to extricate the machine from the mire.

A .32 caliber gun was found in the machine.

'Black Damp' Blown Mile, Kills Miner

MARTINS FERRY, O., Oct. 5.—Charles W. Groppe, 68, is dead today from black damp, the result of the vagaries of the wind. Mine Inspector L. H. Jenkins said. A shifting wind, Jenkins said, drove black damp a mile through abandoned workings, killing Groppe, who was digging coal for home consumption in a Deep Run mine.

COAL LICENSE HEARING TODAY

Retail coal dealers of the city have been invited by Council to attend a hearing this afternoon to discuss a proposed yearly license fee of $100.

Clerks at City Hall yesterday telephoned to dealers, asking all to send representatives to the hearing.

The fee was proposed by the Pittsburgh Retail Coal Merchants, represented by Attorney Charles B. Prichard. Small dealers contend it is an attempt on the part of the larger interests to put them out of business and would result in higher prices to the consumer.

The licenses, under the proposal, would be renewed annually for $50. Each additional truck or wagon over the first would be assessed $5 per year.

COX'S CARAVAN BATTLES MIRE IN WEST

Priest, Funds Low, Aids Marooned Family

AMARILLO, Tex., Oct. 5.—The Jobless party caravan reached here this morning after an all-night journey through western storm areas.

Between Albuquerque and Santa Rosa, in New Mexico, the caravan was delayed by mud roads made treacherous by recent rains.

Seven times the broadcasting car became stuck in the mud. Seven times the men in the party, led by Father James R. Cox, the presidential nominee of the Jobless ticket, clambered out and pushed the car forward.

RATTLERS SCENTED

Once the baby-like cry of coyotes sounded in the desolate countryside, another time the smell of rattlesnakes was in the air. It was the campaign party's first real taste of the wild and woolly west.

Twice it seemed the campaigners would be marooned for the night, but Father Cox rolled his trouser legs a bit higher, sank his shoes deeper into the mire. He refused to admit defeat, and eventually the caravan was able to proceed. Thirty miles out of Santa Rosa the party came upon another motorist, held fast by the mud. He, his wife and four small children had been marooned in their automobile for three hours.

Efforts of the campaign group failed to budge the car, which had become imbedded above its axles. Aid was dispatched to the family from Santa Rosa upon Father Cox's arrival there.

SPARES OWN CASH

Incidentally, this family was without funds and the parents were en route to a children's home. When the nominee learned of this, he left the money from his own dwindling campaign funds.

Father Cox will fly to Pittsburgh from Amarillo this afternoon, arriving in his home city at 5:13 o'clock (Pittsburgh time) tomorrow evening. After having breakfast here, the remainder of the caravan continued eastward, with Elk City, Okla., the next stop.

Two Wrecking Safe Spared From Blast

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Safe-crackers bungled a job here, and it was a lucky thing for Frank and Edward Thornbeck.

Called to open the safe, damaged by the crackmen, the Thornbecks went to work, pounding on the doors before they finally opened. Inside was a charge of nitroglycerine which had failed to explode.

CORNELIA OTIS SKINNER . . . NOW SHE'S EMPRESS EUGENIE

TRIAL TO CONFER WITH EATON

Senator William S. Rial, chairman of the committee investigating the Public Service Commission, was expected to confer today with Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, who late yesterday accepted the post of counsel for the committee. It was expected a plan would be formulated to be taken before the committee in Harrisburg Friday.

The committee will consider charges made by Gov. Pinchot against James S. Benn, former Public Service Commissioner.

Actress Misses Son, Aged 2, as She Starts Tour

Cornelia Otis Skinner, noted character actress, spent yesterday in Pittsburgh—"to buy a few things and see a movie."

She left last night for Detroit and Grand Rapids, Mich., where she will present some new character studies, the principal one concerning Empress Eugenie. Miss Skinner commented:

"I didn't get the idea from the hat vogue, strangely, but from Philip Guedella's book on the Second Empire.

"Eugenie would be shocked if she knew I bought three pair of white stockings for $2 today, and that I wear white kid shoes.

"She wore her white satin slippers once, then gave them to the poor. She was very extravagant."

Miss Skinner, daughter of Otis Skinner, is the mother of Otis Skinner Blodgett—aged 2. She was missing him—he being just started her tour Sunday night, playing Monday night at Indiana State Teachers' College. Her tour of six weeks will take her as far west as St. Louis.

Her son, maybe, is going to carry on the Skinner traditions. She said:

"He has red hair, is just beginning to talk, and his principal amusement is putting on funny hats and laughing at himself."

Secret Rumanian, Soviet Pact Seen

GENEVA, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Absence from Geneva of Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet foreign commissar, for the last 24 hours led to reports today he was at some secret rendezvous in Switzerland negotiating a pact of non-aggression with Rumanian statesmen.

A similar treaty between Soviet Russia and France is expected to be drawn up soon.

California Avenue Contract Awarded

Public Works Director E. G. Lang today awarded a contract for grading, paving and curbing a 653-feet portion of California avenue, west from Sedwick street, to the Harrison Construction Company at its bid of $18,408.

IRELAND AGREES TO PARLEY ON ANNUITIES

De Valera and British Officials Set Negotiations

International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Agreement to submit the land annuities dispute between Great Britain and the Irish Free State to negotiation was reached today at a conference attended by President Eamonn De Valera and British cabinet officials.

An announcement at conclusion of the meeting stated that "land annuities negotiations will begin at London on October 14."

The negotiations, it was announced, will cover all financial disputes between the two countries concerning funds paid into the British treasury by the Free State prior to De Valera's election.

Hopes were held out that the negotiations will lead to a satisfactory solution of the grave dispute precipitated when De Valera, making good a re-election campaign pledge, withheld payment of the land annuities due to the British treasury.

The conferees parted at the door of 10 Downing street on cordial terms. Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, warmly shook De Valera's hand as the Irish executive entered his automobile.

Reopening of the negotiations was hailed as a sign of a more amicable spirit, but there was speculation as to whether De Valera had furnished any assurances, particularly concerning the Free State's continued membership in the British commonwealth of nations. It was known that Britain regarded this as an essential for any new negotiations.

Religion's Glory Lost, Yale Paper Declares

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 5.—(INS.)—In a leading editorial doubting "whether religion will ever come back to its one-time glory," the Yale Daily News, undergraduate newspaper, today sharply attacked the university's policy in expending large sums of money constructing the new divinity school buildings on Prospect street.

It was reported members of the divinity school faculty and student body contemplated an early retort. The News editorial said:

"Self-supporting students and low-salaried instructors and their respective sympathizers can not help but think of other ways to dispose of a lot of money than to build a beautiful group of buildings for a handful of divines about whom no one cares very much anyway.

"It is now doubtful whether religion will ever come back to its one-time glory. This does not mean that it no longer has value. It really means that it may not have much."

President James R. Angell's divinity school dedication address came in for mild criticism on his statement that religion's popularity was no real indication of its worth.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Forty-eight cents told the story of the death of J. E. Morehouse, 47, formerly prominent in the motor car industry in New York and Detroit. He was found dead in a Loop hotel shortly after midnight with a bullet in his head. A note said he was "another victim of the depression."

Morehouse, whose home is at Great Neck, Long Island, formerly was manager of the New York offices of the Stromberg Carburetor Corporation and a few years ago was wealthy, his friends said.

On the dresser of his hotel room was 48 cents, all the money he had with him. The change was laid out beside six letters, one addressed to his wife, three to friends, one to an undertaker and the other to the "Authorities, Coroner or what have you."

Morehouse's body, clad in pajamas, was on the bed. He had pulled a pillow over his head to deaden the sound of his revolver.

Word from New York said he left his home several days ago for Chicago on a business trip and was in a cheerful mood. But the letters indicated he came here for the specific purpose of killing himself in his home city.

In the letter to Fred Klaner, an undertaker, Morehouse enclosed a telegram, evidently intended for his wife. It read:

"Your husband has passed away, leaving instructions for me to provide the necessary details to you. He expressed a wish that you do not incur the expense of a trip here."

'TORTURE' DEATH TRIAL SPECTATORS SEARCHED FOR ARMS

JURY SELECTED TO TRY TWO GUARDS

'Aide at Prison Camp To Take Stand for Prosecution

By SAM MELSON
International News Service.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 5.—The jury that will decide the fate of George W. Courson and Solomon Higginbotham, former chaingang camp guards, on charges of murder in the alleged "sweatbox" torture death of Arthur Maillefert, young New Jersey convict, was completed and testimony began today.

Renewal of threats against the lives of the two defendants was claimed by Fuller Warren, defense attorney, in asking the court to have bailiffs subject persons entering the courtroom to the closest scrutiny. Warren said:

"Hysterical hostility exists against these men and I ask that no one be permitted to enter who is equipped to do harm.

"The lives of the defendants have been threatened in anonymous letters received since the trial opened and I hope the court will take proper precautionst o prevent the trial being marred by an unfortunate outbreak."

COURTROOM GUARDED

Judge George Couper Gibbs said precautions already have been taken to protect the defendants.

Chance of venue in the tiral of the two former guards may be sought by the defense, International News Service learned.

The contemplated defense move was revealed in a discussion between counsel for Courson and Higginbotham and State's Attorney Charles M. Durrance.

Alleged prejudice against the defendants, which the defense contends has been revealed in the jury selection, would be the basis for the motion, if made, defense counsel said.

Revelation that a convict guard will take the stand to testify for the state in its effort to send Courson and Higginbotham to the electric chair was made by State's Attorney Durrance.

GUARD TO 'TELL ALL'

The guard, whose name was withheld, was attached to the Sunbeam road camp force at the time of Maillefert's death last June, Durrance revealed.

He voluntarily approached the state prosecutor through County Detective W. H. Gasque, special investigator in the "sweatbox" probe, and offered his testimony.

Gasque, through Durrance, quoted the guards as remarking:

"Those convicts (the state witnesses) are telling the truth about what went on at Sunbeam Camp. You can count on me to get up there and tell the truth.

"I've old some of those other guards what I'm going to do and warned them they'd better do the same unless they want to face perjury charges."

Courson and Higginbotham, the defendants, contend that Maillefert, a refractory prisoner who allegedly refused to perform work required of the convicts and who attempted to escape on numerous occasions, deliberately committed suicide.

PRINCE, SINGER SEPARATE

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Hollywood heard today that Serge Mdivani, Georgian prince, has moved to a hotel and his wife, Mary McCormic, grand opera singer, has consulted an attorney and is living with friends.

Although neither the prince nor Miss McCormic could be reached, an attorney, Michael Luddy, representing Miss McCormic, said he "might have something to say" later today.

There has been no hint of a separation previously in the film colony, where the couple is widely known. The prince formerly was married to Pola Negri, film star. He is a brother of David Mdivani, husband of Mae Murray, film actress.

The prince and Miss McCormic were married in Phoenix, Ariz., April 17, 1931, shortly after Miss Negri and the prince were divorced in Paris. At the time of the marriage he gave his age as 27 and Miss McCormic said she was 34.

The two brothers have lived in Hollywood for several years, engaging in oil operations.

HEADHUNTERS' JUNGLE GOAL OF BLONDES

'Bring 'Em Back Alive,' Says They'll Be Safer There Than in N. Y.

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Two young women are going to penetrate the unexplored jungle of Ecuador, visiting the Jivaro head hunters, who "never have seen a pair of blondes in their lives."

They are Miss Marian Gillespie and Miss Violet (Dixie) Ohlesen, of New York. Miss Gillespie is a writer, and Miss Ohlesen a tourist adviser. They are sailing on the Santa Barbara October 21.

Unaccompanied by any white man, but taking a guide and an interpreter, they will start from the hacienda of Richard C. Gill on Butterfly Mountain, 5,000 feet up the Eastern slope of the Andes, they revealed today. They will be the first white women to set foot on Jivaro soil.

ASH, HONEY BLONDES

Miss Gillespie is an ash blonde while her companion is of the honey variety. Miss Gillespie said:

"Of course there will be hardships, but I believe women can stand them as well as men—especially mental hardships. Once we start on this thing, there will be no turning back."

Miss Gillespie hopes to get material for some articles, Miss Ohlesen will collect fossils, stones and Indian trinkets for a museum.

They are thrilled by the stories of the Jivaroes, who shrink the heads of their slain enemies by removing the bones and inserting hot stones.

The girls will wear knickers, boots, long-sleeved shirts with high collars and wide-brimmed hats. Miss Gillespie said:

"We'll have to be careful not to get anything down our necks. We're not afraid of snakes or bears or monkeys. As for crocodiles, we'll be near the headwaters of the Amazon, where crocodile-shooting is good. We'll each sleep with rifles beside us.

"Frank Buck told me a pair of blondes are safer in the jungle than on Forty-second street and Broadway, anyhow."

BOTH UNDAUNTED

Both girls refuse to be daunted by anything, even inoculations against tropical diseases. Miss Gillespie continued:

"My chief annoyance will be the absence of bathing facilities. I am bringing my bathing suit along, in case we find a place to swim, but I am a little afraid the Indian chieftains have different moral concepts than we Americans and would be shocked if they saw us.

"Of course we are taking our powder, cold cream and lipstick. Those things are automatic."

Penna. Legion Head Urges Repeal, Bonus

Legionnaires of Allegheny County were asked last night to support the movement for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus by Paul H. Griffith, Pennsylvania departmental commander, at a dinner meeting in the Fort Pitt Hotel, given in honor of John J. Deller, retiring commander of the Allegheny County department. Deller and his successor, Robert K. Cochrane, Jr., of Manchester Post, No. 80, also spoke. Judge George V. Moore was toastmaster.

MORGAN'S NIECE GETS THREAT

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—(INS.)—Two wealthy families in Topsfield are being guarded day and night by police and private detectives following threats to kidnap their children unless extortion demands for large sums of money are met, the Boston Evening American said in a copyrighted article.

Those threatened, according to authorities, are Mrs. Katherine S. Crosby Choate, niece of Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan and former wife of Robert B. Choate, of Southboro and Boston, and John L. Saltonstall.

Mrs. Choate has two children and Saltonstall has four children at home.

X-Ray Finds Missing Jewelry Inside Dog

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Being high-toned, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Perrie's Scotch terrier went in for jewelry in a big way, so much so that he rattled. What the rattle was all about wasn't learned until they took X-ray pictures and found the dog had swallowed two rings. Operation by a surgeon retrieved the missing jewelry. The terrier is getting on nicely.

CLERIC'S INJURY UNEXPLAINED

The Rev. Isaiah Hawn, 77, retired minister, found injured early yesterday on the steps of the Friendship School, Friendship avenue, was still semi-conscious in West Penn Hospital today. He is suffering from a probable skull fracture aud cuts and bruises of the face.

In September the aged minister caused the arrest of a man and a young blonde whom he alleged held him up and robbed him of $53 in Kirkwood street. The couple was discharged, but the woman, Mary Howard, 22, of Carlton street, upon the insistence of Mr. Hawn, who appeared too late for the hearing, was rearrested and held for court.

Mr. Hawn, who lived at 124 South Negley avenue, received a $75 pension check Monday, police said. When found he had $4 in his pockets.

Police are working on two theories, one a gangland reprisal, the other that he was a victim of a fall.

FARMER PICKET SLAIN, 2 HELD

CANBY, Minn., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—A father and his son were arrested today in connection with the slaying of Nordahl Peterson, 25, farmer-picket shot to death a mile west of here last night. They were placed in jail at Granite Falls.

They are Ole Anderson, 47, and Leonard Anderson, 19, whose farmhouse is a short distance from where the shooting occurred.

Peterson's death was the first fatality of the Minnesota farmers' holiday movement, which has brought picketing of many highways in recent weeks by farmers hoping to raise prices by preventing marketing of nonperishable products.

Deputy Sheriff O. C. Snortum said the son admitted driving past the roadside picket tent where Peterson was standing when a shotgun charge killed him instantly.

B. E. F. Members Ask Housing by County

A petition signed by half a dozen members of the "Bonus Expeditionary Force" asking for a county-owned building to house a group of unemployed war veterans is being considered by the County Commissioners. It was presented at yesterday's meeting by Pat O'Hara who said that the petitioners would be satisfied with any kind of a building, preferably in either North or South Park. It was referred to Director of Parks Alexander Marion.

PRE LATE EXILE FORCED DOWN

TAMPICO, Mexico, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The airplane carrying Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, papal legate to Mexico, into exile in the United States, landed here late last night on account of bad weather, but the pilot planned to take off again today for Brownsville, Tex.

The archbishop was expelled from Mexico yesterday by President Abelardo Rodriguez as "a pernicious foreigner." The action was an aftermath of the recent encyclical of Pope Pius XI on Mexican religious affairs.

The pilot took his plane as far as Soto La Marino, half way to Brownsville, last night, but could not get through the storm and was forced to return.

Gordon, Film Villain, To Rewed in U. S.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—C. Henry Gordon, film heavy, whose real name is Charles Henry Raecke, and Veronica Abigail Fink, a secretary, filed notice yesterday of intention to wed.

Gordon, who is 48, and Miss Fink, 32, were married in Mexico last January. They said they wished to have a second ceremony performed under laws of the United States because of recent court decisions questioning the legality of certain marriages of Americans in Mexico.

CLASH PERILS CONVENTION OF B. E. F.

Delegates in Battle Over Waters; Chief Threatens to Quit

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 5.—Dissension among the delegates and rain today threatened to disrupt the first convention of the Bonus Expeditionary Force, the second day of its three-day session here.

Rain drove the convention delegates from the open air Sands Boxing Arena into a vacant warehouse where dissension cropped out among newly-arrived delegates over the election of Walter W. Waters as national commander yesterday. It was the second attack on Waters in two days, and was laid to members of the B. E. F. rank and file. Left Wing of the original B. E. F.

Waters adherents weathered the storm, and a vote on the executive committee report confirmed the election.

At one point in the morning session, Chairman George Anthony, of Chicago, asked to be relieved from the chair and Capt. Hoke Smith, national field officer, threatened to suspend the convention and issue a recall to faithful members of the origina B. E. F. behind closed doors.

CLASH ON RULES

The debate came during a discussion of rules submitted by the rules committee. Four or five delegates were on their feet at the same time, all trying to talk, and wild disorder prevailed while Chairman Anthony sought to relinquish his seat.

Pounding on the table with a club, Anthony shouted:

"Listen, you guys. You don't know the meaning of the word "buddies" and I'm asking you now to get yourself a new chairman."

Smith jumped to his feet. He said:

"If Anthony goes, I'll go, and I'll suspend this convention right now because I had the authority to call it, and I'll call a new convention with the right kind of representatives and I'll hold it behind locked doors."

National Contact Officer Kleinholtz, of New York, an aide of Waters, demanded to know how how many of the delegates were members of the B. E. F. All raised hands, and when he asked how many were members of the B. E. F. rank and file, one man was pointed out by a delegate. This individual, questioned, admitted his membership in the rank and file and Smith started for him, shouting:

"Well, you'll go right out."

BATTLE AVERTED

Others intervened, however, and it was agreed to allow the delegate to remain.

The convention adjourned until after lunch and the delegates straggled to the improvised field kitchen in a blacksmith shop in the rear of the warehouse, grumbling.

At this afternoon's session it was planned to submit the rules and to adopt a charter for the B. E. F. in place of the one drawn up temporarily at Washington which was never officially adopted.

Starting with questions from Thomas Carlson, Baltimore delegate, who wanted to know why Waters was not in attendance, the discussion yesterday grew hotter until Frank Coffin, of the left wing group of veterans known as the B. E. F. "rank and file," openly accused the Washington commander of "selling out."

CRITIC BOOED

Coffin was booed down when he declared Waters had told him:

"I guess they got us licked."

The Oregon man, Coffin asserted, had shown the white feather by this remark and, the speaker declared:

"We need a man who can't be licked."

George Kleinholz accused the speaker of "backstabbing" and declared:

"Our commander is sick. He didn't think about his health when he led the first bonus army across the continent from Oregon and he didn't have time to think of his health down in Washington, but I want you fellows to know that he's got to think of his health right now or he'll soon be in his grave.

Locomotive Water Saves Homes, Mill

A freight engine supplied water with which the Oakmont and four Plum township fire companies yesterday fought flames in a huge pile of timber slabs along Hulton road and saved adjoining buildings. Firemen were helpless until a Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad freight train arrived. Then lines were attached to the locomotive's 22,000-gallon water tank and the blaze checked, saving several houses and a mill.

Physician's Guest Stricken, Recovers

Dr. John F. Erdman, noted New York surgeon and here as one of the principal guest speakers at the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania convention, today had recovered from a sudden illness.

Dr. Erdman, professor of surgery at Columbia University and consulting surgeon for six New York hospitals, suffered an intestinal attack shortly after arriving here yesterday. He was rushed to Mercy Hospital. He is preparing to leave tonight for New York.

GENEVA PUSHES HOOVER ARMS CUT PLAN

International News Service.

GENEVA, Oct. 5—President Hoover's disarmament plan passed its first stage today when the special committee on effectives of the disarmament conference agreed to divide the armies of the world into two divisions—one for the defense and the other for "police" work.

The "police" division will be composed of "irreducible minimums" to be figured on the armed strength of the world at the close of the war, as set forth in the Versailles treaty. It will include colonial armies, national police and militia needed for internal order.

SUBJECT TO REDUCTION

The defense division will be subject to reduction. The proposal, introduced by Hugh Wilson, American minister to Switzerland, represented only a question of principle, but its adoption cleared the way for genuine measures in behalf of reduction at the next disarmament conference.

Meanwhile, British spokesmen and diplomats representing small powers here were unanimous today in crediting Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, with originating the proposal for the London five-power conference designed to heal the Franco-German armament wounds.

But there was marked difference in the attitude of the two groups. Proudly, the British declared:

"It was MacDonald's idea."

PESSIMISTIC ASSENT

Bitterly, because the conference proposes to leave them in the cold, small power diplomats nodded pessimistic assent.

Displaying great interest in this conference, Norman H. Davis, American disarmament expert, was scheduled to leave here tonight for London, ostensibly to participate in the Anglo-American naval discussions soon to begin there.

His manner led to the belief, however, he would take active part in the five-power attempt to bring Germany back into the disarmament conference here, which is now largely "in the air" because of her absence.

A British official said the London parley would be a continuation of discussions launched here when Secretary of State Stimson was here and conferred at length with European statesmen at the Villa Bessinge.

Among those with whom Stimson exchanged ideas at that time were Prime Minister MacDonald, Andred Tardieu, of France, Dino Grandi, of Italy, and the former German chancellor, Heinrich Buening.

WORK ON POLO FIELD HALTED

The first official act of County Director of Parks Alexander Marion was to stop work on the polo field in South Park.

A report submitted by E. F. Schmidt, planning commission engineer, to the County Commissioners yesterday, said there are 90,000 tons of coal under the field which is being removed by the Pittsburgh Coal Company. The coal is valued at 25 cents a ton in place.

Schmidt and Marion were authorized to confer with the coal company on getting the coal at a lower price.

In the meantime there will be no further work on the field designed to provide Allegheny County residents with a place to play equestrian shinny, at least until they can be assured that in the heat of a game their mounts will not drop down into a coal mine.

Blonde Waitresses Declared 'Flighty'

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Appearance is the most important attribute of a waitress, A. D. Stone, of Chicago, told the fourteenth annual convention of the National Restaurant Association, and brunettes do a better job than do the blondes. In addressing the convention yesterday he said:

"Blondes are apt to be a bit flighty."

Springdale Elects Shoop as Burgess

Justice of the Peace Earl A. Shoop was elected Burgess of Springdale last night at a borough Council meeting. He will fill the unexpired term of the late J. W. Johnston. He was opposed by George Stoup.

Edward Stix, the borough auditor, was elected to Council to fill the vacancy created by Harry Bean moving from the borough.

E. F. Albee Leaves $3,276,012 Estate

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Edward F. Albee, president of Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corporation, who died at Palm Beach, Fla., March 11, 1930, left a net estate of $3,276,012, a transfer tax appraisal filed yesterday showed. The bulk of the estate went to the widow. The Percy Williams Home and the Actors' Fund of America each received $100,000.

'Hate' Text Books Rejected in Germany

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Two school "catechisms" devised for teaching of hatred of the Versailles treaty in the German schools, were rejected today by the education committee of the Prussian diet. One was submitted by the National Socialists and the other by the Nationalists.

Eels on Way to Sea Clog Big Pump At Bellefonte

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Oct. 5.—Fresh water eels have started their run to their ocean breeding grounds. Evidence to this effect developed when the big hydraulic pump used to force water from Bellefonte's big spring into the borough mains slowed down to only a few revolutions a minute.

Supt. J. D. Seibert drew off the water and found the big turbine waterwheel clogged with eels. A workman removed nine of them, several of which measured over four feet in length and were as thick as a man's forearm.

CASHBOX TAKEN IN RAID 'STOLEN'

William H. Sarrichs, 32, of Sharpsburg, arrested by prohibition agents in a raid yesterday on the Hotel Delmont, second floor, 120 Federal street, was held for court by the United States commissioner on a complaint charging he took possession of a cash register, after it and other property were confiscated by the raiding party.

Government witnesses testified he lifted the register from a truck and handed it over to men in a passing machine. A charge of interfering with the agents was dismissed.

Harry Bernstein, 25, and Sam Brown, arrested on charges of sale and possession of contraband liquor, gave bonds of $1,500 each, pending a hearing. Bond for Sarrichs was also set at $1,500.

CITY MAY TAKE OVER HOSPITAL

One hospital in Pittsburgh is in such dire financial straits it may have to be taken over by the city, according to a statement of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania, stressing the need for aid for all hospitals in the present emergency.

The association said:

"The paralysis evident in general business has crippled the important revenue side of the average hospital. Patients who formerly paid for de luxe accommodations now are seeking the lowest-priced rooms or are even being admitted to pavilions as free cases. Struggling valiantly to keep up the hospital tradition of never failing the poor, hospitals today are at the end of their resources. Without generous community support from those who can spare it, the hospitals ultimately must falter in meeting their obligation to the men, women and children who have become impoverished."

HOOVER TRAIN TO STOP HERE 5 MINUTES

Speeding back to Washington after opening his campaign in the Middle West, President Hoover and his party were to pay Pittsburgh another brief visit tonight.

The presidential party, on a special train, will arrive at the Federal street station of the Pennsylvania Railroad at 6:25 p. m. After a five-minute stop it will continue to Altoona.

Republican County Chairman W. H. Coleman was making plans to have a reception committee meet the President during his brief stop here.

The special train passed through Pittsburgh late Monday night carrying the President to Des Moines, Ia. The President had retired when the train stopped in the Pennsylvania station for a brief layover at 11:20 p. m.

GUTHRIE 2ND ON BANK BOARD

Francis S. Guthrie, president of the Dollar Savings Bank, of Pittsburgh, has been designated as vice chairman of the board of directors of the Pittsburgh branch of the Home Loan Bank, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington.

W. F. Bell, of Beaver Falls, building and loan executive, will be president, while Ernest T. Trigg, of Philadelphia, has been named chairman of the board. Hubbs Weimer, secretary of the Duquesne Heights Building and Loan Association, was named a director.

FIGHT ON 'MA'S' VICTORY FAILS

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Gov. Ross Sterling's election contest suit against the nomination of Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson was ruled out of court today. District Judge W. F. Robertson held that the Legislature was the only body which has proper authority to hear such a contest.

Gov. Sterling charged in his suit that 50,000 illegal votes were cast in the election and asked for a recount.

Penna. Drys Name Senate Candidate

HARRISBURG, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Dr. Edwin J. Fithian, of Grove City, has been named Prohibition party candidate for United States Senator, G. D. Marger, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the party, announced today. He said he had filed papers at the capital for the nomination.

Marger said:

"Dr. Fithian will be backed by a host of dry leaders who have stated that they will not and cannot support either Mr. Rupp or Senator Davis."

HOOVER PLEADS WITH IOWA FARMERS TO FOLLOW G. O. P. TO END SLUMP

Crisis Averted, Tide Turned, President Tells Iowans

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 5.—President Hoover, in his address here last night, said in part:

My purpose tonight is to deal with some of the problems of the day. Seldom in our history have we gone through greater dangers or have the difficulties before the nation been of such gravity.

We have fought an unending war against the effect of these calamities upon our people. We have carried on an unceasing campaign to protect the nation from that unhealing class bitterness which arises from strikes and lockouts and industrial conflict. We have accomplished this through the willing agreement of employer and labor.

All these battles, related and unrelated, have had a single strategy and a single purpose.

They have been waged and have succeeded in protecting you from infinitely greater harm which could have come to you.

Let no man tell you that it could not be worse. It could be so much worse that these days now, distressing as they are, would look like veritable prosperity.

Many of these battles have had to be fought in silence without the cheers of the limelight or the encouragement of public support, because the very disclosure of the forces opposed to us would have undermined the courage of the weak and induced panic in the timid, which would have destroyed the very basis of success. Hideous misrepresentation and unjustified complaint had to be accepted in silence.

Tells of Money Crisis

Mr. Hoover for the first time told some of the inside story of the trying days when many financial leaders feared the United States would be forced off the gold standard. He said:

I wish to describe one of the battles we have fought to save this nation from a defeat that would have dragged farmers and city dwellers alike down to a common ruin. This battle was fought parallel with other battles on other fronts. Much of what I will tell you have been hitherto undisclosed.

Happily, we have won this battle. There is no longer any danger from disclosure.

Our own speculative boom had weakened our own economic structure, but the critical assaults and dangers swept upon us from foreign countries.

We were therefore plunged into a battle against invading forces of destruction from abroad to preserve the financial integrity of our government; to counteract the terrific forces of deflation aligned against us; to protest the debtor class who were being strangled by the contraction of credit and the demands for payment of debt; to prevent our being pushed off the gold standard, which in our country would have meant disaster to every person who owed money; and finally to preserve the savings of the American people.

When 18 months ago the financial systems of Europe were no longer able to stand the strain of their war inheritances and of their after-war economic and political policies, an earthquake ran through 40 nations.

First one and then another of these 40 nations either abandoned payment in gold of their obligations to other countries, or restricted payments by their citizens to foreign countries, so as practically to amount to at least temporary or partial repudiation of public and private debts.

Replies to Roosevelt

Without mentioning Gov. Roosevelt, his rival for the presidency, by name, Mr. Hoover paused at one stage of his speech to answer one of the statements made by Roosevelt last week in Iowa. He said:

An amazing statement was made a few days ago in this state that the passage of the tariff act of 1930 "started such a drain on the gold reserves of the principal commercial countries as to force practically all of them off the gold standard."

The facts are that the tariff act was not passed until nearly one year after the depression began. The earthquake started in Europe, the gold of Europe was not drained; it has increased in total every year since the passage of the act—and is right now $1,500,000,000 greater than when the act was passed, and the tariff is still on.

It has been my daily task to analyze and know the forces which brought these calamities.

The first of these perils was the steady strangulation of credit through the removal of three billions of gold and currency by foreign drains and by hoarding from the channels of our commerce and business.

Federal Revenues Drop

And there were other forces equally dangerous. The tax income of the federal government is largely based upon profits and income. As these profits and income disappeared, the federal revenues fell by nearly one-half, and thus the very stability of the federal treasury was imperiled.

The third peril, which we escaped only by the most drastic action, was that of being forced off the gold standard.

A considerable part of farm mortgages, most of our industrial and all of our government, most of our state and municipal bonds, and most other long-term obligations are written as payable in gold.

I have told you of the enormous sums of gold and exchange drained from us by foreigners. These drains had at one moment reduced the amount of gold we could spare for current payments to a point where the Secretary of the Treasury informed me that unless we could put into effect a remedy, we could hold to the gold standard but two weeks longer because of inability to meet the demands of foreigners and our own citizens for gold.

Chaos Threatened

Being forced off the gold standard in the United States meant utter chaos. Never was our nation in greater peril.

In the midst of this hurricane the Republican administration kept a cool head and rejected every counsel of weakness and cowardice. Some of the reactionary economists urged that we should allow the liquidation to take its course until we have found bottom.

We demonstrated that we should not enter the morass of using the printing press for currency or bonds. All human experience has demonstrated that that path once taken cannot be stopped, and that the moral integrity of the government would be sacrificed, because ultimately both currency and bonds would become valueless.

The battalions and regiments and armies thus mobilized for this great battle turned the tide toward victory by July. The foreigners drew out most of their money, but finding that the American dollar rang honest on every counter, in new confidence they are sending it back.

We won this great battle to protect our people at home. We held the Gibraltar of world stability. The world today has a chance. It is growing in strength.

The President continued on the same theme, but next directly assailed the leadership of the Democratic party, saying:

Let him be thankful for the presence in Washington of a Republican administration, I say this with full consideration of its portent, for I wish to call your attention to the part which the dominating leadership of the Democratic party has played in this great crisis.

You will recollect that the Congressional election two years ago gave the control of the lower House of Congress to our opponents. They were also in position to control the policies of the Senate one year later, when the new Congress assembled last December in the midst of the crisis, they presented no program. The administration did present a program which has saved the country from complete disaster.

They passed a price-fixing bill creating what might be colloquially called the "rubber dollar." I opposed this. It was held up in the Senate. They passed a provision for loans to corporations and everybody else whether they were affected and guarded by public interest or not. It would have made the government the most gigantic pawnbroker of history. I vetoed this measure.

This program was passed through the Democratic House of Representatives under the leadership of the gentleman who has been nominated the Democratic candidate for Vice President, and thus these measures and policies were approved by their party.

Would Widen Tariff

The Republican party originated and proposes to maintain the protective tariff on agricultural products. We will even widen that tariff further where necessary to protect agriculture.

The removal of or reduction of the tariff on farm products means a flood of them into the United States from every direction, and either you would be forced to still further reduce your prices or your products would rot on your farms.

This bipartisan tariff commission has now been engaged for over 18 months in an effective revision of the tariff.

What the Democratic party proposes is to reduce your farm tariffs. Aside from ruin to agriculture, such an undertaking in the midst of this depression will disturb every possibility of recovery.

Mr. Hoover turned to the activities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, saying:

We have sought to further aid the whole mortgage situation by loans from the Reconstruction Corporation to banks, mortgage companies and insurance companies to enable them to show consideration to their farmer borrowers. As a result of these actions hundreds of thousands of foreclosures have been prevented.

I conceive that in this civilization of ours and more particularly under our distinctive American system, there is one primary necessity to its permanent success. That is, we must build up men and women in their own homes, on their own farms, where they may find their own security and express their own individuality.

And for prompt and practical action I have, during the past month, secured definite and positive steps in co-ordination of the policies not only of the federal agencies but the important private mortgage agencies as well. These agencies have undertaken to give their help.

I cannot over-emphasize the importance of the element of world-stability in the recovery and expansion of our agricultural markets. This involves the promotion of good will, of disarmament, and of maintained peace.

And in connection with agriculture I may mention the question of war debts. I do not approve cancellation of these debts.

In my acceptance address, I stated the exact reverse of this proposal. I am prepared to go farther. I am prepared to recommend that any annual payment on the foreign debt be used for the specific purpose of securing an expansion of the foreign markets for American agricultural products. "There is justice in that, for the difficulties inherited from the war are part of your difficulties today. That is a proposal of more importance to the farmer than any panacea.

Describes Emergency That Imperiled Gold Standard

DISEASE TRAILS HURRICANE

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Disease, stalking in the path of the recent hurricane, has raised a new menace to Puerto Rico.

Doctors reported malaria and influenza were spreading in the towns of Luquillo, Fajardo and other sections, and that water contamination caused a fear of typhoid. Anti-typhoid innoculations already have begun.

The housing problem also is presenting new difficulties. The National Guard and the 65th United States Infantry have surrendered their tents to provide shelter for the homeless. Gov. Beverley yesterday cabled an order to New York for 300 tents, 2,000 cots and 2,000 blankets.

Yes, Madam!

Washing dishes has always been hard on hands

BUT see how kind the quick New Oxydol is!

Now you needn't dread putting your hands into dishwater three times a day. There's a new soap that does the work in double-quick time and still is kind to hands!

Sprinkle the New Oxydol in your dishpan, turn on the water—and you'll see why this soap does so much!

You've never had such gorgeous suds—rich, thick, lasting suds—50% more suds. Suds that do the work for you so fast your hands are hardly in the dishpan at all. Suds that cut the grease like lightning and rinse off so dishes are sparkling clean before you know it. Every particle of New Oxydol dissolves instantly into thick, long-lasting suds so there are no gummy balls of soap floating around—so water doesn't get greasy—so there's no scum left in the pan.

Try Oxydol for clothes too—see how fast those extra, long-lived suds soak clothes snowy white without rubbing—how clean and sweet-smelling your clothes come out.

And remember that it makes rich suds in any water—and all water turns hard when you put in dirty dishes or clothes. Ask your grocer today for the big bull's-eye package—you'll bless the day you learned its name.

The October Coat Sale

Confirms the Fact that Horne's Puts Fashion First

In preparing for this important event, our Buyers went into the market equipped with the fundamental knowledge of what the real elements of the winter coat mode are, and knowing the best fashion sources in which to find them smartly expressed. With the result that every coat in the sale shows an individual way of presenting the new silhouette; every coat emphasizes the fact that the point of interest must be somewhere above the waistline, expressed in full sleeves, broad shoulders, wide, sweeping collars or capes; and every coat impresses one with the truth that fabrics have undergone a delightful change, and that color harmony between fabric and fur plays a great part in coat fashions this season.

More than 1,000 coats, more than 100 models, for women, small women and misses, attest to the fact that the October Coat Sale at Horne's is a complete fashion exhibit, as well as a great value-giving event.

GOV. ROOSEVELT, SMITH RESUME FRIENDSHIP

bany. But in the end the combined influence of Smith and Roosevelt proved too much for him. It marked the first defeat of Tammany in a real contest in state affairs for a long time.

Mutual friends of Smith and Roosevelt were elated today over the melting of the iceberg that has separated the two since the contest for the Democratic presidential nomination started many months ago.

A hot, tired and jaded convention awaited word from the conference of leaders concerning the state ticket, and a scant three hours before the legal filing limit the word came that Curry had lost and that Smith and Roosevelt had put over their man, Col. Lehman.

On the heels of the news came both Smith and Roosevelt to the convention. To Smith had been given the assignment of nominating Lehman and to Roosevelt of seconding it as a delegate from his home county.

PEACE MEETING

As he was pushed, red faced and perspiring, to the platform, Smith passed down a long line, shaking hands on every side. Immediately behind the speaker's rostrum sat Roosevelt. He had risen as "Al" pushed his way through the crowded aisles, and was standing as Smith reached the rostrum.

Their hands met midway. Smith, grinning, said:

"How are you, Frank?"

Roosevelt, smiling, responded:

"How are you, Al?"

In the struggle through the milling mob to get Smith on the platform, the photographers had been shoved off and so lost the coveted picture. After order had been restored, they posed for five minutes and after Smith had spoken, they posed again, shaking hands.

Smith's only mention of Roosevelt's name in his speech was in connection with state affairs.

DONOVAN URGES DRY REPEAL

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Declaring that he himself stood for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and that he believed "President Hoover has met this issue very squarely," Col. William J. Donovan accepted last night the Republican nomination for governor of New York. Col. Donovan said:

"It is because of my belief that a straightjacket regulation in our fundamental law impairs the flexibility of our government and destroys respect for the Constitution itself, that I have stated and do state now, that I am for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, but I am of the opinion that President Hoover has met this issue very squarely."

Declaring that for the last four years the state of New York has needed "the energy and devotion of a courageous and efficient governor," but has had instead "a presidential candidate," Col. Donovan added:

"It is apparent now that from the first day the Governor entered the executive mansion at Albany he has been engaged in an active campaign for the nomination he now holds."

MAN WOUNDED, JAIL OFFICER

CANONSBURG, Pa., Oct. 5.—A nervous trigger finger today had put Harry Green, 35, in Canonsburg Hospital with a bullet wound in his abdomen and Constable John W. Herriott, of McDonald, in the Washington County Jail.

Herriott, serving a desertion and non-support warrant on Green, drew his gun, he told Washington County detectives, because he had been informed Green was a "bad actor." Green will recover. No charge has been preferred against Herriott.

8 BANDITS RAID TOWN, ROB BANK

DELAWARE, O., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Eight bandits wrecked the safe of the Galena Banking Company at Galena, near here, early today and escaped with about $300 in gold after cutting all telephone and telegraph wires leading to the town.

The bandits fled from the bank with the gold in one sack and about $3,200 in currency, but for some unknown reason abandoned the currency near the town, where it was found later by two men en route to work.

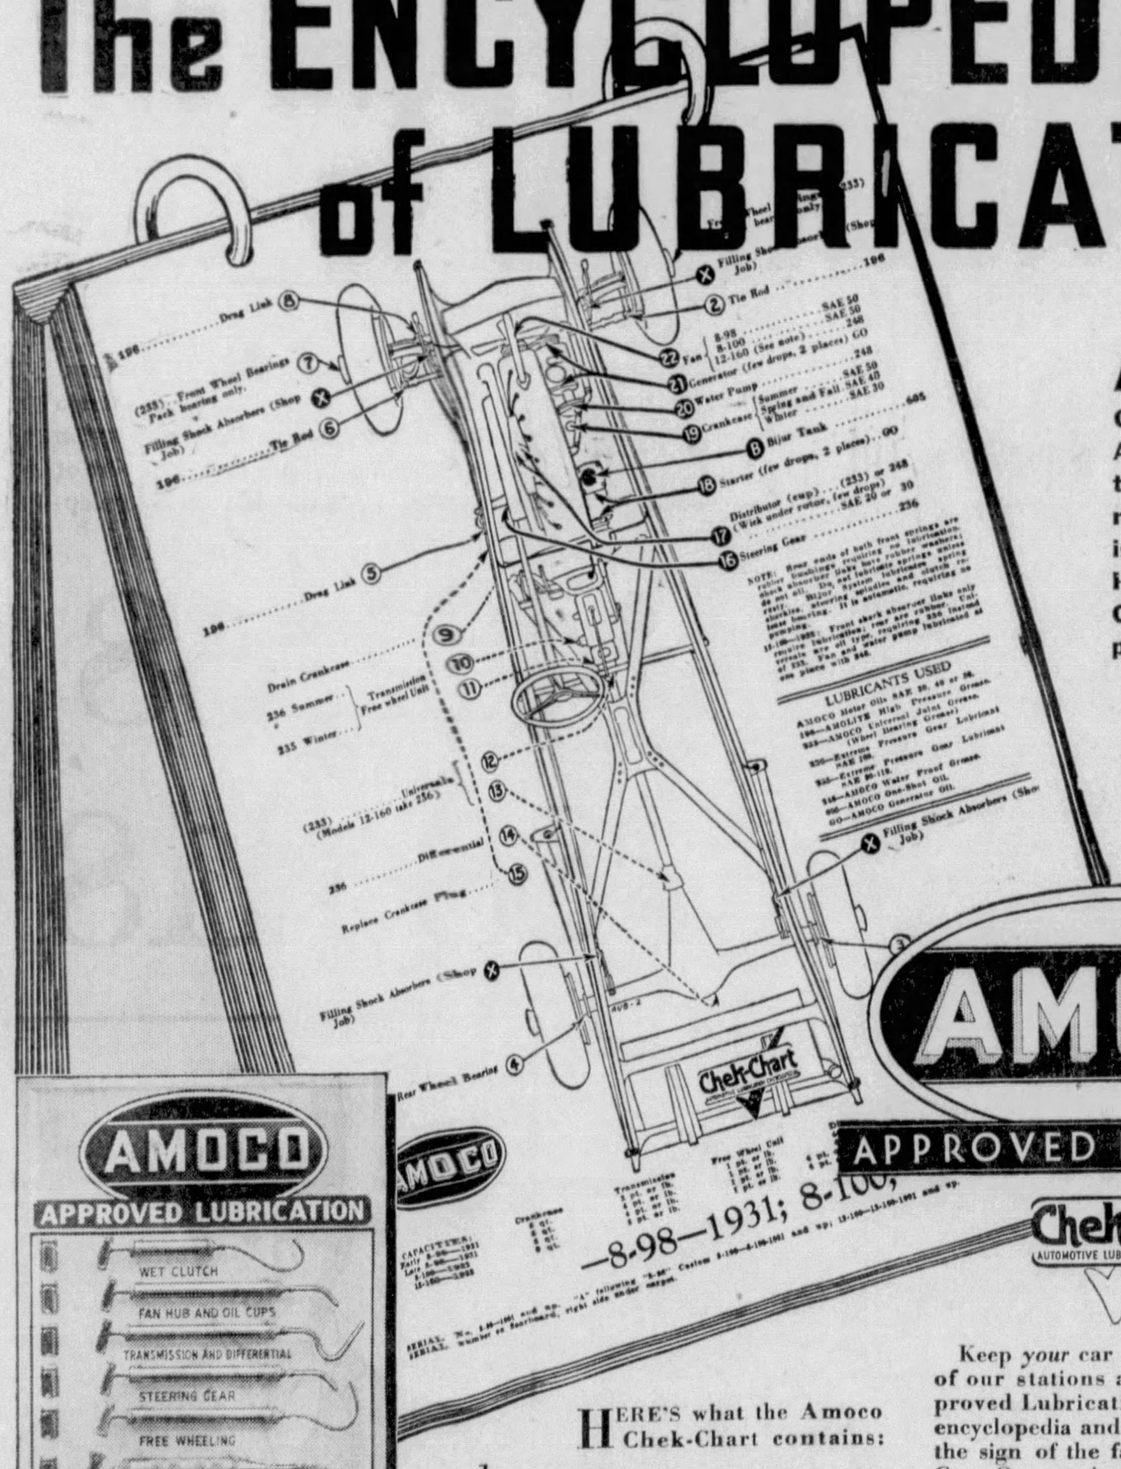
AMOCO APPROVED LUBRICATION

The ENCYCLOPEDIA of LUBRICATION



AMOCO APPROVED LUBRICATION

to keep cars HEALTHY

IN Amoco Approved Lubrication Service, there's a specialized Amoco lubricant for every part requiring lubrication—a specialized gun for its application, and a specially trained man for the job.

HERE'S what the Amoco Chek-Chart contains:

1. Over eighty diagrams of all current car models.
2. Complete lubricating tables of all car models in use over the last five years.
3. Complete information as to the proper grades of motor oils to be used for Winter driving, ordinary Summer driving, high speed Summer driving.
4. General car information, such as crank case capacities, radiator capacities, transmission and differential capacities.
5. Special notes on one-shot lubricating systems, universals, spring shackles, wheel bearings, water pumps, steering gears, etc.
6. Description of the various oils and greases to be used and why they are used.

Thus in lubricating any car the Amoco way, nothing is left to chance. Every car is serviced with Amoco Lubricants in line with car manufacturers' instructions.

Yet all this service costs you not a penny extra. You pay only the same as for an old fashioned "grease job".

AND now Amoco introduces the Amoco Chek-Chart as an added service to Amoco Approved Lubrication. Expert as our service men are, the Amoco policy is to leave nothing to chance. Hence the Amoco Chek-Chart--a complete encyclopedia on all motor car lubrication and maintenance.

DIVORCES GIVEN TWO WIVES

Mrs. Caroline Hamm Peterman, 45, of 3017 Perrysville avenue, financed a produce business for her husband, James Paul Peterman, and when her money ran out he left her, saying he would return if she gave him more cash, she testified in Common Pleas Court. Judge Samuel H. Gardner granted her a divorce.

Jean E. Limpert, 20, of 909 Warrington avenue, resented living with her husband's parents, so her husband took her to her mother's home and that was the last she saw of him, she testified in her suit for a divorce from Claude B. Limpert, granted by Judge Gardner. Married May 8, 1930, they parted five weeks later, she said.

Divorce suits were filed by Leona L. Cole against Claude S. Cole. Vera Harris against L. D. Harris. Raymond Martin against Stella Martin. Thelka Neely against Edwin Neely.

WOMAN KILLED, 1 HURT IN CRASH

Mrs. Virginia Kennedy, 20, of 1910 Tours street, Troy Hill, was killed and Mrs. Billie Sigal, also of Pittsburgh, was injured seriously when an automobile in which they were riding skidded and overturned after a collision on the highway four miles east of Norwalk, O., yesterday, according to word received by city detectives from Norwalk police.

Mrs. Kennedy, separated from her husband, left home Monday night for Toledo to obtain employment, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Moody, said. The parents had been caring for her 16-month-old-boy. Moody, jobless for six months, said he was without funds and began a search for his daughter's husband.

COAL CUT LAID TO RATE, TAX

Freight rates and taxes have brought the coal industry in Western Pennsylvania to a point where its once broad markets have shrunk to a triangle bounded by Lorain, O., and Rochester, N. Y., according to J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company.

The freight rates were deliberately designed to put West Virginia and Kentucky coal into the markets once served by Pennsylvania mines, Morrow stated. As a result, output in Western Pennsylvania has declined and profits have vanished, he declared.

PRESIDENT HITS AT WHISPERING CAMPAIGN

of these personalities necessitate a direct word from me.

"I shall say the only harsh words here I have uttered in public office. I hope it will be the last I shall have to say.

"When you are told the President of the United States who by the most sacred trust of our nation is President of all the people, a man of your own blood and upbringing, has sat in the White House for three years of your misfortunes without troubling to know your burdens, without heart-aches over your miseries and casualties, without summoning every avenue of skillful assistance irrespective of party or view, without using every ounce of his strength in straining his every nerve to protect and help, without using every possible agency of democracy that would bring aid, without putting aside personal ambitions and humbling his pride of opinion if that would serve, then I say to you that such statements are deliberate, intolerable falsehoods!"

CHEERS FOR HEARTACHES

Hoover's talk was interrupted by prolonged cheering when he referred to heart-aches which he had suffered in the White House.

Last night, at the Iowa State capital, Mr. Hoover took off his gloves and traded vicious body punches with his Democratic opposition and heard himself cheered to the echo at every turn.

To the farmers, he offered a 12-point program of relief, outstanding of which was a promise to recommend to Congress that "any annual payment on the foreign debt be used for the specific purpose of securing an expansion of the foreign markets for American agriculture."

AGAINST CANCELLATION

And speaking of the billions owed this country by Europe, the executive said flatly:

"I do not approve cancellation of these debts."

Appealing further to the mortgage-stricken farmers of the corn belt and elsewhere, the President said he would insist that the next session of Congress re-organize the Federal Land Banks in such fashion as to give the ruralists actual, rather than theoretical relief.

Striking at Gov. Roosevelt's several speeches on farm relief, Mr. Hoover told his audience:

"I come to you with no economic patent medicine especially compounded for farmers. I refuse to offer counterfeit currency or false hopes. I will not make any pledge to you which I cannot fulfill."

ATTACKS GARNER

The President leveled his biggest guns chiefly on Speaker John N. Garner, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, and the Democratic program put through the House last session under Garner's guidance. Speaking specifically of what he termed the "pork barrel" public building bill, the measure to pay off the bonus with fiat money and the effort to revoke the flexible clause of the tariff act, he said:

"These measures were not simply gestures for vote catching. These ideas and measures represented the true sentiments and doctrines of the majority in the control of the Democratic party. At no time in public discussion of the vital issues of this campaign has any Democratic candidate, high or low, disavowed these destructive acts which must emerge again if they come to power. Do you propose to place these men in power and subject this country to that sort of measures and policies?"

Presidential Trend by States

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

MAGNATE'S SON SUED BY WIFE

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Mrs. Elizabeth V. Loeb started action in Supreme Court at Mineola yesterday for a divorce from William Loeb, Jr., charging unfaithfulness. In a separate action charging alienation of her husband's affections she asked $100,000 damages from the parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Loeb.

Mrs. Loeb was Elizabeth V. Nagy, doctor of philosophy and instructor in philosophy at Smith College, girls' school at Northampton, Mass. In 1926 she married Loeb, who was then 20, a student at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., and eight years her junior.

Loeb, Sr., is vice president of the American Smelting and Refining Company, with offices in New York, and an estate at Oyster Bay. He was stenographer and private secretary to Theodore Roosevelt when he was Governor of New York and remained with Roosevelt to become secretary to the President from 1903 to 1909. He was later collector of the port of New York.

Father Dies in Fall 'Skinning the Cat'

WARDENVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Wilbur H. Long died yesterday in a Winchester hospital from injuries suffered when he fell from a tree while "skinning the cat" to amuse his children.

G. O. P. CHANGES SPEAKERS' LIST

Republican headquarters includes the name of County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern in the list of speakers for the meeting Saturday night in Wilkinsburg, at which Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, will make the principal address. The name of Congressman Clyde Kelly, originally included in the speakers' list, is omitted in the latest release from Republican headquarters.

Other speakers scheduled are County Chairman William H. Coleman, W. J. McGregor and Representative Mary T. Denman, of Westmoreland County.

Mrs. Laura Hinnua presided yesterday at a meeting of vice chairmen of Pittsburgh wards.

Tonight County Chairman Coleman is to met leaders from the Tenth Legislative District to organize that section on behalf of the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

Game Warden Shot, Police Seek Trapper

LILLOOET, B. C., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Police sought Frank Gott, 76-year-old trapper, today after two ranch employes saw A. P. Farley, game warden, shot and killed as he stooped to examine a deer skin at Gott's camp.

A note found at Gott's place, police said, indicated he planned suicide. They said Gott and Farley had been enemies.

GOV. ROOSEVELT STILL GAINS IN POLL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—The steady upward climb of Roosevelt shown in the nation-wide postcard poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers, in the border states of the South continued with this week's returns, as Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina added substantially to their previous Democratic poll majorities.

These states are giving Roosevelt 60 per cent or more of their poll replies.

It appears not a question of whether they will go Democratic, but how big their majorities will be in November. They went Republican four years ago. They gave Roosevelt on this week's poll more than three to two of 9,000 ballots received.

Gov. Roosevelt staged a comeback in Delaware this week.

After losing ground steadily for a month the Democratic nominee scored a gain in new returns from the tiny commonwealth. It was not much of a gain, only 20 out of 184 ballots, but it was sufficient to indicate a turn in the tide in the battle for control of Delaware's three electoral votes in November.

Had President Hoover continued the headway he was making, Delaware would have been lost to Roosevelt with another week's returns. As the state now stands, Roosevelt has a majority of 47, with 1,359 ballots tabulated. It is still too close, with this slender margin, to remove it from the doubtful class and it probably will continue doubtful up to election time.

PRINCE TO WED AMERICAN

GREENWICH, Conn., Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Mrs. Florence Sheldon Jaffray, formerly of Brooklyn and now of Paris, will wed Prince Witold de Balabane, of Paris, son of Prince Dimitri de Balabane and Countess Stabislawa Gebrowska, of Poland, her mother, Mrs. Alexander K. Sheldon, announced yesterday. The wedding date has not been set.

Mrs. Jaffray was graduated from Brooklyn Heights Seminary in 1915. During the World War, she was a member of the Brooklyn unit of ambulance corps, where she met Frank Burton Jaffray, member of the Motor Transport Corps. They were wed and subsequently divorced. Prince de Balabane is reported to be extremely wealthy and is one of the best known engineers on the continent.

Munhall to Stress Fire Prevention

Inaugurating "Fire Prevention Week," Munhall firemen will parade the principal streets of the borough on Saturday. Two hundred men will be in line, headed by Councilman H. W. Crider as chief marshal. During the following week, speakers will make addresses to children in the schools.

One More Chance To Register for Election

Residents of cities in Allegheny County who have been assessed, still have one chance to qualify in order to vote at the November election.

Saturday will be the third and last registration day in the cities. This is also the last day to pay poll taxes. Only those regularly assessed can pay taxes.

September 7 was the last day to be assessed.

DAVIS JURYMAN PAYS $100 FINE

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Henry F. Moore, the juror who caused a mistrial in the lottery trial of United States Senator James J. Davis, today paid a fine of $100 for contempt of court.

Moore was held in contempt by Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman yesterday for having called on Charles J. Margiotti, of defense counsel, and informed him another member of the jury was attempting to prejudice the panel against the Pennsylvania legislator.

Judge Coleman gave him the choice of paying the fine or serving five days in jail.

The retrial in the Davis case is tentatively set for next Monday, but defense attorneys have indicated they would ask for a delay so that Senator Davis may return to Pennsylvania to campaign for re-election.

Roosevelt Victory In West Held Sure

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(Universal.)—Every state west of the Mississippi River, except possibly Wyoming, Kansas and Colorado, is safely in the Roosevelt-Garner column, according to Senator Pittman (Dem.), of Nevada.

Pittman, who traveled on the Roosevelt train through the West, said the bitter factional fights in California had been ironed out, indicating a sweeping victory for the national ticket in November.

YOUTH ESCAPES 'SUICIDE SQUAD'

LONDON, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—The escape of a young Stanford University graduate after 19 months in the French Foreign Legion was revealed in a dispatch from Gibraltar to the London Daily Mail today. He was Robert Young, 22, whose home was thought to be in Hollywood, Cal.

The dispatch said he was placed in a hospital at Gibraltar upon his arrival there, suffering from exposure.

Young was attached to the famed "suicide company" of the Legion. He was involved in the train wreck in Algeria last month, and during the confusion he managed to escape with an Italian compaion, the dispatch said.

Together they trudged 125 miles without food and water to the border, where it became necessary to swim across a river. As they were about to plunge into the water the Italian was shot dead by Arabs, but Young successfully reached Melilla, proceeding from there by boat to Malaga, Spain, and Gibraltar.

GARNER DOUBTS HOOVER CAN KEEP PROMISES

Pledges Disregarded In Past, Says Speaker

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—In reply to President Hoover's Iowa address, Speaker Garner in a formal statement today said:

"If we judge the promises he now makes in the light of those he has made and failed to fulfill, either his sincerity or his ability to make good his latest pledges is seriously open to question."

The text of the Democratic vice presidential nominee follows:

President Hoover's statement to the effect that he is using his good offices to prevail upon the land mortgage companies and other financial institutions to which the government has loaned hundreds of millions not to foreclose upon homes and farms is indicative of the inconsistency that has characterized his entire administration.

The President vetoed the measure that would have assured farmers the credit necessary to prevent foreclosure. He asserted at that time that it would make the government a pawnbroker, and insisted that loans be extended only to a select clientele. After extending the loans he states that he is now endeavoring to induce those who have secured the millions of government credit to be lenient with the farmers and home owners whose mortgages they hold.

BENEFITS WITHHELD

I am not criticizing the loans to banks, insurance companies, land mortgage companies and other financial organizations, but it must be obvious that extension of credit to a select few only cannot bring to this country the maximum benefits that should accrue from the release of this great volume of credit.

The farmers and home owners, who have acceptable collateral, are as much entitled to that credit as any corporation or company with equally acceptable collateral. The theory that government credit should be texnded to a select few and that the government should then supplicate the beneficiaries of this credit to be lenient with those whose mortgages they hold is contrary to all precepts of business or common sense.

President Hoover is again denouncing what he termed "pork barrel" legislation enacted by the Democartic House, but is taking credit to himself for all public construction now being initiated.

He states that the Democratic bill was for "non-productive and unnnecessary works," but there was not a major item in that bill that had not been recommended by the administration.

OPPOSITION OVERCOME

He recently boasted that public construction was being initiated under the terms of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act, but does not mention the fact that this provision of the bill was included despite opposition of the administration and administration leaders.

In the course of his Des Moines speech President Hoover said:

"The facts are that the (Hawley-Smoot) tariff act was not passed until nearly one year after the depression began."

Mr. Hoover approved the Hawley-Smoot tariff act on June 17, 1930, yet in the previous March he was still assuring a nation that prosperity was just around the corner and the turn already in sight. The fact is that the real depression found its inception from the moment Mr. Hoover affixed his signature to the indefensible bill.

Hardly had the ink dried on the President's signature of approval before more than 40 of our customer nations prepared to strike back at America. In the course of a few months these nations, resentful over the 46 per cent jump in our tariff rate, raised their tariff bars to shut out our trade.

COMMERCE STRANGLED

As a consequence, American commerce was strangled, the wheels of industry were stopped, and world progress was set back.

Everyone, with the possible exception of President Hoover and his advisors, is aware now that the Hawley-Smoot tariff has bankrupted the farmer by provoking other nations to match our insurmountable tariff walls so that the farmer cannot sell his surplus crops abroad.

Mr. Hoover is President of the United States and as such the utmost respect is due him. But at this juncture he is a candidate to succeed himself and his acts of omission as well as commission are subjects for legitimate criticism.

Offering no apologies, I say with all the emphasis at my command that if we judge the promises he now makes in the light of those he has made and failed to fulfill, either his sincerity or his ability to make good his latest pledges is seriously open to question.

In making this flat statement, I am only echoing the opinions of men and women in all walks of life, Democrats and Republicans alike, who have followed the official course of Mr. Hoover during the four years of his term now approaching its close.

PROMISES QUESTIONED

It is regrettable, yet true, that the section hand, the clerk, the little business man, the farmer, the great executive, the railroad magnate and even the big financier have, reluctantly perhaps, reached the conclusion that promises bearing Mr. Hoover's imprint, have often been made either to be studiously disregarded or, to put it charitably, overlooked.

Four long years have elapsed since Mr. Hoover voiced his first promises to the American people. Having faith in him, they took these promises at their face value in 1928 and opened the doors of the White House to him by a vote, the proportions of which measured their desire for fulfillment.

Faith of Millions Betrayed, Hope Destroyed

What with the high hopes and expectations of these millions of men and women whose confidence has been shamefully betrayed?

They have been shattered ruthlessly.

Their faith in Hoover, the man, has been dissipated and cannot be revived.

Broken promises cannot be explained away. They do not form even a flimsy foundation upon which to rear another structure of pledges calculated to help reelect a President whose lack of fitness for the office has been conclusively demonstrated — and and demonstrated by himself.

MYTHICAL ENEMIES

The President's Des Moines speech indicates that he still cherishes these same obsessions that characterized his acceptance speech. Like the famous Mr. Dooley who "marched them up the hill and marched them down again" he is battling mythical enemies and winning a victory every time he counter marches.

He still is using those long-range glasses which reveal nothing except what occurs in foreign lands. It seems impossible for him to focus them upon his own country in an effort to ascertain the real cause and effect of the depression. He has not yet discerned the fact that lack of administrative initiative and leadership and blind adherence to obsolete policies here in the United States are the fundamental cause of the domestic as well as the world conditions.

for FLAVOR for AROMA

These tiny tender leaves of "spicy" Turkish tobaccos

ENOUGH TURKISH BUT NOT TOO MUCH

—and just enough of them!

Turkish tobacco sometimes runs hundreds of little leaves to the pound. In cigarettes it is used much as seasoning is in food, for flavor and better taste.

You know that seasoning has to be used right . . . just enough of it, not too much.

Chesterfield puts in just the right amount of Turkish tobacco—the best kinds—Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Samsoun. These are not merely blended, but cross-blended with ripe, mellow Domestic tobaccos.

Enough Turkish, not too much—that's one reason why Chesterfields taste better—why they have a delicacy of aroma you do not find in other cigarettes.

LIGHT RATE CUT DETAILS GIVEN BY P. S. C.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 5.—The Public Service Commission today made public the details of the reduced rate schedule of the Duquesne Light Company which has been put into effect by the company for its consumers in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

Rate "C," applicable to residential service, is reduced by changing bill blocks and reducing the rate per kilowatt hour.

The rate for a residence of seven rooms or less is reduced from 8 cents net for the first 10 kwh per month to 7 cents net for the first 15 kwh per month. The rate in the second block is reduced from 5½ cents for the next 20 kwh to 5 cents net for the next 15 kwh. The rate in the third block remains at 4 cents per kwh, but the block is reduced from 30 kwh to 20 kwh per month. The rate of 3 cents per kwh will hereafter apply to consumption in excess of 50 kwh instead of 60 kwh.

In the old rate schedule, the consumption blocks for residences containing in them seven rooms were increased by 3 kwh per room in the first block, 6 kwh per room in the second block and 9 kwh per room in the third block, whereas the blocks for residences in excess of seven rooms under the new schedule are increased by 3 kwh per room in the first block, 3 kwh per room in the second block and 4 kwh per room in the third block. As in the old rate schedule, payment of the net rate requires payment of bill within 10 days. The minimum charge remains the same at 50 cents per month.

Rate "K," applicable to small consumers, is reduced in the first block from 8 cents per kwh. to 7 cents per kwh., and the first billing block is changed from 50 hours to 60 hours' use of the billing demand.

The exemption limit for large appliances prescribed in rate "C," applicable to residential service, is changed from 660 to 1,000 volt-amperes, and a clause has been added to this schedule to cover possible use of "luminous tube" lighting by residential customers.

WRIGLEY DOLLARS STILL GOING THE ROUNDS

Winners Express Appreciation—Wrigley Dollar Becomes Vacation Boost.

By MISS MINT

The supply of Wrigley dollar bills knows no limit. Day by day I roam about giving away dollars. Give me a chance to prove that you really can get a dollar bill in this easy manner; carry a package of Wrigley's with you.

Walking down Oliver Avenue yesterday I stopped MR. FRANCIS. W. SMITH, 44 South Howard St., and asked whether or not he had a package of Wrigley's. "Sure," he replied, "and that new cellophane wrapper is an addition to Wrigley's already perfect condition." Then Mr. Smith explained that he was just leaving on his vacation in the morning. "And," he went on, "I consider this a perfect start for a real vacation."

Others to receive their dollars were:

CHARLES R. THOMAS, 1775 Beechwood Boulevard; LOUISE COX, 7365 Hamilton Ave.; DICK SHAW, 516 Wm. Penn Way; HELEN CLARK, 420 Washington Blvd.; S. F. DAVIS, 3224 Spring Garden Ave.; FRED KILLMEYER, 2736 Spring Way; D. O. MAIR, 1522 Kelton Ave.; JOHN M. MASKS, 101 E. Agnew Ave.; KATHRYN G. WEIXEL, 3728 McClure Ave.; C. J. COCHRAN, 838 Broadway; CECILIA A. SHAFFER, 1211 Chislett St.; JOSEPH P. HANLON, R.D.1, Glenshaw; JOHN H. GLENZER, 1215 Kelly St.; MARGARET KARBILSON, 118 Linden Ave.; KATHLEEN B. HESTER, 1234 Fairmont Ave.

All right, everybody, come along, get your dollar bill, it is so easy. Just carry a package of Wrigley's gum with you at all times. Never be caught without it. The Wrigley dollar is waiting for you.

DUPUY BUTLER PLANS APPEAL FROM FINE

Counsel for Mrs. Herbert Dupuy's butler, William Allman, today was preparing an appeal from the $25 fine imposed upon him yesterday by Alderman C. W. Haas on a charge of operating an employment agency without a state permit.

It was none other than Mrs. Dupuy herself who went to the butler's aid as a character witness. She said he was an honest, capable and trustworthy servant.

The hearing brought an array of cooks, maids and chauffeurs from the homes of Pittsburgh's social elite, some to testify that they gave Allman money for assisting them to obtain employment and others to testify that they did not.

The charge was brought by John W. Borland, an inspector of the State Department of Labor. He admitted in cross-examination that one of Mrs. Dupuy's discharged servants was instrumental in the prosecution.

Allman denied the charges. He said the money given by him was for other things, among them baggage carrying and household instruction.

SLAIN WOMAN FOUND IN WELL

MONMOUTH, Ill., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—With a bullet wound in the back of the head and a 97-pound anvil tied to the waist, the body of Mrs. Alice Boyer, 50, missing farm owner, was recovered from an abandoned well on her property.

Coroner John Lugg, who performed an autopsy, said Mrs. Boyer undoubtedly was slain and her body dumped into the well.

Mrs. Boyer, a widow, disappeared September 6. Her son, David, 20, who did not report the matter until five days later, was questioned for several days, but was released. He admitted, police said, borrowing a small caliber rifle from Lou Wallace, a neighbor, the day before his mother disappeared.

Ballistic tests will be taken to determine if the bullet taken from the womn's body was fired from the same gun.

RAID IN CAPITAL SOCIAL CENTER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Traffic in one of the capital's most fashionable sections was tied up nearly an hour last night while police and federal prohibition agents raided a building that formerly housed a diplomatic mission.

H. W. Wood, 25, was arrested and charged with illegal possession and sale of liquor, and two Negro butlers, garbed in knee-pants, were taken into custody with him.

While the building housed the legation of El Salvador last year, liquor thieves broke into it and beat Dr. Don Carlos Leiva, Minister. He fought back and succeeded in driving away his assailants.

Patricia Pitt

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

Late this morning I've had some exciting news from the Junior League, which I'm going to put at the top of the column at the last minute.

The Junior League is going to have a fashion show Tuesday in the clubrooms in the Clark Building. And the members will model fall fashions from the shop conducted by one of the fashionables, Mrs. Edward H. Jennings. The show will be given three times, but I'll have to tell you the hours later.

It will be an unusual fashion show in several respects, and one of them is the admission fee, a bundle of rummage. The Thrift Shop, conducted by the league to support its nutrition clinic at the Falk Clinic, is in need of much re-stocking. And the members hope to fill the shop with all sorts of saleable articles in this way.

That energetic young matron, Mrs. Edward Gwinner III, will be chairman of the fashion show, aided by Mrs. George A. Kelly III.

* * *

There's such a variety of things to talk about today, a debutante party, a rummage sale, the entertainment of guests here for the thirteenth Synod of the Province of Washington, and ever so many other things. But debutantes do hold first place.

Bud Party In East

One of our debutantes is going east this week-end for debutante festivities there, which are much more numerous, by the way, than here at home.

Mary Thaw Dilworth, daughter of the John Crossan Dilworths, will be in New Haven, Conn., this Friday to attend the debut party of her cousin, Mary Bliss Reed.

Mary Reed will be presented to society Friday by her father and mother, the Edward Bliss Reeds. Mr. Reed is a professor at Yale, by the way.

* * *

Mrs. John L. Ritchey, of Northumberland avenue, is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Mary Anne Ritchey, to Henry Allison Young, of New York. And after the wedding, we shall lose another Pittsburgh girl.

* * *

After much searching, the Woman's Exchange has found a suitable place for its rummage sale to be held November 3, 4 and 5. It's to be at 532 Penn avenue, formerly the Select Furniture Company's location.

Rummage Sale

In the same place, nice and roomy with windows for special display, the Civic Club of Allegheny County held its rummage sale in June.

Have you realized how popular rummage sales are? Who can resist rooting through the motley collections, always with the secret hope of unearthing some antique, some object that appeals. We Americans just can't get over the notion that sometimes we can get something for almost nothing. And it does happen sometimes at a rummage sale.

The annual rummage sale of the Exchange last year netted several thousand dollars. Isn't that proof that folks enjoy thoroughly a rummage sale?

* * *

When out-of-town folk arrive here this month for the Episcopalian Thirteenth Synod of the Province of Washington to be held here October 18, 19 and 20, many of the fashionables will entertain them.

Synod Oct. 18

Mrs. Howard N. Eavenson will be in charge of the hospitality committee, aided by Mrs. Edwin S. Pickes.

3 Pittsburgh Girls In Play at Geneva

Three Pittsburgh girls were members of the cast of "Cupid and Calories," a Vassar play, presented by Frill and Dagger, honorary dramatic club of Geneva College, last night at the College Auditorium. This is the first of a series of three-act plays to be enacted by members of the club during the fall and winter months.

The cast included Miss Arnetta Elliott, Miss Margaret Caughey, Miss Margaret Gibson, Pittsburgh; Miss Margaret Pearce, Beaver Falls.

Elizabeth Anne Toner Becomes Bride of James Schultz

At a small home wedding at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning, Miss Elizabeth Anne Toner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Toner, of Elm street, Wilkinsburg, became the bride of James Edward Schultz, son of E. Schultz, of Verona. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. James Best, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg, before an embankment of cibotium ferns and palms. Mrs. George Walter played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an empire gown of white velvet with a turban to match, and carried white roses showered with lilies of the valley and tied with white tulle. Her sister, Miss Edith Toner, as maid of honor, wore a gown of golden brown velvet and carried sunset dahlias, and another sister, Mrs. J. H. Kerchner was matron of honor, and wore rust-colored velvet and carried rust-tinted chrysanthemums. Robert L. Elliot was best man.

There was a breakfast after the ceremony, with the bride's table centered with yellow and white flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Schultz left for a trip through the New England states and after October 15 will reside in Center avenue, Verona.

Literary Review Opens Drama Study on Friday

Beginning its study of modern drama and literature, the Literary Review will have a paper by Mrs. Carl F. Bauer, Jr., at its meeting Friday afternoon with Mrs. Merle Barnum, of Grent street. Mrs. Bauer will discuss the origin and classical adaptation of the theater; Mrs. Edward E. Glass will review Morgan's "The Fountain," and Mrs. Harold C. Lowe, "Peking Picnics." Mrs. Ford Miller will add current events.

Merle Mathews Married to P. J. Sorg

A wedding and a betrothal grace this fifth day of October. Although the wedding took place way last month, it has just been announced. Mr. and Mrs. James W. Mathews, of Olympia street, Mt. Washington, announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Merle Louetta Mathews, to Paul John Sorg, of Cuthbert street, at a reception in their home Thursday evening. The marriage was solemnized on Monday, September 12, in Wellsburg, W. Va.

Mrs. Grace Bicknell Olhausen, of Philadelphia, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ethel Bicknell Olhausen, to Thomas G. Conley, son of Mrs. Thomas Conley, of Pittsburgh. Mr. Conley is a graduate of Lehigh University, class of 1924.

Aspinwall P. T. A Meeting To Hear Herbert Spencer

The Aspinwall Parent Teacher Association, meeting tomorrow evening, will hear Herbert Spencer, a member of the association and principal of the Frick Training School for Teachers, speak on "The Pre-School Child." Photographs taken in the model school will illustrate the talk.

Miss Alice Long, accompanied by Miss Ruth Doner, of Wilkinsburg, will sing.

Seton Hill Dance Chairman Fetes Committee

Miss Nancy Martin, of St. Clair street, entertained at a bridge tea Saturday afternoon for the members of her dance committee. Miss Martin has been named chairman of invitations for the Seton Hill College Alumnae Ball. She has asked a number of Pittsburgh girls to serve on her committee, among them Miss Dorothy Ries, Miss Alma Slagel, Miss Marie Frey, Miss Martha Rimbach, Miss Emily Clancy, Miss Eleanor and Miss Katherine Barr, Miss Matilda Connell, Miss Joann Cassells, Miss Mariagnes Schill, Miss Madeleine Kelley and Miss Eleanor Hartman.

The committee issued several hundred invitations to the alumnae dance, which will be held in the activities building on the college campus Friday evening, October 21.

Mrs. Goldthwait Entertaining For Board

Mrs. C. F. Goldthwait, president of the Women's Club of Mt. Lebanon, is entertaining her board members today with a luncheon.

The first meeting of the senior literary section will be held in the home of Mrs. E. V. Hjort, Newburn drive. The speaker is Mrs. Theodore Wilson, one of the members, who will discuss "The History of Taxation." A short review of worthwhile plays and motion pictures of the current month will be given by Mrs. H. L. Hickling.

Health Speaker Blames Ills on Mal-Posture

A large part of the physical discomfort and functional disturbances of men and women have their foundation in mal-posture in early childhood, Dr. A. H. Freiberg, Cincinnati pediatritian, told members of the Child Health Council at their first fall luncheon meeting yesterday in Kaufmann's. Remarking that the watchword of modern medicine is prevention, Dr. Freiberg said the periodical health examination is most important and that one should consider the difference in cost between the examination and possible sickness. Braces and infrequent, although regular, class exercises will not correct mal-posture; each case needs individual and constant care, he said.

Miss Martha Leslie, the council's executive secretary, reported clinics held in 69 districts in the county at which 8,047 pre-school examinations were made.

PALE BLUE IS COMBINED WITH DARKER HUES FOR SMARTNESS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Pale blue, combined with darker colors, is one of the color surprises sprung by the fashionable dressmaking world of Paris, in advance showing of styles for the coming winter. Lanvin revives a fashion of the late nineties—pale blue with beige—in both daytime dresses and evening clothes; Lucien Lelong uses pale blue for several smart evening ensembles; both Chantal and Mirande make much use of pale blue in their afternoon clothes.

* * *

ONE OF the favorite uses of the lighter blues is for afternoon dresses, to be worn under dark coats. Dresses of this type are planned for informal luncheons, or for afternoon at bridge. They are worn with formal coats of black broadcloth or twill, lavishly trimmed with fur.

* * *

THE MAINBOCHER coat sketched today is a smart example of the type of formal coat which Paris is suggesting for early autumn and winter. It is of classic black broadcloth and follows fitted lines. The belt, which is in evidence across the front, disappears into slashes in the fabric at the sides. The sleeve decorations and the edges on the assymetrical revers are of brown mar-

* * *

THE ACCOMPANYING pale blue dress, from Maggy Rouff, shows how simply the broad-shoulder line may be effected by means of a shoulder yoke, and flared sleeves. The dress is entirely in pastel with no contrasting trim; the belt is of corded silk.

Review Making Year's Plans Known Today

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Its plans for the year are always carefully guarded and kept a deep, dark secret by the Fortnightly Review of Mt. Lebanon until the opening day. So this afternoon when the club is beginning its twenty-first year, the members are having their first glimpse of the new year books and are learning that the program committee has cleverly taken the "de" and the "i" out of "depression" and captioned the year "Press On" from the letters that remain.

Today Mrs. James Sayers Huey, the new executive, is being honored in Mrs. Frank Garratt's home, and Cass Ward Whitney, baritone, is giving the program, with Mrs. H. B. MacBeth at the piano.

"Listenin' In" is the subject for the next meeting and a "soiree" is being arranged for later in the month. In November, George Seibel, of the Sun-Telegraph, will relate "Recollections of a Book Reviewer" and, for the second meeting there's to be a program on "Behind the Great Gate." A second afternoon along the same lines will be on "The Great Gate Swings." Then comes the Christmas party and later a talk by Miss Blanche Best on "Through the Great Gate," supplemented at a subsequent meeting by four papers pursuant to "A Nation in Evolution."

A play will bring diversion in February, then an afternoon "Eastward to Persia," and another on "Why a Club?" with Mrs. J. G. Chalfant speaking; "Propaganda in Excelsis" is a March topic; the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers and Miss Edith Bane will address the members in April; the club's own "Musical Family" will appear in May and the same month there's to be an out-of-doors surprise meeting from which all sorts of unusual things may be expected by anyone who knows the originality of Fortnightly program makers. The same goes for the May 17 meeting which is designated as "W. F. R. Signing Off."

Sunday Musicale To Open Season For City Club

A busy and distinctly worth while month has been planned for members of the Woman's City Club. As Mrs. George S. Baton is beginning her third year as president, it has been decided to dispense with the president's reception and to open the year with the twilight musicale-tea on Sunday evening. The club choral will sing, directed by Mrs. Taylor Allderdice and Oscar Davis, violinist, will play, accompanied by Ferdinand Fillion.

A fashion revue is dated for next Wednesday; contract bridge evenings are October 13, 20 and 27; a book review luncheon will be held on the fifteenth and on the twenty-fifth the new drama group will have its first meeting under Mrs. George Phelps Rose.

President to Be Feted By Outlook Alliance

The Outlook Alliance will entertain for the president, Mrs. E. B. Heyser, with a reception, musicale and tea tomorrow at the Congress of Clubs.

The hospitality committee with Mrs. Roy A. Shipley, chairman, and the music committee with Mrs. Sarah Leiseder, chairman, will have charge for the day.

Eastern Star Members Invited to Card Party

Members and guests of McKinley Chapter, No. 20, Order of the Eastern Star, are invited to attend a card party at the home of Mrs. Anna Capper, California avenue, Avalon, on Friday evening.

WELFARE DRIVE DISCUSSED

Leaders of the employe division of the Welfare Fund, who will conduct this phase of the fifth annual campaign November 9 to 23, met yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce to lay plans for the drive. James Rae, former president of the chamber, and chairman of the division, presided, and F. J. Chesterman, vice president of the Bell Telephone Company, spoke.

Rae's division is divided into nine sections. Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, is chairman of the special committee division, and Robert S. McCarty, advertising manager of the Philadelphia Company, is chairman of the division's publicity committee.

District chairmen are A. H. Burchfield, Jr., of the Joseph Horne Company; J. B. Kelly, of the Mellon-Stuart Company; H. E. Williams, of the Williams and Company; Alexis Saurbrey, George J. Willock, of the Willoil Corporation; Carl L. Pierce, Jr., of Hubbard & Co.; William G. Marshall, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company; W. M. Dickson, of the Bell Telephone Company, and Dr. L. B. Bernstein.

VET SUES U. S. OVER POLICY

Joseph B. Smith, of Pittsburgh, filed a suit in Federal Court against the government, in which he seeks to recover on a $10,000 war risk insurance policy he declares the Veterans' Bureau has refused to pay.

Smith said he was shell-shocked and gassed while serving in France, which caused diseases and general disability. His condition was aggravated, he charged, by being compelled to ride horses and live in insanitary surroundings.

The statement of claim set forth that Smith was confined in different hospitals in Europe and at the Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, for many months.

STUDY WHARF PLAN PROTEST

Copies of the City Planning Commission's objections to the Lang-Reppert plan to improve the Allegheny River wharf were in the hands of Councilmen for study today, having been distributed at a meeting of the committee on public works late yesterday.

Objections of the commission to the double-deck wharf plan were based on the opinion that the proposal was too costly and that the revenue would not justify the investment. The commission recommended improvement of Duquesne way and continuation of improvement plans along Water street.

Auto Theft Gang Suspect Trapped

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Concluding a search that extended throughout the Middle West, Elroy Crites, 44, reputed "ringleader" in a gigantic interstate automobile theft ring that centered its operations in Canton, has been captured, federal officials announced.

The arrest of Crites was effected in Danville, Ill., after government agents had traced him through various cities in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and other states. Immediate steps will be taken to extradite him to Cleveland, where he faces four federal indictments.

Three Temporary Dry Writs Granted

Temporary injunctions, pending final hearings December 13, were granted in Federal Court against three places where prohibition authorities charged dry law violations.

The places and alleged proprietors were: Saloon, rear 1315 Clark street, first floor, Jacob Sachs; first floor, 2 Sansell way, Harry Leedy, and a first floor, 5 Sansell way, John F. Fairchild.

High-Flying Flies To Be Costly To County

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—A fly can fly how high?

The correct answer to that baffling question may save—or cost—Los Angeles County $26,000.

If flies fly 40 feet high the county must spend that amount to provide screens for the fourth floor of the new county hospital building, the supervisors reported today.

Grads of Baltimore Colleges to Meet

The third annual reunion of the alumni of Maryland University, Baltimore Medical College and the College of Physicians and Surgeons, all in Baltimore, will be held in the Roosevelt Hotel tonight at 7 o'clock. Dr. H. E. Lutz, of West View, will be chairman.

The meeting was arranged as a part of the convention of the State Medical Society.

MRS. HILTY DIES, V. OF A. WORKER

Stricken with a heart attack, Mrs. Stella Hutchinson Hilty, 64, adjutant and pioneer worker in the Volunteers of America, died yesterday at the home of a daughter, 74 Pasadena street, Mt. Washington. For the last 30 years, almost the term of its existence, Mrs. Hilty had been actively engaged with the Volunteers, a teacher in the Sunday school.

Daughter of Hamilton and Ellen Shannon, Mrs. Hilty was born in Mt. Joy, O. She came to Pittsburgh 42 years ago, married Charles B. Hutchinson. After his death she married John J. Hilty, who died a year ago. The funeral will be held Friday.

Mrs. Hilty leaves a son, Boyd; two daughters, Mrs. Esther J. Bonnell and Mrs. Edith Zetzman; two brothers, Clair and Harry, and four sisters, Miss Ellen Shannon, Mrs. I. N. Dunn, Mrs. Carey Moffet and Mrs. Myra Bates.

ERIE DROPS TAX PENALTIES

ERIE, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—City Council passed an ordinance providing for a "holiday" on municipal penalties.

The measure calls for abatement of one-quarter of the 1928 levy penalty and eliminates the November, 1932, penalty, providing the obligations are paid by December 1.

Penna. Dutch to Give Curtis 'Dutch Treat'

FOGELSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Vice President Curtis has polled the gastronomical as well as the political support of Lehigh County Republican leaders. As a reward for his address here last month he is to receive this month the ingredients of a typical "Pennsylvania Dutch dinner — sauer kraut, pigs knuckles and mashed potatoes.

Utility Probers Favor Limited Open Hearings

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Among some members of the Senate Utilities Committee, which will meet in Harrisburg Friday to outline the scope of its investigation into charges of improper association between some utilities and their heads and members of the Public Service Commission, there is a sentiment for holding open hearings only on the last two days of each week.

Mr. Shields

That is hardly an evidence of the energetic and expeditious digging which has been expected of this committee, and which has been promised. Perhaps mature consideration will convince the committee that it should not so restrict its meetings. If the two-day hearing suggestion holds, it will be the end of next week before the initial appearance of witnesses, which would mean only six days of testimony before election day, as no one expects the committee, made up of men closely interested in the campaign, to meet the Friday and Saturday before balloting.

The people are entitled to more information than that before they go to the polls. Reasonably or not, the utility question has become an issue in this campaign. It was one of the big issues in the campaign of 1930, a fighting ground between Independents and regulars in the Republican party. It can and should become an issue in the legislative election of this year.

* * *

Regular Organization Held Responsible

The regular organization was generally—and with justice—held responsible for the complexion of the Public Service Commission, except during the Pinchot administrations. It was charged with having perpetuated in office, and protected as long as possible against Pinchot attacks, men who resigned under fire, and against one of whom, at least, direct charges were made by the Governor.

The Senate committee was created to determine how much basis there was for the suspicions raised by Mr. Pinchot. If the suspicions have foundation then the senators' responsible for protecting commissioners who did not function in the public interest should have to face that fact in their campaigns. The voters should be armed with the knowledge when they go to the ballot box.

The regular state organization, engaged in putting over—or attempting to put over—congressional, state office and presidential candidates, should bear the burden of any revelations prejudicial to it. Contrarily, it should profit from any denial, through sworn testimony, of the allegations of the Governor.

* * *

Things for Committee To Think About

These are things for Senator William S. Rial, chairman of the committee, and his associates, to think about. The committee has been given an appropriation of $100,000 for the job. For this money the public expects more than some suggested legislation for improving public service company law. There is already sufficient knowledge at hand to readjust the law. Ample suggestions for this readjustment were made at the last session of the Legislature. And they failed, fairness must admit, through the obstinacy of Gov. Pinchot, who frowned on the passage of any legislation which did not couple to it an executive right to hire and fire members of the commission.

What the public wants to know is whether the utilities had an advantage through friendliness of any commissioner, whether that cost the utilities anything. The punitive action in this case will be political. There are enough laws now to deal with this phase of the matter.

This committee has had plenty of time to get its work started. Perhaps it has done so. Perhaps it has employed some of the investigators intended under the appropriation. If so, it should require little preparation on the part of Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, counsel for the committee, in order to familiarize him with the task at hand. He is a capable lawyer, energetic, and is not given to procrastination.

Burke's Loss Keenly Felt by Republicans

More and more it is becoming apparent how much the late James Francis Burke meant to national Republican strategy. He had a political intelligence which was invaluable to those with whom he served. He could estimate reactions and gauge the result of political moves better than any man now associated with the national organizations.

He was criticized for some of the moves in the first Hoover campaign but the definite value of each in votes was proven by events. When he was for a time eliminated from the presidential circle through jealousy there were blunders that even the tyro would not have committed. Perhaps I give him too much credit, but when he returned to the strategy board these errors were at a minimum.

Had Mr. Burke lived there probably would not, for example, have occurred the Mitchell indictment of the Bonus Army, an episode which Gen. Butler says cost Mr. Hoover the presidency beyond all hope of recapture.

The manner in which Mr. Burke handled the Pennsylvania delegation at the Republican convention, one of his last appearances on the national political stage, was an example of how he could pull off difficult jobs.

In losing Jim Burke the President lost much more than one Republican vote.

LAWRENCE ASKS ROOSEVELT TALK HERE

Chance to Carry State Spurs Democratic District Chiefs

Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence is in New York today attempting to persuade the Democratic National Campaign Committee to send Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to Pittsburgh for a speech in behalf of his candidacy for President. Until yesterday the strategy of Democratic leaders in Pennsylvania had called for a speech by Roosevelt in Philadelphia and the appearance of the vice presidential candidate, John N. Garner, in Pittsburgh.

Within the past few days, on the basis of reports from all sections of Allegheny County and Western Pennsylvania, Lawrence and his associates have become convinced that their party has a chance to carry this end of the state. The appearance of the head of the ticket, rather than the vice presidential candidate, would provide the enthusiasm necessary for a Roosevelt majority, they feel.

G. O. P. FACES STRUGGLE

The optimism of the Democratic leaders is based as much on pessimistic reports coming to Republican headquarters, as on the optimism flowing in Democratic circles. It is no secret that in Westmoreland County and in the Erie district, the Republican congressional candidates are facing hard fights, with prospects of defeat growing each day. The Franklin-Venango district is another where Democratic hopes are high.

Lawrence reported to Democratic headquarters that some old-line Republican leaders were claiming Pennsylvania for Hoover by no more than 150,000, and that in Allegheny County the Republican leadership would be satisfied with a majority of 12,000. With claims no brighter than this from the Republicans, Lawrence predicted the Democrats would carry both Allegheny County and the state, particularly if assistance comes from national headquarters in the form of a speech by Gov. Roosevelt.

CRASH HOLDS UP RUPP

Lawrence H. Rupp, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, spoke today in East Pittsburgh. Last night he addressed a meeting in Charleroi. Rupp was prevented by an automobile accident from filling speaking engagements in Pittsburgh yesterday, but Democratic advocates who spoke in his behalf assailed Senator James J. Davis, and charged he had used his position in the Moose lodge as a racket. While Rupp himself may remain silent on the federal charges that Davis profited personally from alleged lotteries conducted by some Moose officers, it is apparent that other Democrats will use the New York trial revelations as a basis for attack.

Many Republicans Greet Rupp in Charleroi Drive

CHARLEROI, Pa., Oct. 5.—Two former grand exalted rulers of the Elks met here last night when Lawrence H. Rupp, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, opened his statewide campaign and visited with his friend John K. Tener, former governor.

The rally was one of the most unusual in local history. Of more than 250 political leaders who met Rupp, at least a third were recognized as stand-pat Republicans. Rupp spoke to a packed hall without referring to his opponents. He said:

"Retaliatory tariffs have ruined international trade, and the Pennsylvania laborer and miner has felt this discrimination more than workers in any other field of industry."

GLOBE TROTTER AIDS FIRE DRILL

One hundred and 40 babies marched or were carried out of the Roselia Foundling Asylum, 1612 Cliff street, in a special fire drill yesterday in preparation for National Fire Prevention Week, starting Monday.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph, was a guest at the home and aided the nurses by carrying a baby down the fire escape.

Realism was given the fire drill by starting two fires in steel containers which were put out by nurses practicing with fire extinguishers. The drill was supervised by Sister DePaul, superintendent.

3 Thugs Given Ride Beat, Rob Huckster

Jack Pifer, 30, of 3415 Louisa street, a huckster, told police early today that he had been beaten and robbed of $40 by three men to whom he had given a ride. The attack occurred a short time after he left Emsworth, where he met the strangers. Pifer's injuries were treated at Allegheny General Hospital.

County Officials Get Jobs For Kin on Public Payroll

Mackrell, Gollmar And Cain Relatives Hold Positions

County officials, with hardly an exception, practice nepotism as extensively as possible. There is little complaint that they appoint incapable men and women. But the practice of naming relatives to public jobs is commonly recognized as something that always has been done—and always will be.

The families of Capt. Robert S. Cain, County Treasurer; Joseph N. Mackrell, Register of Wills; Frank Gollmar, Sheriff, and others are well represented in public service.

They furnished lists on request.

Capt. Cain's office pays $10,000 a year; a daughter, Jean A. Cain, is employed in the Tax Revision Bureau of the county at $135 a month; a half-sister, Mrs. Mary Dithridge, gets $135 a month in the county transcribing room, while the most lucrative job in the office of the County Treasurer, a fee office, is held by John Brown, Jr., a son-in-law of the Treasurer.

Mackrell and his father, Arch Mackrell, are in the same office. The former is Register of Wills and the latter an appraiser of estates. Both are non-salaried, with incomes contingent upon fees. The jobs are reported to be lucrative.

A brother, Dr. John Mackrell, is a physician in the City Department of Health with a salary of $2,200 a year. He is a noted physician, and has been in the city service since 1911, long before the Register took office, of course.

Arch Mackrell has held office and has been active in politics for many years. When his son was elected register, the father held his present job, which he continued, according to the Register.

Sheriff Gollmar, in furnishing his list, forgot one. He telephoned later to add the fourth name. His own job pays $5,000. A brother, Charles W. Gollmar, is assistant chief of state inheritance tax office here at $3,000 a year; a stepson, Berton Wiley, is in the state health office at $1,920 a year, and a cousin, Mrs. Daisy Gollmar, was appointed last week as a clerk in the tax revision office at $1,640.

A scattering of families represented on various public payrolls includes Thomas Daugherty, Jury Commissioner, at $4,000 a year; his father, Anthony Daugherty, watchman in the asphalt plant at $115 a month, and a brother-in-law, Russell Anderson, chief clerk in the County Bureau of Property and Supplies at $175 a month.

Leaders Take Care of Own With Few Exceptions

Stephen O'Toole draws $333.33 as superintendent of the asphalt plant; Harry Finn, a nephew, was employed as an extra clerk in the County Treasurer's office at $125, and Lawrence O'Toole, a nephew, is chief clerk in the City Building Inspection Bureau at $229.16. The appointments are not connected by relationship, and individuals having distinct political interests.

John Francies, former County Treasurer, has a daughter working temporarily, Miss Catherine, at $135, and another, Miss Louise Francies, at $210—both in the County Treasurer's office. Francies is employed in the Bureau for Revision and Assessment of Taxes, at $3,000.

Bank Officers Admit Bandit Loot Higher

HOLLAND, Mich., Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Loot of six machine gun bandits who raided the First State Bank of Holland last week totaled $73,164 instead of $12,000, bank officials admitted yesterday. The loot was first estimated at $12,000, but officials said a check revealed that $26,000 in bonds, mostly negotiable, and $47,164 in cash were missing.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 5.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Guess who is out here holding a convention, that you never thought would show their faces again? Yep, "the bankers." The Reconstruction Finance Corporation fixed 'em up so they could make the trip.

Will Rogers

They are likeable rascals, and now that we are all wise to 'em, and it's been shown that they don't know any more about finances than the rest of us know about our businesses (which has proven to be nothing), they are getting just as human as the groceryman, the druggist or the filling station man. This depression has been a great equalizer. It's done away entirely with the smart man. So the bankers are here having a good time. They don's feel that they have any position to uphold. They are just a lot of Elks.

Yours, WILL.

GOVERNMENTAL EXTRAVAGANCE CHARGED

Bamford Centers His Attack on City Payroll

Launching a fight against high taxes in the city, county and school district, James W. Bamford, chairman of the taxation committee of the Building Owners and Managers Association, told the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce of "unbridled extravagance" in local governments.

Today he is to address the Rotary Club at the Fort Pitt Hotel on the same subject. A series of talks to other groups is planned.

PAYROLLS ATTACKED

Bamford centered his attack on the city government, showing city payrolls have increased from $5,700,000 in 1917 to $12,400,000 in 1931. Bamford declared the city budget had no right to that title. He said:

"Under the present system, the entire budget is a mere matter of guess work with the Mayor trying to find out how much each department head has loaded his appropriation and then Council trying to outguess the department heads, with no one having a very clear idea of what it is all about."

Council should determine in advance how much money should be spent by the departments, Bamford declared. Unless constant determined effort is made, Bamford said, there will be continued tax increases.

RAPS BOND ISSUES

There should be no more bond issues for any purpose until the city shall have at least partially cleared up its load of debt, Bamford said.

Bamford cited a list of various city departments where, in his opinion, expenses can be cut. Quoting an item of $108,250 for salaries of regular employes in the Department of Assessors, Bamford said there are six ward chairmen on the payroll and the "term regular employes is very descriptive."

Harwick Mines Win Award for Safety

C. W. Gibbs, general manager of the Harwick Coal and Coke Company, today was notified that his company had been awarded the trophy in the coal mining group for the best record in the inter-plant safety contest. This contest was conducted by the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council. The Harwick company is a subsidiary of the Philadelphia Company.

Jimmy's Going To Find Pals Are All Walkers Now

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

His honor, the Jimmsie, will soon be back in America if Mayor McKee doesn't take the boat away from him.

The Mayor has confiscated 128 official city cars. He can always claim that he put New York on its feet.

Tammany's slogan this election will be justice, economy and free gasoline for deputy commissioners.

If they carry the public vehicle reform to Washington you'll see the Vice President in the side-car of a motorcycle and the President driving.

Times have changed since Thomas Jefferson smacked Old Dobbin with the whistle end of the whip. The first thing an official gets now is an imported motor with a horn that commands respect.

But not in New York. Since McKee checked up municipal transportation the commissioners are afraid to make a left turn in a swivel chair.

It's tough on a stout politician to have to waddle to work under his own ankle power. It makes him look penny wise and about 200 pounds foolish.

Dog Hero Dies Poisoned, Seek Killer of Pets

Children of the Baker Hill section of North Braddock, went to school today, but their hearts were heavy and they weren't much interested in what their teacher might have to say to them.

For Jeff, dog hero of North Braddock and a neighborhood pet, died late yesterday after a three-day battle to throw off the effects of strychnine poisoning.

While an aroused neighborhood planned drastic action to apprehend the person who placed similar poison doses responsible for the death of 10 pets within recent weeks, residents recalled two instances in which Jeff proved himself a thoroughbred.

Once, when the furnace in the cellar of his master, Fred Alger, where he slept, became overheated, Jeff's barking aroused the family, who fled to safety. Several months later he ran in front of a speeding automobile as it approached a child in the street. He knocked the youngster out of the day and was run over by the machine.

Police have offered their aid in running down the poisoner.

HUNT DRIVERS IN DR. RENNE VOTE CASE

Registration commissioners today were expected to seek bench warrants for two truck drivers who yesterday were said to have ignored subpenas to testify at the hearing of Dr. William A. Renne, of 1902 Carson street, charged with voting and running for office in a ward where he is not a resident.

The men, Andrew Gallagher and Michael Priorie, will be asked, the commissioners said, to settle a dispute between Dr. Renne's counsel and counsel for a group of voters of the First district of the Seventeenth Ward.

The latter assert Dr. Renne is not a resident of the Legislative district, although he is its Republican nominee for the Legislature.

G. M. McDonald, counsel for the voters, told the commissioners testimony of the drivers will prove furniture was moved into a rear room of Dr. Renne's office, which he holds as a residence, less than two months ago. Dr. Renne at the hearing yesterday testified he moved into the place last November.

332-Pound Weight Absolves Suspect

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Diets will never make an adherent of Bernard Knapp, 28, who was a free man today because his avoirdupois is considerable.

Arraigned in Mercer County Court on a charge of robbing a gas service station, he won instant release when his counsel pointed out Knapp tipped the scales at 332 pounds, while the station attendant described the robber as weighing 180 pounds.

Many Drivers Pass Trolleys on Left

Traffic safety observers in their September report said the principal traffic law violation committed by Pittsburgh drivers is passing street cars on the left. So far this year 3,758 violations have been reported.

They include also weaving, disregard for traffic lights, turning without signaling and driving on the wrong side of the street.

$100,000 MORE NECESSARY FOR WORK

The Allegheny County subcommittee of the Pennsylvania Emergency Relief Board was expected to meet today to discuss application for part of yesterday's $3,342,183 Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan to Pennsylvania—the second in two weeks.

The application was to be grounded on the diversion by Gov. Pinchot, last week, of part of Allegheny County's share of the first R. F. C. loan of $2,500,000. The first money was ear-marked for use of Allegheny, Philadelphia and Northampton counties. Pinchot, however, distributed it among 12 counties, giving Allegheny but $300,000 of its requested $390,000 for October.

LOAN FOR 64 COUNTIES

Yesterday's loan was, officially, for use of 64 Pennsylvania counties which were not named in the first grant.

It will take at least $100,000 more for the county outside the city to administer full relief of 80 cents per person per week—city level—it was learned, in addition to Allegheny County's share of Talbot bill moneys for October—undistributed, as yet.

Meanwhile, a sub-committee of the Harris committee for distribution of milk in Pittsburgh was studying needs of the city. Funds are supplied by the Pinchot appropriation of $100,000 for October from the first R. F. C. loan.

MILK FOR PUPILS

N. R. Criss, treasurer of the School Board; the Rev. Paul Campbell, of the parochial schools, and Dr. H. J. Benz, of the City Health Department, form the subcommittee.

They were to draw up a report, this week, concerning the number of school children in the city who need milk and the amount necessary to supply it. Benjamin G. Appel, of the State Health Department, will receive the report and is expected to act on it this week.

Acting on the committee which will distribute the milk finds under the chairmanship of State Senator Frank J. Harris are Marcus Aaron, president of the School Board; Benz, Father Campbell, Maj. Phillips Mathews and John F. Casey.

County milk will be distributed under the supervision of the State Department of Welfare.

PITT PHARMACY REGISTRAR DIES

Carl Saalbach, 55, registrar and a treasurer of the School of Pharmacy of the University of Pittsburgh, fell dead in his office, 1431 Boulevard of the Allies late yesterday, the Coroner's office reported. Dr. Robert Fishermann, also of the school, attributed death to a heart attack. Saalbach lived at 4319 Murray avenue.

A graduate of the School of Pharmacy of the University of Pittsburgh, Mr. Saalbach for many years conducted a pharmacy at Fifth avenue and Pride street. He was actively connected with the college more than 35 years. He leaves his widow and one son, a student in the college, and two brothers.

Four branches of the Y. M. C. A. will begin a membership drive next Monday and continue it through the week, it was announced today. J. H. Alexander, Hilltop chairman, has set the goal for his division at 200.

The downtown quota is 800, Allegheny 200 and Center avenue 500.

Shamokin Aviator Dies in Shanghai

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Frank Graver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Graver, and a member of the Aviation Corps of the United States Army, died in Shanghai, China, his parents were notified by cablegram yesterday.

Graver enlisted in the Army four years ago and served in the Panama Canal Zone before his transfer to Shanghai.

Light Bill Unpaid, City in Darkness

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The municipal council met yesterday to discuss some method of getting electric lights for Santiago, dark for four months because she has not paid her light bill.

In the midst of the discussion darkness fell, and, since there was no light, the councilmen had to adjourn before acting on several motions before the house.

Man Held in Crash Of Auto, Street Car

Maichi Dickson, Negro, of Philadelphia, was being held in East End Police Station today as the aftermath of a collision between an automobile he was driving and a Homestead street car, at Penn avenue and Beatty street, late yesterday. Dickson's passengers, his wife, Lucille, Margery Banks, 31, and John Dickson, a brother, all of Philadelphia, were injured.

WELFARE GROUP PLANS DRIVE

A county wide drive for funds to care for the welfare program of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor will be carried on during the fall and winter, H. W. Shepard, director, announced today. No solicitors will be authorized to collect funds, contributors instead being urged to send checks to Howard Irish, 428 Duquesne way.

The Association, 57 years old, feeds and shelters a number of homeless men and does family welfare work. It is not a member of the Welfare Fund.

EVANGELISTIC RALLY SET

A series of district rallies on evangelism will start in the Arch Street Methodist Episcopal Church Friday, Bishop A. W. Leonard is to inaugurate the rallies. Dr. W. S. Trosh, superintendent of the Allegheny district, will read a paper on evangelism at 10 a. m., and an open forum will follow. A closed meeting for ministers will be held in the afternoon, and Bishop Leonard will address a Methodist mass meeting at 7:45 a. m.

PINCHOT PLANS LOAN DIVISION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—It is expected here that the committee of five of which Gov. Gifford Pinchot is chairman, will immediately begin to make plans for the distribution of the $3,342,183 emergency relief funds made available late yesterday to the state of Pennsylvania, by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The new loan makes a total of $5,842,183 that has been issued to Pennsylvania.

In making this fund available the R. F. C. board explained that the supporting data submitted by Gov. Pinchot set forth that the minimum need for the period between September 1 to January 1, next, was $20,073,279. To meet this need it was estimated that $4,922,694 would be available from state and local sources.

The figure has since been revised by representatives of Gov. Pinchot, in view of additional data, so that it now aggregates $18,148,471.

BOARD TO PICK ROAD WORKERS

The County Commissioners will have some state laboring jobs to hand out when work gets under way by the State Highway Department under the Emergency Relief and Construction Act passed July 21.

A letter from H. E. Kloss, of the Highway Department yesterday asked the commissioners to name a representative or representatives to handle the jobs. The letter said ex-service men with dependents will be given preference.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern moved that the commissioners themselves handle the distribution of jobs.

Spilled Beans Lead To Thief's Arrest

EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Ernest Sledge is in jail because he spilled the beans. Police trailed him by beans which trickled through a hole in one of the sacks in which he allegedly was carrying away 500 pounds he had stolen.

Distillery Opens, Giving Work To 75 Men

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 5.—Another industry resumed today. Seventy-five men returned to work at the Broad Ford distillery of A. Overholt & Co., manufacturing medicinal rye whisky under government regulations.

RELIEF GROUP TO MEET HERE

Pittsburgh was selected for the 1933 convention of the State Association of Director of the Poor yesterday in Harrisburg as resolutions were adopted disapproving blanket food orders issued by many county unemployment relief boards and decentralization of relief work.

Gov. Pinchot was said by one of the directors to favor purchase of food wholesale and dispensing it through community stores maintained by relief agencies.

Charles F. King, of Scottdale, was elected president for the ensuing year. Joseph A. McElhaney, of Franklin, and T. C. White, of Mercer, were among the vice presidents chosen, with Anna E. Cort, of Greensburg, named an assistant secretary.

PUBLIC TO HEAR HEALTH TALKS BY DOCTORS

Pittsburgh's health-interested public will be guests tonight at an open meeting of the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania as a convention feature at the William Penn Hotel.

Dr. Donald Guthrie, of Sayre, today was named president-elect to assume office at next year's convention. Dr. Charles B. Maits, public health director of Pittsburgh, was named first vice president.

Other vice presidents named were Dr. Ford Summerville, Oil City; Dr. J. F. Wilson, Beaver, and Dr. C. C. Mechling, Pittsburgh. Three trustees were elected as follows: Dr. R. L. Anderson, Pittsburgh; Dr. David Thomas, Lock Haven, and Dr. William W. Lazarus, Tunkhannock. Philadelphia was selected as the next convention city.

Tonight's free program, beginning at 7:45 p. m. in Pirate Hall of the hotel, will include motion pictures and talks by leading health authorities under auspices o. the Allegheny County Medical Society. It will mark the observance of Pennsylvania Health Day.

TALK ON FOODS

Dr. R. Adams Dutcher, of State College, will deliver the principal address, speaking on "Foods We Eat and Why We Eat Them." Short talks will be given by State Secretary of Health T. B. Appel and Dr. T. B. Carroll, president of the county society. The motion pictures will be "Your Family Physician," "How to Live Long" and "Too Many Curves."

Diet fads were attacked by Dr. Carl E. Ervin, chief of medical department, Gersinger Memorial Hospital, Danville, Pa., yesterday before the section of medicine. Declaring obesity was due to glandular trouble, he denied the need to cease eating starches to lose weight. Advocating their use with sufficient protein in forms of meat, milk, eggs and fish, Dr. Ervin said:

"The rest of the diet should be largely sugars in the form of carbohydrate, including both sugar and starch. The fat then is reduced to the minimum. The patient, therefore, uses carbohydrate and protein to burn body fat."

CANCER DISCUSSED

Calcium gluconate was advanced as the chief medicine in fighting cancer by Dr. Richard J. Behan, Pittsburgh, who declared Pittsburgh cases during the past six years has demonstrated its value. Dr. Behan was the first leader to use calcium.

He pointed out that by use of all methods developed, including X-ray, radium and surgery, a reduction in cancer cases is being found. He predicted a positive cure would be developed through research.

The auxiliary today named Mrs. Edwin Lyon, Williamsport, as president-elect. Three vice presidents were Mrs. L. D. Sargent, Washington; Mrs. W. B. Odenatt, Philadelphia, and Mrs. John Davies, Blossburg. Directors named were Mrs. Clarence Phillips, Harrisburg; Mrs. Lloyd Thompson, Pittsburgh; Mrs. John Page, Austin, and Mrs. Joseph Doane.

FATHER'S TRUCK INJURES CHILD

William Toth, 16-months'-old son of John Toth, 408 North Elizabeth street, was reported in a serious condition in Children's Hospital today from injuries suffered when run over by the front wheel of his father's truck near his home, late yesterday.

The child fell from the seat of the truck as Toth was turning it around. He suffered internal injuries.

Dominic Mazzeri, 46, of 243 The Boulevard, Mt. Oliver; Benjamin Leff, 52, and his son, Max Leff, 25, of 5625 Melvin street, were injured when an automobile driven by Mazzeri collided with a bus of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company at Sterrett and Kelly streets, yesterday, according to a police report. The victims were taken to Homeopathic Hospital.

McHugh Will Leaves Bequests to Charity

John McHugh, of O'Hara Township, distributing his $150,000 estate in his will probated today, left $100,000 to his wife, Rose C. McHugh for life; $2,000 each to St. Paul's Orphanage, Mercy Hospital and the Little Sisters of the Poor and $1,000 to the Home for Crippled Children. Relatives share in the remainder.

Finding $100 Bill Lands Man in Jail

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 5.—(INS.)—A stroke of "good luck" landed James Hoover, of West Brownsville, in jail today.

Hoover found a $100 bill in his home here. Police arrested him because, they said, the bill had been dropped in the Hoover home by Frank Nagle, Pittsburgh.

Seeks Way to Earn $15 to Pay Costs Of Hearing

William B. Vogel, father of five children and an electrician, of 1345 West Liberty avenue, who has been out of work for a year, today was trying to find some way of earning $15 to pay the costs of his hearing before Alderman Louis C. Wicks, of Oakland, yesterday, on a charge of doing a plumbing job without a license, in violation of a state law.

Vogel pleaded guilty to placing a sink in a home at 1707 Fifth avenue several days ago, but said it was the first work he had had in a year.

When he told Wicks he was out of work and had five children, the alderman dismissed the charge and gave him 10 days in which to pay the costs.

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., Oct. 5.—The Elk Grove Hotel, the stopping place of many hunters and fishermen in the North Mountain, was destroyed today by fire.

PENSION FUND TO BE REVISED

The county pension fund will be put on an actuarial basis, the Commissioners having authorized employment of George B. Buck, of New York, to do the work. M. C. Conick, of Main & Co., recommended Buck.

At the Commissioners' meeting yesterday Controller Robert G. Woodside said:

"It is imperative that action be taken to straighten up the pension fund. It is not broke, but it is badly bent."

The Commissioners authorized a $2,500 set-up for the preliminary work and transferred $75,000 from the general fund to the pension fund.

Needy Man Hangs Self in Mine Town

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 5.—Andrew Bakas, 50, of Mine No. 42, near Windber, was found dead yesterday, hanging from a low limb of a tree.

Bakas had arranged to get a loan on his life insurance, declaring he was in dire need of money.

WOMEN PLEDGE REPUBLICANS SUPPORT

The Republican Women's Club of Western Pennsylvania yesterday pledged, on motion, unanimous support of the county and city committees of the Republican party by their 300 members, at a board of directors meeting in the Union Trust Building. Seven city wards, three boroughs and two cities in Allegheny County were represented.

Plans were discussed for the observance of Hoover Day Friday, and for a reception at the home of the club's president, Mrs. A. W. Powell, 30 Hoodridge drive, Mt. Lebanon, October 11. Allegheny County committeemen and committeewomen will be guests of honor at the reception at which W. H. Coleman, Republican county chairman, will speak on "The Republican Platform."

Tenative plans were discussed for a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, who will speak at a Republican mass meeting in Wilkinsburg High School Saturday night.

Hoover Day will be observed Friday by the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women in cooperation with Republican women in New York, New Jersey and Delaware. Card parties, radio parties and teas have been arranged to hear President Hoover speak over the radio at 3:15 p. m.

Roosevelt's radio addresses were characterized as "extraordinarily fallacious" and "intellectually cowardly" at yesterday's meeting by Miss Suzanne Beatty, Seventh Ward board member. She said:

"I felt a personal affront at Roosevelt's comparison of Lincoln and Hoover. With world values depreciated, Hoover has kept bad things from getting worse and has made it possible for other nations to keep going. It is unfair and unjust to attribute unrest and economic stress to him. His reconstruction finance program furnished a much-needed loan to the Pennsylvania Railroad. If it hadn't been for the loans, every bank in the country would be closed today."

Woman Slain in Auto, Man Commits Suicide

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—James F. Fife, 35, reputedly a member of a prominent Detroit (Mich.) family, died early today in a Santa Monica hospital from what police said was a self-inflicted bullet wound. Fife was found dying late last night in an automobile which contained the body of Miss Agnes Hitchings, 23, who, police said, had been shot to death.

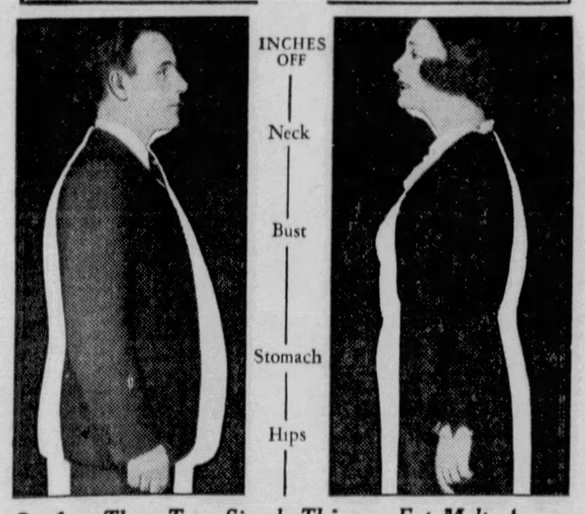
Simple to Lose a Pound of Fat a Day on a Full Stomach



Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Here is a quick and easy way to take off a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—with never a hungry moment. A way any doctor will tell you is safe and sure.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in glass of water half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses your system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute. Cut down on butter, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. *The diet takes off fat with food that turns to energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

SHERLOCK HOLMES RETURNS -:- Two New Programs Make Debuts -:- ON THE AIR TONIGHT

Hackett Sings In WCAE Concert

Sherlock Holmes comes back tonight!

In the person of Richard Gordon, the noted sleuth makes his bow in a new edition of Sherlock Holmes stories over an NBC network, including KDKA, at 9 o'clock in a wierd and shudder-dispensing tale, "The Empty House."

Mr. Gordon

Leigh Lovel, portraying the role of the faithful Dr. Watson, also returns, as does Joseph Bell as director and narrator. The incidental music is provided by an orchestra under the baton of Graham Harris.

"Cape Diamond Light," a series of dramatized true stories of the sea, drawn from the past through the memories of old sea captains, is inaugurated on KDKA at 8 p. m. The stories were written by Burr Cook, author of "Harbor Lights." The sketches will be broadcast each week at the same hour.

Trotty Veck, the Dickens philosopher, as portrayed by Gayzelle Rusk Boetticher, who for five years was director of the department of speech at the Buchannon (W. Va.) High School, is introduced to WCAE listeners in a series of Wednesday afternoon programs today at 2:45 p. m.

Effective today, the Sheer Romance presentation over an NBC network from the studios of KDKA, formerly heard Wednesdays, is scheduled Tuesdays at 6:30 p. m., and the Westinghouse Watchmen relinquish their 6:30 spot for a 6:15 period. Tonight's "Sheer Romance" dramatization is the story of Abigail Smith, the wife of John Adams, the second president of the United States, and the mother of John Quincy Adams, the sixth president.

Program Pointers

Esther Dale, soprano, and Charles Hackett, tenor, are starred with a concert orchestra directed by Cesare Sodero during the NBC Artists Service program, featuring the works of Massenet, Speaks, Coates and De Lange on WCAE tonight at 10:30 . . . Virginia Rea sings "Thrill Me," Jeanne Aubert's hit song from "Ballyhoo;" Rimsky-Korsakoff's famous [illegible] to the [illegible] and the [illegible]n Gypsy [illegible] Dark Eyes," when she appears as guest artist with the Revelers and Victor Young's orchestra on WCAE at 9.

Miss Dale

"Provide the Audience" is the topic of Angelo Patri's "Your Child" talk on WJAS at 7:45.

A new style of presentation is inaugurated by Josef Pasternack during his Melody Moments program on KDKA at 8:30 tonight, offering increased variety. One concert each week will be purely orchestral, while guest artists will be furnished in the other programs. Oliver Smith, tenor soloist on the program since 1929, will appear at four-week intervals. Shawni-Lani, noted Hawaiian vocalist, is tonight's guest star.

An address by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential candidate, will be broadcast over a Columbia chain, including WJAS, tomorrow at 1:15 p. m.

Ruth Etting sings three sentimental numbers, "Don't Tell a Soul," "Just a-Wearyin' for You" and "Happy-Go-Lucky You," on WJAS at 10 o'clock.

Known only to radio as "Dr. Hensel," a well-known Pittsburgh physician, introduces a new series of German folk songs over WWSW at 9:45 p. m.

Baseball Stars Guests of Seals

Baseball stars are guests during the Trained Seals presentation on WCAE at 6:50 tonight, marking the homecoming of players, managers and umpires of the Pittsburgh district.

Speakers include Jimmy Levey, shortstop of the St. Louis Browns; Leo Mackey, manager of the Cumberland team in the Mid-Atlantic League; Dick Goldberg, Bill Regan and Frank Packard, of the Baltimore Orioles; Jeff Fitzgerald, of the Hazleton club, New York-Pennsylvania League; Rip Collins, of the Cumberland Club, Mid-Atlantic League; Umpire Frank (Bull) Brown, of the International League, and Charles J. Doyle, baseball expert, of the Sun-Telegraph. Harry Keck, sports editor, is master of ceremonies.

Mark Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, discusses the latest developments in the political activities throughout the state and nation on WCAE at 6 tonight.

A fascinating program for the children is presented under the direction of Jane A. White during the Sun-Telegraph Family period on WCAE from 5 to 5:30.

Sheetiron McGinty and the Lawson Sisters are featured with an orchestra directed by David Levin and Pat Haley, master of ceremonies, during the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the Air at 11 p. m.

The latest news flashes are relayed to WCAE listeners four times daily by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News. He goes on the air at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Listening In—

Gene Austin in South. Kelvin Keech's Hat. Radio Prayers.

Gene Austin is making a vaudeville tour in the south, broadcasting over local stations in the different towns and cities. Gene hails from the southland and just to prove it the other day, he went into a field to pick cotton. Although he didn't break any records, he showed he knew something about the art of cotton picking . . . Kelvin Keech would rather do almost anything than wear a hat, but with the coming of autumn, he has donned a headpiece . . . but he's having his troubles—he's always forgetting it.

Gene Austin

Irma Glen, the organist, has a collection of 400 prayers written by children. For five years Irma and Everett Mitchell have signed off their Air Junior programs with the best prayer written and sent in by a child.

Among the many stage folk with whom Richard Gordon, the Sherlock Holmes of the air, has played in his long theatrical career are Owen Moore, Anne Sutherland, Thomas Meighan, Hattie Williams, Nance O'Neill, George Fawcett, Reginald Denny, Carlotta Monterey, Constance Collier, Ethel Barrymore and Gertrude Lawrence.

Allen Baruck's first stage appearance was at an amateur "free-for-all" where he won a pair of shoes. He plays Joe Cornstassel in the Orphan Annie programs.

The Rhythm Boys with Paul Whiteman are Ray Kulz, George Macdonald, Al Dary and Jimmy Noel. Dary is a pianist, as well as vocalist and is frequently heard in duet offerings with Jane Vance.

Fellow announcers josh Everett Mitchell about being like the street car conductor who went riding on the street car during his vacation. Mitchell dashes home every Monday night to tune in on the Gypsies.

Not long ago, visitors in an observation booth at NBC's Chicago studios were surprised to see dapper Vincent Pelletier announcing a program in his shirt sleeves and without a tie . . . but then, Vincent had been called from under the shower at home to fill an emergency program and had only stopped long enough to get into the necessary apparel before jumping into a cab.

Crafton Listener: Walter Myers is off the air at present.

A. J. K.: We'd suggest that you write to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., for the booklet "Radio Stations of the United States." It lists all of the stations of this country both alphabetically and by locality, and includes the power and operating frequency of each. The booklet is issued at a charge of 15 cents by the Federal Radio Commission, and its data is the latest available.

Jack Benny's moving day is October 30. He transfers from WJZ-NBC to WABC-CBS . . . George Ade's comedy, "The College Widow," is listed for the S. R. O. hour Saturday night . . . Mrs. Charles H. Sabin speaks on "Prohibition Reform" over an NBC network Monday night.

One of Paul Whiteman's fans wrote to him saying: "Please send me a photograph and a sample of your product." What! An automobile?

DO YOU FAIRLY S-C-R-E-A-M WITH EVERY KIDNEY ACTION?
Grateful Relief Brought by FOLEY PILLS

So you feel achy all over, miserable and blue? Your head feels "crowded" your nerves quiver, you have pin-and-needle cramps—your appetite has gone and you feel weak as a cat. Don't fill your stomach with tonics or laxatives or rheumatism remedies. How can they help if it is your kidneys.

The job of the kidneys is to strain the uric acid and other poisons out of your blood. They purify your blood, that's it. Now you must not let these acids stay in the kidneys or they'll get back in the blood and poison your whole body. That's why your kidneys must pass 3 pints of "water" a day. Let them fail and you know it. Your appetite goes back on you, so does your pep, your sleep, and your nerves—your back hurts, your ankles and feet may swell up and you feel cranky and sick.

Now see what a wonderful change takes place after you start on Foley Pills. Kidney action increases at once. Out go those acids. Burning stops. Sleep is sounder, and none of this getting-up business. You feel like "somebody."

Your druggist has Foley Pills. Sells a lot of them, because most people know how good they are. Don't cost much either—but they certainly do a grand job. If they don't, your money back any time you want it. ©1932

Don't Drive a COLD in!
Drive It OUT With a Remedy That Gets At It From The Inside!

Treat a cold quickly, but intelligently!

Remember, a cold is a germ attack—an internal infection—and, as such, calls for internal treatment. Don't attempt to knock a cold merely with local or outside applications. External treatments can't reach the seat of the trouble and can't prevent the infection from spreading within the system.

Don't attempt, either, to relieve a cold with a cure-all. A cold is a cold and calls for a COLD remedy. A preparation that's good for all kinds of ills and ailments besides colds can't be equally effective for colds. Many people take remedies that actually make a cold more difficult to relieve because these remedies are constipating and also make the system acid.

The thing to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine! As your doctor will undoubtedly tell you, he couldn't write a better prescription for a cold if he wanted to.

4 Important Effects!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is prompt and decisive relief for a cold because it does four important things.

First, it opens the bowels, gently but effectively—the first step in routing a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies it against further attack.

This is the treatment a cold calls for and anything less is inviting serious complications.

No Bad After-Effects

Grove's Bromo Quinine contains no narcotics and is absolutely safe to take. It produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate, or make the head ring or swim. Its safety, as well as effectiveness, has made it the standard cold tablet the world over.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine comes in handy, pocket size boxes, cellophane wrapped and is sold by every drug store in America. A few of the tablets taken promptly on catching cold will usually expel the cold overnight and banish the danger of its settling in your system. Therefore, at the first sign of a cold, take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. A wise measure is to keep it within reach all winter. Be suspicious of any dealer who tries to sell you a substitute.

NIGHT COURSES
To Pittsburgh men and women who seek self-advancement through further training but are unable to take advantage of the regular curriculum, Carnegie Institute of Technology offers a wide range of study through its night classes. In the College of Industries and the College of Engineering, classes are open to men; in the College of Fine Arts and the Division of General Studies, to men and women.
Interviews and registration, October 5 and 6. Classes begin October 10.

A REWARD That Came Too Late!

Once-Famous Opera Star, Forgotten and Stricken by Poverty in Her Old Age, Is Showered with Honors on Her Pauper's Death Bed

AUDIENCES were moved to ecstasy by the golden contralto voice of Marie Delna in the gay nineties. She was then one of France's greatest operatic stars. Her singing moved even critics to stop her performances at the Paris Opera and Opera Comique with their thunderous applause. She enjoyed wealth and fame and beauty. Yet the once-famous diva passed away, only recently, in the charity ward of a hospital, after starving during the many years she spent literally begging for bread on the streets of Paris.

Above is Mlle. Germaine Sombray, an idol of the French music halls, who, like Delna, sank to the depths of abject poverty

A Tragic Ending!

Thus ended a strange tale from real life that has no parallel in fiction. And peculiarly enough, this last chapter of the French stage's most remarkable "Cinderella" story has an ironical twist that is startling. Read it and see for yourself! You'll find all the details in an article about the prima donna's rise to fame and her rapid downfall appearing in next Sunday's American Weekly.

Generosity Too Frequently Taken for Granted

He has one of those gimme families.

They take all that Rod has to give—and a little bit more—and then yell at him because he doesn't do better by them. Even Mamma does it, and he's just about sunk.

"I can't understand it!" he wails. "I've always been so generous, I've given up so many things I wanted, without even an argument, but they're never satisfied!"

Can you give him a tip? Is it because the folks are just natural born takers—

Or does Rod's own "generosity" maybe have something to do with it?

"Dear Sally:

"The time has come when I have to ask someone for advice, and you are the only one I feel can help me, so please don't throw this in the waste basket.

"I am 21 years old, and I have been working since my dad died, to help all I could to keep the family going. That has been 10 years. I've worked faithfully, and I have always listened to my mother and done everything she has asked me to do.

"I have never made any complaint about anything, or put up any argument. I have always been generous, and tried to do all I could.

"And now, I want to know: What can a fellow do, when he has done the best he could, and still has someone nag at him?

"If it isn't one thing, it's another. There is no peace. My mother is never satisfied, even with my best efforts. She had never been like that until a year or so ago, but now she is always nagging, and making things miserable for me, and causing trouble between me and my stepdad.

TAKEN FOR GRANTED

"Please will you try and tell me what to do? I have done all I could myself, and I just don't know which way to turn. It certainly has me down. I feel so blue and discouraged with it all!

"What can I do to prevent all this trouble and nagging? It seems as if the more I try to please her, the worse it gets, and I can't stand it any longer to be yelled at and called names by my own mother.

"I just can't see what is wrong, or where I have been at fault. I know I am no world beater, but when you do your best, shouldn't you get a little credit for it? Please help me.

"RODNEY."

Shouldn't you get credit for being a good guy?

Sure you should—if you make folks realize you've got it coming. And that's just where you make your mistake, son. You've meekly done whatever was asked of you, without putting anyone wise to what it was costing, and so they've begun to take you for granted, and to raise a rumpus because you don't do more.

DEMAND RESPECT

There isn't anything strange or surprising about that. Human nature being what it is, families, and particularly mothers, usually do take generous youngsters for granted. They don't do it because they're trying to be mean. They do it because when things come to us with no argument and no effort, we just naturally get to expect them.

What'll you do about it? Speak up for yourself, young fellow! Make the folks understand that you're not their oyster! Tell your mother that you're willing to help all you can, but only if she'll appreciate it, and treat you regular.

Make her understand that you have rights, as well as the rest of the family, and you intend to have them respected; and that if they're not respected you'll move out.

Then quit depriving yourself of everything for the rest of them. Treat yourself right, and they'll treat you right.

Generosity is a fine thing, but no one respects a doormat.

Fay King Scorns 'It's All for the Best' and 'I Told You' Exclamations (FRIENDS MEAN WELL WHEN THEY TELL ME "IT'S ALL FOR THE BEST" BUT I KNOW BETTER!

BUT THE DAY DID COME WHEN SHE KNEW HER HEART-BREAK OF THE PAST HAD BEEN FOR THE BEST FAY-KING

By FAY KING

When things do not go as we had wished or planned nothing annoys us more than to have well-meaning friends tell us that "it is all for the best."

Also it is agonizing to hear at other times "I told you so."

But just the same time has often proved that what they said turns out to be true.

Sometime ago at a theater I saw a radiantly happy married pair.

No one, not knowing, would dream that once the girl was broken-hearted over a man she had idealized far beyond his worth.

She refused all consolation when he eloped with another girl and declared she never would fall in love again.

And then she met Mr. Right!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Don't Dread Weaning Baby, or Put It Off Too Long

The young mother has many things to learn. She may be bewildered, among other problems, with that of weaning the baby.

Dr. Copeland

Weaning often is made more difficult than is necessary, for when a definite schedule is followed it need not be a serious problem.

Under normal circumstances the weaning process should begin at about the eighth or ninth month. It may be undertaken when the baby is three months, six months or nine months old, but should never be delayed beyond this time.

Whenever possible it should be planned so as to avoid weaning in hot weather. It is more difficult for the baby to digest its food during the hot days, and there is more chance then of cow's milk becoming contaminated.

Weaning should be a gradual process. It should never be done suddenly. In certain cases, as in lack of mother's milk, acute illness of the mother or disease of the breast, immediate weaning may be necessary. Early weaning is advised, too, when there is a continuous failure of the baby to gain in weight and the mother's milk is deficient in quality or in quantity.

Many baby specialists advise a daily bottle for every infant after the second month. This should be given as the afternoon feeding. This arrangement provides a little more leisure for the mother and in the end makes weaning less difficult. If something should make sudden weaning necessary the infant, being accustomed to the daily bottle, quickly adjusts itself to the new routine.

Complete weaning should not take longer than four weeks. Often it is difficult for the infant to become accustomed to the bottle, and such a case requires a great deal of patience on the part of the mother.

There need be no alarm if the infant takes little nourishment during the first few days of weaning. When it becomes used to cow's milk the strength of the food formula may be increased, but the increase should be gradual, because any sudden shift in the baby's diet may cause distress. The formula should only be altered by a physician's order.

As the child grows older it should be encouraged to take milk from a small cup, which should be of a pleasing color and attractive to the infant.

Solid foods should be added to each feeding as soon as possible. Cereal and egg may be fed to the infant as early as the third month.

Cod liver oil should be given twice a day. Start with a teaspoonful and increase the amount to 1½ teaspoons twice a day. Orange juice or tomato juice should be included in the daily diet and is best given in the morning.

To determine whether the child is making satisfactory progress, it should be weighed at regular intervals. Underfeeding is shown if the weight drops off and continues to fall. Over-feeding is a frequent cause of distress. Vomiting and repeated colicky attacks are signs of over-feeding.

Mothers reluctant to start weaning their babies should remember that weaning is a normal process that need cause no anxiety. Never delay weaning, because it is more difficult to accomplish as the child grows older. Proper weaning done gradually and under the supervision of a physician is nothing to be dreaded.

Answers to Health Queries

H. E. L. Q.—How shall I make my skin firm after reducing?

A.—Take a good nourishing diet and plenty of exercise in the fresh air. Send self-addressed stamped envelope for full particulars and restate your question.

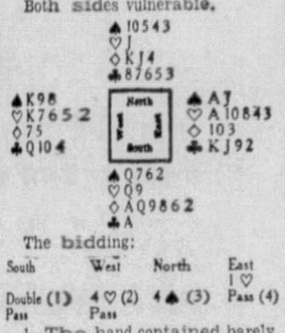
The Takeout Double

The Takeout Double, when properly used, is one of the most effective declarations in Contract. It should imply in the hand of the maker a minimum of 3 honor-tricks, and generally, if any suit other than spades is bid, it should be prepared for a weak spade response from partner or else a strong escape suit should be held by the Doubler. Of course, the Takeout Double is not forcing to game, but even although the partner of the Opening bidder seeks to interfere with the exchange of information by a Jump response to the Opening bid, partner will generally get a conception of the situation and find some manner to respond if his hand has either distributional or other values which might prove of value.

In the final rounds of the recent New England Contract Pair Championship held at New London, Conn., one of the hands furnished to a pair playing therein an opportunity to get a most excellent result through the use of a Takeout Double and a brilliant response by the partner of the Doubler. To many, his hand would appear merely trickless, but this would be only a surface view.

East—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Double (1)	4♡ (2)	4♠ (3)	Pass (4)
Pass	Pass

1—The hand contained barely 3 honor-tricks, but was prepared for a spade response and had a long escape suit if things went badly.

2—An overbid, but West was very anxious to shut out the exchange of information between North and South.

3—A very brilliant bid.

4—East was conservative in not taking further action. It would require Double Dummy defense to defeat a five-heart contract a considerable amount, but East doubtless felt that there was a good chance of defeating four spades and did not wish to take a penalty on a hand that might show a profit.

In the play, due to a correct guess as to trump distribution, North made his contract, losing only two spades and one heart. It was a fitting reward for brilliant bidding by North plus accurate play.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

Is the immediate Overcall of opponents' suit an absolute Force or is it, like the Takeout Double, Forcing only once?

Answer — The immediate Overcall of opponents' suit is an absolute Force to game, and partner is not permitted to drop the bidding short of game. Consequently, to make this bid, a hand must be practically equivalent to an Opening two-bid. Lacking this much strength, a Double is in order.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Pumps are hard on feet. Every shoe should have a strap, and two straps are twice better. The shoe that slips makes for foot spread and weak ankles. Old shoes may be beloved, but they are responsible for many foot ills. Keep well shod all the time.

The housewife will find that she will have less and less hand worry if she will carefully rinse away soap suds from her mitts. Not that household soaps and powders are harsh these days but that the generalissimo of the household has more soap on her hands than she needs. Keep a bottle of evaporating hand lotion in the kitchen and bathroom and use freely.

Household Hints

Onion juice, applied immediately, will often remove scorch marks from clothes.

A tablespoonful of vinegar added to lard when frying, prevents the food absorbing too much fat.

If your tea kettle has a lid whose knob is hollow, fit a cork into the hollow space. It will prevent the knob from getting so hot that it burns your fingers.

Powdered pumice stone mixed with good-quality soap powder is excellent for removing the grease marks that often appear on the inside of a bath. The pumice powder is too fine to scratch the porcelain.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Friendship

Dr. Mrs. Beeckman:

About a year ago we came to a small village to live and we were invited to call on a family whom we like very much, but, owing to social negligence on our part, we failed to call. We see them still, quite often, and we both always speak, but I feel that I never responded in the proper manner at the time I should have. Is it too late to overcome my social error, and take up a friendship which I feel would have been pleasant? I know that I offended them, but they have been nice enough to overlook my deficiency, and have gone out of their way to cover up the hurt which was apparent at the time.

T.

I'm sure that it isn't too late to do something about this, and to start the friendly relationship that you wish, and that apparently they too would welcome. Since there was nothing intentional in your neglect, and since they are such sensible people that they see there wasn't, I'd now plan to take up the reins of friendliness.

An invitation to dinner is probably the most hospitable of invitations and the most important, and so I suggest that you extend this invitation. Write the woman a note of invitation; this would be better than a telephone call, under the circumstances, for this gives her a chance to do what she wishes to do about the invitation. Set a definite time, of course, and have your dinner beautifully arranged and prepared, and have every element of your hospitality suggest your wish to extend the best of hospitality.

Square Treatment

Do not laugh at your child's faults when company is around and then punish him for the same trick when you are alone. It does not take the little fellow long to see the unfairness of such treatment and he will soon lose confidence in you.

Candidate

George M. Cohan plays two roles in "Phantom President," coming to the Warner screen Friday. He portrays a medicine show doctor posing as a candidate for the presidency.

Actress Makes Mark In First Picture

A personality to be reckoned with—that is what Hollywood said of Katharine Hepburn after her first picture, "Bill of Divorcement." Now the eccentric young actress (she wears over-alls and things around the studio) is being cast opposite Joel McCrea in "Three Came Unarmed." Miss Hepburn, despite her status as a film newcomer, wrote her contract pretty much to suit herself. She insisted upon certain time off each year to allow her to do a play—and R-K-O feared the new picture might interfere with her stage plans. The mid-November starting date of "Three Came Unarmed" still will enable the actress to appear on Broadway during the current season.

'Moon Song' to Star Kate Smith

"Moon Song," written by Fanny Hurst especially for the screen, has been selected as a starring vehicle for Kate Smith. Miss Smith was signed by Paramount as the result of her good work in "The Big Broadcast."

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Ten members of "The Good Earth" company, playing its first matinee in the Nixon today, attended the first matinee of "The Bride the Sun Shines On" by the Edwin Vail Players in the Pitt yesterday. The party included the manager and his wife. The Vail thespians this week are rehearsing each morning in preparation for next week's attraction, "As Husband's Go," comedy by Rachel Crothers.

In addition to the appearance of Thurston Hall, along with June Walker and Osgood Perkins, in "The Pure in Heart," Theater Guild play coming to the Nixon next week, the new John Howard Lawson comedy has another Pittsburgh link. Settings for the play were designed by Woodman Thompson, now a noted scenic designer. Mr. Thompson is a graduate of Tech drama school who later was a member of the staff of the same institution. Seats for "The Pure in Heart" will be on sale in the Nixon box office tomorrow.

Following "The Pure in Heart" into the Nixon will be another musical revue, coming for its premiere. Lew Brown and Ray Henderson, who have contributed tunes and lyrics to many musical successes, will make their debut here as producers. They call their first offering "Forward March" and, of course, they did the music and lyrics themselves. It will make its bow to the world October 17 with a cast that boasts youth rather than "names."

J. C. Nugent, recently here in "Humpty Dumpty," is going back into his old role in the Frank Craven comedy, "That's Gratitude," when it is revived next week in New York . . . Frank McHugh and Dick Powell, Pittsburghers, who recently appeared on the screen in "Blessed Event," will work together in another film, "Forty-second Street," which goes into production this week . . . Lillian Gish, who appeared in a gala revival of "Camille" in Colorado this summer, will begin a road tour in the same play in New Haven next Monday . . . Francis X. Bushman, recently returned from England, will go to Hollywood soon, harboring thoughts of re-entering pictures.

George Raft, Hollywood's newest romantic rage, is to be co-featured with Gary Cooper in "Fly On!" immediately upon the completion of his current picture, "Under-Cover Man," according to announcement by Paramount. "Fly On!" is an original story by John Monk Saunders, author of "Wings," the production in which Cooper first attracted attention in a small part.

Scottish Dress Worn By Film Player

It looks like a Scotch winter ahead—and not because of economic conditions. Pretty Marmarget Lindsay is one of the first girls in Hollywood to wear a real Scottish tartan dress. The colors are red, green and black, forming a striking plaid dress. She wears a short black jacket and black hat, but a broad scarf of the tartan is tied snugly around the throat.

Elmer Kenyon Lectures On O'Neill

The first of a series of six lectures on modern dramatists was delivered last night at the College Club by Elmer Kenyon, of the Tech Drama School, his subject being "Eugene O'Neill." He discussed not only the personality and education of the author of "Strange Interlude," but the whole cycle of his work from the early one-act plays to "Mourning Becomes Electra." He showed how O'Neill can be measured by the yardstick of Aeschylus and Shakespeare, and is convinced that a spirit of affirmation and faith is overcoming the earlier negation and pessimism. The next lecture in the course will be given next Tuesday and will deal with Noel Coward. They are under the auspices of the Wheaton Club.

Joan Blondell Has New Assignment

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

BY MARK HELLINGER

The Sucker

AFTER ALL the stories you've read of ex-wives, ex-husbands, ex-stool pigeons and ex-marks-the-spot, this little legend of an ex-bootlegger won't cause you much additional suffering.

We'll call him Paul because, strangely enough, that was his name. He was a nice-looking bird, our Paul. And he had a nice job reading gas meters over in New Jersey, which is a pleasant spot for gas meters.

He was married, of course, it being sort of a badge of protection for a gas man to be married. And let it be said here and now that Paul was very much in lovve with his hausfrau. And she with him.

Paul was a thrifty bird. Despite the fact that he only made thirty-two dollars a week, he always managed to save five. If he cut down on his lunches to do it, who am I to criticize such a move?

But Paul's eyes were always on the future. When he had saved $600, he plunked it down on a house and figured out on paper that it would only take until 1950 to make the final payment. Thus, by the time he was 52 years of age, he would own a house. And by the time he was 104, he—oh, well . . .

About a year ago, our hero had all of his swell ideas knocked into a cocked hat in one evening. He had been holding down a brass railing in one of the local speaks, when he met a school chum.

"H'ya," said Paul. "You're Bill Scanlon, ain'tcha? I remember you from school. Howya been?"

The figure at the other end of the bar rushed over to pump Paul's hand.

"Well, well, well," he exclaimed. "If it ain't old Paul. Whaddya know about that. Whaddya know. It's a small world after all, ain't it?"

Within five minutes they were acting like a pair of brother Elks cast up on a desert island together. The past was reviewed minutely, and each expressed great surprise at what had happened to the other. Perhaps you've met someone you haven't seen in a long time. You know what happens.

At any rate, Bill insisted on buying drinks. Paul, who usually treated himself to a beer and then waited until someone else treated, was aghast at such display of wealth. Bill bought rye which had really seen a ship once—from a distance—and Paul drank everything that came his way.

When it came time to leave, Bill decided to take our drunken hero home. Paul said no. But Bill insisted. So Paul was poured into a gorgeous roadster and taken home in style.

On the next evening Bill invited himself to Paul's home. He looked the place over with a condescending glance and carefully rubbed the seat of the chair with his handkerchief before sitting down.

Within an hour he had Paul's eyes popping like a Pekingese with high blood pressure. Bill explained that he had a duplex apartment over in Tudor City, two cars and a flock of plain and fancy girl friends.

Poor Paul. He was making out all right until he heard of easy money. And so, without any attempt to moralize, I'll tell you that he begged Bill to try to get him a job in the racket—bootlegging.

Did it make any difference that the gas man's wife pleaded with him to stick to her and be a good boy? You're right. It didn't. Within a week, Bill had spoken to the head man and got Paul a job driving high grade stuff in high-powered roadsters from Long Island to Manhattan.

From this time on, our Paul was a changed person. He seldom appeared at home, spoke very little and drank infrequently. He was out for the big dough, and he got it.

One day, he went back to his little home for a clean handkerchief or something, and his faithful spouse made a little speech.

"Who is this interior decorator that's been calling up?" she wanted to know. "He's been talking about some duplex apartment over in Tudor City. Now Paul, please listen to me. I don't want to move over there. Honest, I don't. We get along all right here when you are working the meters, and I think you're making the mistake of your life in changing."

Paul smiled a very wise smile. "Don't worry, honey," he said. "You're right. You stay here. I'm taking this duplex apartment on the side, and if I don't show home here often I'll send you money regularly. Just don't worry, and don't bother me.

And he walked out . . .

Some six months later Paul was standing beside his roadster in a strip of woods on Long Island. He was watching the men load his rumble seat in secret panels with Burgundy. Bill was standing beside him.

"By the way, Paul," he said. "The chief has assigned me to ride with you tonight. That Spinoza mob have been laying for you, and he wants me to be on hand in case—"

Paul felt a very strange sensation that ran from the pit of his stomach to his knees. In plain English, my good friends, he was scared silly. He had a burning desire to run until he ran out of breath. But he didn't.

The trip went smoothly enough until they reached the half-way mark. Suddenly, from out of a clump of trees ahead, a sedan pulled out and headed in the direction Paul was going.

For a split second, the cars rode side by side on the deserted road. Then little yellow tongues of flame started to shoot from the side of the sedan. Before Paul realized what was happening the sedan had disappeared, and his own car was lying on its side beside the road. Bill was dying.

"No hospital," he gasped. "No hospital. It's almost over. Take it easy. Don't lift me. I'm all right here. Listen. For heaven's sake, get out of this yourself. Get out quick. Don't be a sucker, Paul. It's to big for you. Don't be a sucker."

The chief disposed of the body. He also disposed of Paul. He recognized the signs of cowardice, and told our hero that the best thing he could do was quit. Paul did.

On the way home, he rehearsed the speech of the penitent sinner. When he saw his wife, he forgot the speech and cried instead. It works just as well. They fell into each other's arms and discussed the mortgage and gas meters and payments on the piano.

"I've been a fool," muttered Paul as he held his wife tightly, "but I'm wiser now. I almost lost you—and I almost lost everything. But that's over. From now on, I'm playing the game safe. Let the other guy take the chances. I'm living here quietly with you—and we'll travel down the long road together. I love you, honey."

Just a happy couple . . .

There is but one more item in this story. It happened the same night as the homecoming. Paul went down the cellar steps to repair a slight gas leak. And it pains me exceedingly to report that he fell and broke his neck! . . .

New Picture Cast Now Complete

The cast of Sally Eilers' next Fox picture, "Second Hand Wife," now in production at Movietone City, is now complete. Ralph Bellamy will be seen as Miss Eilers' leading man with Asa Haswell, Esther Howard, Helen Vinson, Victor Jory, Karol Kay, Dorothy Christy, Clay Climent, Effie Ellsler and Nella Walker playing the other important roles. "Second Hand Wife" is from a novel by Kathleen Norris.

Fields Given Role As Sea Captain

Stanley Fields, known for his hard-boiled portrayals on the screen, was awarded the thirty-seventh role of his 36 months in pictures when he was selected to play a tough sea captain in Paramount's "Island of Lost Souls." Fields has just completed a part in "The Kid From Spain" with Eddie Cantor, although at the time he was appearing in two other productions at Fox.

Charlie Ruggles Gets New Vehicle

Charlie Ruggles, whose convivial characterizations have enriched the humor of "70,000 Witnesses" and "The Night of June 13" among other recent Paramount pictures, has been assigned a featured role in "Madame Butterfly," which is soon to go into production with Sylvia Sidney and Cary Grant heading the cast.

Paramount Signs Roscoe Karns

Roscoe Karns today was signed to a long-term acting contract by Paramount and given, as his first assignment, a featured role in "Under-Cover Man" in support of George Raft and Nancy Carroll. Karns, who first came to the attention of Hollywood for his portrayal on the stage of Hildy Johnson in the Pacific Coast production of "The Front Page," won his contract as the result of his work in "Night After Night."

Fifi Dorsay to Play 'Silk Stockings'

Fifi Dorsay will help supply the zip in Universal's forthcoming laugh-getter, "Silk Stockings." She will play a French maid who figures largely in the adventures of Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville. Some years ago, Laura La Plante starred in a silent version of this picture.

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West, of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 179 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 159 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drug store—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.

WALTER JOHNSON DROPPED AS WASHINGTON MANAGER

FANS REGRET POPULAR VET'S PASSING

THOUGH THE ACTION was not unexpected, the dropping of Walter Johnson as manager of the Washington club causes regret throughout the big leagues, as it means the second and probably the final passing from the majors of one of baseball's finest characters and most popular figures. Johnson was a credit to the game in a non-playing capacity, just as he was during his marvelous American League career of 21 years as one of the greatest pitchers of all time, when he hung up such remarkable records as 416 victories against 276 defeats; 113 shutouts; 3,497 strikeouts; 16 straight wins in 1912; 96 games won in three consecutive seasons; three shutouts in three consecutive games against one club, New York, in four days in 1908; 56 shutout innings pitched in succession in 1913; beating one club, Chicago, nine times in one season, 1912, and leading his league six years in games won and six years in earned-run average with a low of 1.09 in 1913.

Walter Johnson

Walter is the third figure of exceptional prominence to pass out of the picture in 1932, John McGraw and Rogers Hornsby having preceded him. There are now two managerial vacancies to be filled for 1933, the other being in Cincinnati. All the rest of the clubs are set to start again with their present pilots, with the exception that no definite announcement has yet come from the Red Sox as to the status of Marty McManus.

THE BEST PITCHER in the world series? Lefty Gomez impressed Umpire Bill Klem more than did any other flinger. "Gomez has the heart, the speed, the curve—everything that a good pitcher needs in there," Klem said. "But what I like most about him is that he gets the ball away from him without the senseless pause so many pitchers think is necessary.

"Gomez takes his stretch, raises both hands high over his head, and brings 'em down in front of him, to his chest. And without any hesitation, he goes through with the pitch from there. That's the real feature of Gomez's pitching as I see it. He doesn't allow the batter to get set. He hurries a game along."

THE QUICK PITCH that is such a big factor in the success of Gomez caused a rumpus in the final game of the world series of 1928. The rival managers had agreed to bar it, but Willie Sherdel shot one over on Babe Ruth in the seventh inning and claimed a strikeout. After a long wrangle, Sherdel was ordered to deliver another ball to Ruth and the Babe socked it over the right field stand for his second homer of the afternoon. Later Ruth slammed out another four-baser to set a world series record of three home runs in one game.

A FEW YEARS ago Gomez would not have been able to get away with the quick pitch in the American League. The late Ernest Barnard, president of the league, ordered a balk called if the pitcher did not pause an instant after bringing his hands down in front of him and before delivering the ball to the batter. In one game at Philadelphia, five balks were called. That was making a farce of the rule to protect the batter and it finally was revoked. Predictions are being made that the success of Gomez will lead other pitchers to adopt the quick fling next season unless it is banned again as unfair to the hitters.

Tony Lazzeri

PERHAPS JOE M'CARTHY was only aiming to make the victory of his own team look bigger when he said at the close of the world series that the Yankees had beaten a good ball club. Anyhow, his own players do not join with him in praising the opposition.

One of the outspoken Yankees is Tony Lazzeri. He says the 1932 edition of the Cubs was the weakest club sent into the title series by the National League since he came up to the majors in 1926. "What kind of league is the National," asks Lazzeri, "when a club like that can win the pennant?"

ADMITTEDLY, THE CUBS were bad enough, but old Jess Burkett, a National Leaguer himself for many years, and three times batting champion, appears to be stretching things a bit in declaring that any club in the American could have won the National pennant.

Wonder if Burkett includes the Red Sox, who lost 111 games during the 1932 season, or the White Sox, who dropped 102? Even the feeble Reds in the National were not so weak as to reach the hundred mark in defeats.

IN THAT CONNECTION a query comes to hand as to whether or not the Red Sox broke the major league record in losing 111 games. They did not. They were 23 defeats short of it. The record was established by the old Cleveland National League club, which lost 134 games during the season of 1889, after the pick of the players had been transferred to St. Louis. The modern record, or for the period starting in 1900, are 117 in the American League, set by the A's in 1916, and 109 in the National, set by the Phillies in 1928. Prior to the loss of 134 games by Cleveland, the National League record was charged up against the Pittsburgh club of 1890, which lost 113, 23 of them in a row.

SOME OF THE Pittsburgh district timber-toppers that will take the hurdles at the seventh annual race meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Hunts Race Association next Wednesday, Columbus Day, on the farm of George R. McNary, near Greensburg, are being conditioned for big races elsewhere, and their owners are confidently expecting them to take down laurels at those courses.

Richard King Mellon, local financier-sportsman, whose animals bear an international reputation, will send his sterling jumper, Royal Urn, to the post at the Western Pennsylvania Hunts meeting in the three-and-a-half mile post-and-rail event. Royal Urn ran his maiden race recently in the Meadowbrook Cup, finishing third to the winner, T. W. Durant's Fugitive, and Ben Leslie Behr's Brose Hover.

ROYAL URN, after competing at the Greensburg course, will be shipped to Far Hills, N. J., to seek top honors in the fifteenth running of the famous New Jersey Hunt Cup. The meeting will open on October 28.

Malcolm McGiffin, member of the race committee of the Western Pennsylvania Hunts, will also send a starter to the New Jersey meeting in Stonedale, a big, fast-stepping hurdler that bids fair to capture the cup and the $1,500 added purse.

R. K. Mellon

R. K. MELLON and J. W. Lawrence, secretary of the local association and a member of the hunts committee of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, will ship horses to the Bridlespur Hunt Club meeting, which will be held at Huntleigh, Mo., near St. Louis, on October 24. Neither has named his entries for that date. Owner Durant, the New York sportsman, also will send horses to the Bridlespur course and will have several entries on the Greensburg program. The Pittsburgh horses to be sent to St. Louis will go after the famous Mississippi Valley Gold Cup, with its $750 added purse. August A. Busch, of St. Louis, who will have several entries in the Columbus Day races, is master of the hounds at the Bridlespur Club. Local horses also will run at the Genesee Valley Hunt Club meeting, which will be held at Geneseo, N. Y., October 29.

DUKES WORK ON DEFENSE

VET'S REMOVAL COMES AS SURPRISE

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The annual turn-over in baseball managers, moving at a faster pace this year than usual, already has left two major league vacancies—at Cincinnati and Washington.

The failure of Dan Howley to lift the Cincinnati Reds out of the National League cellar prepared the baseball world for his recent release, but there was considerable surprise when Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, announced last night that Walter Johnson was through as manager.

PILOT SINCE 1929

Johnson, the "Big Train," a terror to American League batsmen for 20 years, had managed the club since 1929. The Senators finished sixth in that year, second in 1930 and third in 1931 and 1932. Rumors that he would be replaced were current this summer, when the Senators fell into a disastrous slump, but they played sensational ball in the latter stages of the campaign and it was thought Johnson's job was safe.

One of the most popular figures ever in baseball, the records show Johnson's pre-eminence as a player. For 12 seasons he led the American League pitchers in strikeouts. Approximately 3,500 batsmen faced him during his long career without getting more than a foul off his delivery. It is probable that his strikeout record will never be exceeded. So fast was the ball whipped toward the plate by his long right arm in his prime that a standing joke around the league was the number of hitters who tried to get out of the lineup for one reason or another on the days he faced them.

BEAT GIANTS IN '24

His speed had dwindled somewhat before he ever played in a world series, but after two losing games in 1924 against the New York National League club, he entered the final game as a relief pitcher and mastered McGraw and his men to win a 12-inning game and the series. The next year he faced Pittsburgh but lost the deciding game.

Win, lose or tie, Johnson accepted it without flinching or sulking. President Coolidge once pointed him out as model for youth and there were no dissenting voices.

Neither Griffith nor Sidney Weil, at Cincinnati have given any inkling as to their new choices. Both declare they are looking around with no one in particular in mind.

TERRY, GRIMM BACK

There may be other changes in managerial ranks before the 1933 season opens but most of the pilots already have signed contracts. Of the three managers who were appointed in the midst of the 1932 season, Bill Terry, of the New York Giants, and Charley Grimm, of the Chicago Cubs, already are under contract.

Marty McManus, who succeeded John Collins as leader of the Boston Red Sox, has not yet received a contract for next season.

CUBS TO SEEK KLEIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The Chicago Cubs are reported eager to obtain Chuck Klein, of the Philadelphia Phillies, for the 1933 race. The local officials will attempt to engineer a trade for the star fly chaser this winter. Roy Hensaw, a college southpaw, has been signed.

M'CARTHY NOT SIGNED

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Joe McCarthy, manager of the world champion New York Yankees, remains unsigned for 1933. He will come here next week to discuss a new pact with Owner Ruppert.

BRAVES NOT SOLD

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—Emil Fuchs, owner of the Boston Braves, has denied reports that he will sell his holdings to Charles F. Adams, owner of the Boston Bruins hockey club.

Bobcats Lose Pair For Bethany Game

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Wesleyan will be without two of its stars when it faces Bethany on the football field Saturday.

Coach Cebe Ross announced today injuries received in the Washington and Jefferson game would keep Fullback Paul Beveridge and Tackle Wentz Fordyce on the sidelines for at least two weeks. Ray Hay, former Broaddus player, will work at tackle against Bethany, while Clark Hull will replace Beveridge.

Judge Landis Ill, Rajah's Plea Waits

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Rogers Hornsby's appeal to Baseball Commissioner Landis for a share of the Cubs' world series money may not be reached for two or three days, perhaps longer.

Commissioner Landis is confined to his home, due to a cold. Indications were he would not return to his office until the latter part of the week.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE GLOBE-TROTTING SCHOOLGIRL—Miss Hulene Abercrombie, who at present resides in Amarillo, Tex., is the daughter of a traveling man who kept her constantly on the move during her school days. On the list of schools she attended between 1920 and 1928 the State of Wisconsin is represented 20 times, Texas 13 times, Oklahoma 13 times and the states of Minnesota, South and North Dakota, Kansas, Missouri, Colorado, New Mexico, Montana, Washington and Oregon are represented by numerous localities where the "globe-trotting schoolgirl" has gone to school. When she finished the eighth grade, at O'Neil, Neb., she had changed schools 98 times at the age of 13. With high school in St. Paul and senior high school in Amarillo, Tex., this record now is 100 schools, within 17 states.

TOMORROW—THE GHASTLY FIST.

PANTHERS MAY TAKE TO AIR SATURDAY

By JESS CARVER

As the day of the big test thunders on (thunders is the word) it becomes more and more apparent that the only advantage the Dukes are going to have in their game with Pitt's Golden Panthers here Saturday will be that they'll be the under-pups. Such an advantage is not one that readily will be accepted as good victory collateral. The Cubs were on the short end against the Yanks; Mickey Walker was against Schmeling and so are we'uns in this scrap to keep out in front of the sheriff.

Paul Reider

Seldom have two local teams gone about preparations for a big game in the manner in which the Panthers and Dukes are prepping for their Stadium duel. The Pitts, meaning to show nothing more than absolutely is necessary to get by the locals, are taking things in a matter-of-fact way. It's just another tough ball game for them, and while they are not underestimating the abilities of the Red and Blue, they also are looking ahead to next week's game with Army. Thus, they'll hardly enter the game against the Dukes suffering from nervousness.

DEFENSE ON SPOT

It's a case of shoot-the-works with Duquesne, but the Night Riders can't spend too much time on their attack, for it is imperative that the defense be up to snuff, in fact, the more "upper" it is, the better. Coach Layden has been mighty secretive about his battle plans, but it is known that he's polishing up his aerial game and striving to get more power into his eleven's running attack.

It is the Duquesne tackles and end who are going to be the busy lads Saturday, and they are the ones who are being primed this week. Ends and tackles always are on the spot against Pitt. Greasy Neale ran his tackles in and out last Saturday until they were bow-legged.

If ever a running attack was due to be tested, that of the Dukes is Saturday. Messrs. Skladany, Dailey, Hoel, Cuba, Hartwig, Ormiston, Walton, Meredith, Love, Seigal, Olejniesak, Tormey, Shotwell, Rocker, Timmons and Wojcihivski will see to that, to say nothing of the backfield men who'll take care of the secondary.

There was a regular pre-big game atmosphere around the Pitt camp yesterday. Coach Sutherland had the assistant managers busy seeing to it that no spies were admitted to the practice field and he drove the varsity squad long and hard. Capt. Paul Reider and Joe Tormey remained on the second eleven.

REIDER STILL OUT

Tormey is expected to be fit to start Saturday, as his cold is much better, thank you, but Reider's bum ankle still bothers him, and much as he wants to see action against the Dukes, the chances are that he'll be held out unless his presence in the lineup is absolutely necessary.

Pitt plans to employ a forward passing attack against the Dukes should the running game become clogged. If the Dukes don't catch it Saturday, Maj. Ralph Sasse and his Cadets will next week. It's an attack almost as good as new, for Coach Jock hasn't had it out of the moth balls since the Army game last year.

The Tipoff

Old Kid Trouble has moved right in with Hank Day, the new head coach at Wash-Jeff. Coach Hank has been having fullback trouble all fall. Demedowitz was injured during the pre-season training period and in last Saturday's opener against West Virginia Wesleyan, Bill King, the sophomore fullback star, cracked his knee. Bob Deacle is available, but Bob can't be expected to stick in there all the time. And the Presidents have to meet a tough one in Detroit Friday night.

If the Prexies get past Detroit, they'll come here next week to engage Carnegie practically even choices against the Skibos. Tech has nothing to fear this week with Western Reserve in Cleveland and is certain to be unbeaten and likely, unscored on, when it square off against the Red and Black.

Cam Henderson, in discussing West Virginia's chances for the season, prior to the game with the Dukes, was inclined to the belief that Greasy Neale was going to have a pretty nifty ball club. Henderson picked the Mountaineers to beat the Dukes, but said, that in the event they lost, that it would go hard with them for the remainder of the season. When the gong sounds, it will be Cam broadcasting:

"It all depends on how Neale gets away in his first two games. If he can beat the Dukes and hold Pitt, then his team will be very, very tough. But let them lose to Duquesne and be walloped again by Pitt and it will be just too bad. I don't envy him his job. I hope to beat him, certainly, and it is going to be easier for me if he gets away to a poor start. I don't wish him any bad luck—but . . . ."

Although the game is still more than two weeks away, plans already are being formulated for the reception and entertainment of the Ohio State party which will accompany the Buckeyes here for the game with Pitt October 22. There will be a big get-together smoker the night before the game out at the Schenley and the Pitt fraternity houses will be thrown open to the Ohio visitors over the week-end.

Pitt has added two new members to the eligibility committee of the university in Dr. A. P. James, professor of history, and R. D. Ayers, professor of accounting. Others on the committee are Dean L. Seig, Registrar J. G. Quirk and Dean E. A. Holbrook.

GOPHERS' STAR NEAR DEATH

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The heart which helped Myron Ubl win football games for Minnesota last year weakened today, and physicians expressed fear he might not recover.

Word that the 21-year-old halfback was slightly worse came from the university hospital after he had spent a fairly restful night. High blood pressure was affecting heart action.

Ubl was considered a certain regular this fall until he suffered a fractured chest in football practice two weeks ago.

After the fracture he contracted a cold and then pneumonia. A lung abscess developed, which called for an operation last Sunday, and draining tubes were inserted.

A hospital bulletin this forenoon said:

"Myron Ubl rested fairly well during the night, but his heart action is weaker than yesterday, which indicates that his condition is slightly worse. He is still in the oxygen tent, and this gives him considerable relief."

Dr. Robert B. Radl said he expected a change for better or worse today and indicated concern over the fact that the star halfback had shown no definite improvement since the critical period began Monday.

Five Local Gridders In Allegheny Lineup

MEADVILLE, Pa., Oct. 5.—The Pittsburgh district will be well represented in the Allegheny College starting lineup when the Methodists open their grid season against Edinboro State Teachers here Saturday.

As a result of their fine showing in a recent practice game, Bob Horn, of Clairton, will be at fullback, and Dee Sutter, Bellevue boy, at halfback. Bill Berger, of Homestead, will be at quarterback; Dick Horn of Clairton, at end, and Capt. Waite, of Monessen, at a tackle position.

Art Balser, a varsity back last year, has been placed on the second team.

PRO GAME OFF

Art Rooney, manager of the J. P. Rooney Club, has announced the cancellation of the game carded at Greenlee Field with the Portsmouth eleven of the National Professional League. The game was scheduled for Greenlee Field next Wednesday.

Baseball Stars Say Adieu With Seals Tonight

A Pittsburgh player who is a star in the major leagues, local players who burned up the minor leagues, and umpires just back home from the 1932 baseball season will tell their stories to the fans during a farewell gesture to the diamond sport, featuring the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 6:45 o'clock tonight.

Jimmy Levey, shortstop of the St. Louis Browns, is the local big leaguer in the array of stars corralled by Charles J. Doyle, baseball expert of the Sun-Telegraph, for the occasion. He will relate some of the highlights of the season in his league and touch upon the play of those devastating New York Yankees, who wrecked the Chicago Cubs in the world series.

Elmer Knetzer

Jerry Levey, brother of Jimmy, who was with the Wichita Club, also will speak.

KNETZER TO SPEAK

Minor leaguers who will appear include: Leo Mackey, manager of the Cumberland club of the Middle Atlantic League; Dick Goldberg, Bill Regan, former Pirate second baseman, and Frank Packard, all of the Baltimore Orioles of the International League; Elmer Knetzer, veteran former major league pitcher, and Jeff Fitzgerald and Dundee Rodgers, all of the Hazleton club of the New York-Pennsylvania League; Rip Collins, Cumberland catcher, and Frank (Bull) Brown, International League umpire, formerly of the American Association and Pacific Coast League.

TOUGH YEAR FOR GAME

It was a tough season for baseball. Many of the minor leagues folded up and the players underwent hardships in the circuits that came through to the finish. You'll hear all about the conditions from the players and others on the program, which is of a half-hour's duration, with Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, as master of ceremonies; Miss Marian Salmon at the piano and Herb McGee the announcer.

COMISH LIFTS GODFREY BAN

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Big George Godfrey, Leiperville (Pa.) Negro pugilist, was reinstated today by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission. His license had been revoked by the boxing arbiters and a fine of $5,000 imposed for fouling Primo Carnera in a bout at the Phillies Park here, June 29, 1930.

During the two years that have elapsed, numerous requests had been made to have Godfrey reinstated. The commissioners, however, rejected all of them previous to the conference today.

A statement was issued in connection with the reinstatement. It follows in part:

"The commission has felt that the fouling of Carnera by Godfrey was such a flagrant act and was so subversive of good sportsmanship that an example should be made of the offender by severely punishing him so that it might act as a deterrent, not only to him, but to other boxers who might be similarly inclined.

"Godfrey is repentant and has suffered not only financially, but has felt the stigma of his act. The commission feels, therefore, that his punishment has had such a salutary effect on him that he will strive to observe the ethics of decent sports. This, and the fact that it is our opinion that he has been sufficiently punished, impels the commission to reinstate him."

TARTAN LINEUP KEPT INTACT

The team that started for Carnegie Tech against Geneva last Saturday probably will get another chance Saturday when the Tartans move over to Cleveland to face Western Reserve. Coach Waddell made no changes in the alignment in the drills Monday and yesterday, which, incidentally, kept the boys on the field until after 7 o'clock.

Burzio and Heinzer are getting equal work at right guard, McCurdy, Bevevino and Dueger are taking turns at quarterback, and Sayles and Spisak are dividing left halfback duties.

Despite the ragged work of this combination against the Covenanters, confidence has not been lost in it as the strongest potential Carnegie lineup, and instead of shaking up the team, intensive work is being done on the simple fundamental faults that cropped up.

Coach Waddell is thoroughly satisfied with his defense, and every bit of practice time this week will be put on the offense in an effort to get things moving by Saturday, and keep them moving for Wash-Jeff October 15.

COLLEGE NET CHAMP WINS

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Unloosing a brilliant assortment of shots that passed his opponent like bullets, Fred Field, Marshall College star, defeated David Morgan, University of North Carolina, in a hard-fought three-set match in the Middle Atlantic intercollegiate tennis tournament yesterday. The scores were 6-3, 6-8, 9-7.

Wilmer Hines, North Carolina, the defending champion, won through the default of his opponent, Bob Woodhull, West Virginia. Donald Morrison, Virginia, overwhelmed Ralph Johnson, Lynchburg College, in two love sets, and Byron Wilkinson came through with a victory over Jack Norfolk, Lynchburg, 6-1, 6-2.

TWO RING CHAMPIONS FACE TESTS IN BOUTS TONIGHT

ROSENBLOOM, CANZONERI IN ACTION

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—A couple of world champions on one card, a former king tackling the heaviest punching welterweight in the world on another, and a coy situation revolving around Jack Dempsey and Jack Kearns, lifted the fight business today into the sports picture Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, and the Yankees have more or less overrun for the past 10 days.

Tony Canzoneri

Tonight, at Ebbetts Field, Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight king, heads the last big fight card of the outdoor season in a 10-round bout against Frankie Petrolle, brother of Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express. Petrolle has been substituted for Ray Miller, who was forced from the charity card by an attack of boils.

MAXIE MEETS REDMAN

Maxie Rosenbloom, recognized in New York as champion of the light-heavyweights, has found business so poor lately that he is content with a semi-final berth on the same card against Jack Redman, a local light-heavyweight, suspected of being a puncher. Both Rosenbloom and Canzoneri will come in overweight, and thus avoid risking their titles.

Madison Square anticipates a sell-out for the final test of Benny Leonard's comeback ability against Jimmy McLarnin Friday night, the first appearance of the former lightweight champion against an absolute topnotcher.

Leonard has whipped a score of second-raters over a year of struggle to get back to the top he left undefeated, and seeks to regain only because of financial reverses. He has a fine chance to slip past McLarnin, who seemed to have lost much of his punching power when he lost to Lou Brouillard here this summer.

KEARNS PUZZLED

Meanwhile the gossipers insisted that another old-timer, Jack Dempsey, was considering campaigning again in the colors of the Jack Kearns stable, under the banner of the man who made him heavyweight champion, and has been his bitterest enemy for the past seven years.

The feud broke up a week ago when Dempsey, leaping into the ring to be introduced before the Walker-Schmeling fight, either was dazzled by the ring lights or in full possession of his faculties, dashed first to Kearns, now managing Walker, and wrung his hand.

Kearns was dazed by the totally unexpected gesture of the man who broke their contract before losing his title to Gene Tunney in Philadelphia in 1926, and later fought and beat him in the courts in a $500,000 damage suit.

Dempsey passed it off the next day as a gesture, and since has been most mysterious in his movements. Kearns still professes not to know what could have prompted the former champion's reversal of feeling. But the common basis of the enmity always has been accepted as Dempsey's marriage, against Kearns' wishes, to Estelle Taylor, now divorced from the old man-mauler.

Whatever may develop between Kearns and Dempsey, there is little likelihood that anyone but themselves would take another Dempsey comeback seriously. The fight business long since has waived on what little fighting ability a Dempsey of 38 has left.

Pitt's Bootin' Bobby

BOB HOGAN

If he continues to improve as much as he has since last year, Bobby Hogan, Pitt's husky quarterback, is going to rank as a first-class punter. He's getting height and distance and placing them well. He figures to cause the Dukes plenty of grief next Saturday. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

LIONS DRILL ON PASSES

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—With no outside competition, Columbia's regulars scrimmaged among themselves yesterday, but didn't tackle the ball-carriers. A great deal of the three-hour drill was devoted to rehearsing formations designed to protect passers. Capt. Steve Grenda took part in signal drill and probably will play against Princeton Saturday.

Eastern Briefs

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Coach Fritz Crisler made several changes in the Princeton lineup in the course of a long scrimmage yesterday. Dan Hinman was back at center after a week out because of an injury, while three players, Fisher, Dudley and Fortune, were tried at left tackle.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Army went through a long drill yesterday devoted to smoothing out its attack in preparation for the stubborn defense scouts say may be expected from Carleton. Vidal was tried out in the first string backfield, calling signals, and got away twice for extended broken field runs.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Already troubled by injuries, Dartmouth had a light workout against the Lafayette plays put on by the scrubs yesterday. Ward Donner and Al Baldwin are definitely out and Ray Hulsart, veteran guard, had his injury diagnosed as a dislocated shoulder.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Harvard's varsity ran wild against the scrubs yesterday, but only the veterans showed up especially well. Coach Eddie Casey still is looking for competent replacements.

NEWTON, Mass., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Boston College players worked out on the tackling dummy yesterday in an effort to correct their most evident weakness. Taylor and Whalen, guards, were demoted, Slamin and O'Lalor replacing them, while Dick Reynolds, who has been injured, was back at left tackle.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Holy Cross regulars put in a long session yesterday trying to block freshman kicks, but it took the full strength of the Varsity line to break through. A signal drill preceded the scrimmage.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Yale's regulars had no trouble with scrubs, who used last year's Chicago plays and went down to a 13-0 defeat in a 45-minute scrimmage yesterday. Bob Lassiter, regular left half, was in uniform but did not take part in the scrimmage, and the problem of finding a suitable understudy for him occupied much of the coaches' attention.

OFF-DAY HELP TO NEWARK

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Newark's Bears, who started the little world's series strongly favored to win, lost ground when Minneapolis won the second and third games, were reinstalled as favorites today without swinging a bat all day yesterday.

Cold weather caused postponement of the fifth game yesterday after the deadlock of two victories each. While the postponement didn't help the Association champions, it made certain that Don Brennan, Newark's mound star, would see service again. This was bad news for the Millers, whose two defeats came while Brennan was pitching.

Al Mamaux, Newark manager, planned to use Pete Jablonowski or big Jim Weaver today, with Brennan on tap for tomorrow, while Donie Bush, of the Millers, kept his order unchanged with Jess Petty scheduled to start today and Dutch Henry tomorrow. Both are lefthanders and each won a game at Newark last week.

Latonia Classic Draws Star Entries

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Latonia sent out condition books yesterday for the first week of the fall meeting opening October 12, revealing that only the Latonia championship is drawing the big names of the turf.

Fifty-three remain eligible for the major contest, the books revealed. Of these the leading contenders appeared to be W. R. Coe's Pompeius and Osculator; R. M. Eastman's Cathot, and M. L. Schwartz' Gusto, all of which showed well at the spring meeting here.

Chicago Changes Bike Race Tenure

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Departing from the usual plan, Chicago's twenty-eighth international six-day bicycle race will open on a Wednesday and will close the following Tuesday. Previous events have opened on Sunday and finished on Saturday.

The next one will be held in the Chicago Stadium starting November 2.

Satoh Tops Vines In Exhibition

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines, American and Wimbledon tennis champion, was defeated in straight sets yesterday by Jiro Satoh, Japanese Davis Cup star, in an exhibition match at the California Club. The scores were 6-1, 6-3, 6-2.

'Dead Ball' Grid Rule Dissected by Harpster

By Howard Harpster

Geneva College Coach. All-America Quarterback at Carnegie Tech in 1928.

After watching the new "dead ball" rule, as demonstrated in the three or four games I have witnessed this year, I have come to the conclusion that the rule isn't as bad as it was generally supposed it would be.

There is no doubt that the rule, which declares the ball dead the instant the ball carrier touches the ground with any part of his anatomy except his hands or feet, has eliminated a great amount of unnecessary piling on and rough playing. Already the ball carriers are getting accustomed to the idea that there is no use trying to advance the ball after they have slipped to the ground. Such an attempt carries with it a five-yard penalty.

GUARD AGAINST ADVANCE

The defensive players likewise are getting accustomed to standing over a "grounded player" and seeing to it that he doesn't get up and run, rather than piling on top of him and letting him know the ball is dead by means of hard bumps, and, in some cases, broken bones. Before the rule was passed, a player who slipped to the ground with the ball in his possession was not officially barred from getting up and running, but, in nine cases out of 10, he was pounced upon by defensive players and was "unofficially" shown that he couldn't go any farther. Since in a majority of cases the ball carrier was not able to get up and advance the ball farther, the result of the new rule is about the same as it was before the rule was passed, so far as depriving a runner of additional yardage is concerned, while a great many injuries which before accurred as a result of piling on have been eliminated.

Howard Harpster

CERTAIN DISADVANTAGES

With the new rule in effect, many a team's star ball carrier will find that he can go through a game without receiving nearly as much punishment as he suffered under the old rule. It used to be a great temptation to pile on a star ball carrier under the pretense of believing that he was trying to get to his feet to advance the ball.

There are, however, a few instances in which the dead ball rule seems unfair. One example is where a runner with a clear field ahead and no opponents near slips and falls to the ground. In such an instance the spirit of the rule to prevent piling on, doesn't apply, but it would be impossible to make exceptions to the rule. Another example of the rule not being quite fair is in kicking for the point after touchdown.

ONLY ONE CHANGE

It is permissible for the player who is holding the ball for the kick to have a knee on the ground, as long as his team actually kicks. But, if the ball holder fumbles the pass from center and then, after picking it up, sees that there isn't time to get off the kick, the ball is dead if his knee was on the ground when he picked up the ball, and he can neither try to run with it nor throw it back to the kicker in an attempt to get the extra point by some other means.

FEW COACHING CHANGES IN DIXIE

By W. A. ALEXANDER

Member All-America Board of Football. (Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

Coaching changes were few and far between in the South during the past year. Twenty of the 23 Southern Conference teams have the same head coaches, while the Southwest Conference continues without a single change.

W. A. Alexander

Louisiana State University, in an effort to overcome the Tulane jinx, has made a wholesale reorganization of the coaching staff. Biff Jones, formerly head coach at West Point, assigned to Louisiana State University as head of the R. O. T. C., also has charge of the football team.

Along with Maj. Jones comes Bert Ingwerson, former head coach at the University of Iowa, and Waddell, trainer at West Point. Ingwerson acts as line coach at Louisiana State.

If coaching will turn the trick, Louisiana State University should be on top in a couple of years. No two coaches in the country are better liked or have more all-around ability than Jones and Ingwerson. The South is fortunate that two men of such ability and character have decided to make their homes in Dixie.

COX TULANE LEADER

Bernie Bierman, after winning a couple of championships for Tulane, was persuaded to return to his own alma mater, the University of Minnesota, as head coach. Tulane very wisely promoted Bierman's first lientenant, Ted Cox, to the captaincy. Cox is a former Minnesota lineman and has had charge of the Tulane line the last four years. Cox has the ability and knows conditions in New Orleans, and will carry on the great work started by Bierman. In addition to his ability, Ted Cox has one of the most attractive personalities in the game.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute, after a number of up-and-down years under a number of coaches from different schools has decided to end its difficulties by recalling a couple of its own boys.

BOAST FINE RECORD

Monk Younger and Tex Tillson have made a great record at Davidson College during the last six years. Davidson teams have been noted for being well coached and for their ability to keep on fighting no matter how hopeless the task assigned them. They have won many notable victories against impossible odds. Many of us feel that Younger and Tillson will make Virginia Polytechnic Institute a power in southern football if given sufficient time.

Michigan Coach Lauds Japanese Ball Players

SEATTLE, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The University of Michigan baseball squad of 14 under the leadership of Coach Ray Fisher arrived here yesterday after a two months' invasion of Japanese baseball fields.

The Wolverines were guests at a banquet last night of the University of Michigan Alumni Association.

Coach Fisher declared the way Japanese outfielders played was little less than big league style.

LEAGUE HOCKEY HERE OUT, SALE OF STARS ON

By CARL W. SHATTO

The breaking up of the hockey team which represented this city in the 1931-32 International League is to be continued today, while confirmed hockey addicts start a perusal of basketball and boxing information as a preliminary to looking to new fields for their winter sports entertainment.

Whitey Fields

Whitey Fields, one of the Yellow Jacket aces, has been sold to the Syracuse club of the International League, and other stalwarts who recently did their skating for Pittsburgh are to be disposed of soon.

Because the recent unsuccessful attempt to revive National League hockey here plans for a continuation of International League activity were blocked, and the city is to be without league hockey during the 1932-33 campaign.

Unless it is of the minor league or amateur variety, it is not likely that Pittsburgh will have hockey until the city boasts a new arena.

Fields was possibly the most valuable player on the Pittsburgh roster. Listed as a center, he led the Jackets in scoring with 31 points last season, despite the fact that he spent no little time as a relief defense man.

Fight Results

At Detroit—Kid Chocolate defeated Johnny Farr, 10 rounds; George Riley defeated Wilbur Chevalier, 6 rounds; Pete Firpo knocked out Joe Palazzo, 5 rounds; Spike Nelson defeated Harry Saunders, 4 rounds; Russell Moore secured cut over Tanner, 1 round; Dario Marfeno defeated Carlo Mazzoni, 6 rounds.

At Berlin—Vincez Bower won by a technical knockout over Raul Biancil, 1 rounds.

At New York—Johnny Bates defeated Charley (Trader) Horn, 10 rounds; Marty Fox defeated Gene Stanton, 6 rounds; Danny Rosen defeated Patsy LaRocco, 6 rounds.

At Alexandria, Va.—Vince Dundee defeated Queen Phelps, 10 rounds; Frankie McKenna defeated Joe Pino, 8 rounds.

At San Jose, Cal.—Baby Tiger Flowers defeated Pinto Dicka, 10 rounds.

At Reading, Pa.—Joe Kohn won by technical knockout over Jim Baker, 4 rounds.

At San Francisco—Young Peter Jackson defeated Kenny Lassen, 10 rounds; Tony Chaves defeated Eddie Lloyd, 4 rounds; Harry Burke defeated George Jerome, 4 rounds; Joey Robinson defeated Eddie Auvillante, 4 rounds; Al Romero defeated Bud Atkins, 4 rounds; George Hansford defeated Al Greenfield, 4 rounds.

MAZZEI WINS 10-MILE RUN

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 5.—Anthony Mazzei, of the University of Pittsburgh, won the Allegheny Mountain Association-A. A. U. senior 10-mile race here today. His time was 57 minutes 36 seconds.

William Greig, of Jeannette, was second in 58 minutes.

The other track and field events arranged as a feature of the Burgettstown Fair were called off when the steady rain turned the fair grounds into a quagmire.

An attempt will be made to go through with the football game scheduled this afternoon between the Burgettstown Union High School team and East Huntington Township High.

GAY LOU BEST DOG

LOUDON, Tenn., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Gay Lou, owned by Joe Morgan and S. L. Woolridge, of Versailles, Ky., wore the blue ribbon today as the best dog in the Southeastern Fox Hunters' Association bench show. She recently won the Kentucky State Fair championship.

ROONEYS' GAME WITH CHRISTY PARK OFF

The game scheduled at Greenlee Field tonight between the J. P. Rooneys, of the Western Pennsylvania Independent Football Conference, and Christy Park, of McKeesport, was called off at noon today because of rain and wet grounds.

Tomorrow night the East Liberty Papales will resume their West Penn Conference campaign, meeting Stanley Berkman and his Dan Burns gridders at Greenlee Field. Burns, for many years one of the most popular gridiron combinations operating, appears as strong as ever. In the game with the Olympics, Berkman worked his team to perfection. The Papales, led by Joe Morbito and Wop Politz, will have a real battle on their hands. Tarentum will play the Etna Sycamores in a Lightweight Conference engagement at Tarentum tomorrow night.

Sunday, at Greenlee Field the Rooneys and the McKeesport Olympics will clash. This game promises the fans a real battle. The Olympics won over Bellaire last Sunday.

The other game in the Conference Sunday finds East Liberty at Bellaire.

NEXT TO FINAL P. G. A. TOURNEY OF SEASON ON TODAY

WOMEN CHOOSE OFFICERS FOR NEXT YEAR

The Pennsylvania State Golf Association is holding its next to the last tournament of the season at Edgewood today. According to Secretary George Flinn, only one more tourney will be held this year under the auspices of the state body. That one will be held at Wildwood.

The fair sex concluded a successful season as the Western Pennsylvania Women's Golf Association held its annual meeting for the election of officers, and a one-day tourney at the Pittsburgh Country Club yesterday.

Mrs. George L. Hays, of Oakmont, was re-elected president of the organization for a second term; Mrs. Chester H. Lehmann, of the Westmoreland Country Club, was elected first vice president; Mrs. H. C. Anderson, of the Longue Vue Club, second vice president, and Mrs. J. Bernd Rose, of Allegheny, third vice president.

Mrs. W. S. McCrady again will serve as secretary, with Miss Anna Wood, of Stanton Heights, treasurer. The directors for the coming year include Mrs. A. E. Arensberg, Oakmont; Mrs. H. P. Roth, Alcoma; Mrs. J. F. Walton, Fox Chapel; Mrs. C. I. Wendt, Pittsburgh Field Club, and Mrs. J. Bialas, of Longue Vue.

The nominating committee for the ensuing year is composed of Mrs. J. R. Price, of Oakmont, chairman; Mrs. Carl Van der Voort, Shannopin; Mrs. W. B. Morris, Edgewood; Miss Mary Kuhn, Field Club, and Miss Katherine McClosky, Longue Vue.

In the tourney, Mrs. F. E. Campbell, of Stanton Heights, took low gross honors with a 66. Mrs. M. Marshall, of the Edgewood Country Club, won the low net prize with a 77.

GARDEN BOOKS KAYO STAR

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

Motor Square Garden will make a new and belated start on its fall and winter boxing season one week from next Monday, Manager Joe Mazer announced today. The Garden staged its first show, featuring Al Brown and Mose Butch, Monday night of last week, and it was a mistake. Brown wouldn't fight, the gate was small, the fans were disgusted, and the club lost a good-sized piece of money on the venture.

No show was held last Monday, and there'll be none next Monday. By the time October 17 rolls around, the marathon dance in the building probably will have folded up, and it is planned to run regularly every Monday night from then on until the end of the season.

KNOCKOUT SENSATION

For the new getaway, Matchmaker Jules Beck has signed what shapes up as a corking middleweight match, introducing the punching sensation of the class, Sammy Slaughter, Terre Haute Negro, managed by Bud Taylor, the former bantamweight star, against an old favorite here, Belting Paul Pirrone, of Cleveland.

Slaughter holds a four-round knockout victory over Pirrone, scored in Chicago. He also knocked out Angel Cliville, the Porto Rico Negro, who stopped Tiger Joe West here, incidentally breaking Cliville's jaw with the finishing punch. Other knockout victims of Slaughter are Jocko Walters, Gary Leach, Haakon Hansen, Homer Sheridan and Jess Akers. Prominent boxers who have lost to him on decisions include Henry Firpo, Roy Wallace, Willie Oster and Allen Matthews. He defeated Al Stillman, of St. Louis, in Terre Haute last Monday night, flooring his man three times in the 10 rounds.

Between Rounds

Babe Triscaro and Johnny Edwards box the main bout of a show in Youngstown next Tuesday night.

Irish Kane wants to know how Joey Speigal and other welterweights get that way continually challenging his Marty Gornick, who, he says, is merely a 140-pounder, and almost a lightweight.

Al Becker, Sheraden middleweight, is in Mercy Hospital for an operation for a broken right elbow, suffered two fights ago. He was bothered by the injury, but it remained for an X-ray to reveal the fracture.

The Tony Canzoneri-Frankie Petrolle show at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, tonight, is for the benefit of a Masonic children's summer camping fund.

Johnny Datto is training for a fast fight when he meets Lew Massey, of Philadelphia, in the main bout at the Arena on the North Side tomorrow night. He has boxed the Italian before and knows he is a speedy gent, but not a hard hitter. Datto himself is a knockout star. In recent bouts he has been criticized for not being sufficiently aggressive while waiting for chances to counter-punch. He says he'll carry the fight to Massey and will try to stow him away to even up for the decision Massey won over him in Philadelphia in 1929.

Frankie Bojarski, Erie southpaw, will be out to demonstrate that he is far from being washed up and through as a fighter when he boxes Ray Van Hook, of Pontiac, Mich., in the main bout of Jim McGirr's show in McKeesport tomorrow night. Bojarski hadn't lost a fight until Billy Wallace knocked him out in Cleveland. Then he lost several bouts and the report went out that he was through. He went into retirement for a rest and now he's back, and his manager, Jack Bairs, is authority for the statement that he's just as good as he ever was, and he was a tough one at his best.

Promoter Jim McGirr has completed his card for tomorrow night at McKeesport by signing Hal Finney, local Negro welterweight, to box Billy Schweitzer, of Ambridge, in one of the three four-round preliminaries. Paul Oger and Gene Moretti are in the six-round semi-final, and Al Conrad, of Duquesne, meets Al Waidecker, of Tarentum, and Eddie Shinn, of Turtle Creek, opposes Joe Shinn, of Duquesne, in the two other four-rounders. Frankie Bojarski boxes Ray Van Hook in the main bout.

BISON BACKS HURT

LEWISBURG, Pa., Oct. 5.—Three regular backs will be out of the Bucknell lineup Saturday at Fordham, the latest being Hub Verney, star blocker, who twisted a knee in yesterday's workout. Yuhacki will take his place. Peters and Velter were injured in the Albright game.

AMATEURS BOX TONIGHT

Two amateur boxing shows of more than passing interest are scheduled in Pittsburgh tonight, one of them at the Moose Temple, downtown, under the auspices of the Allegheny County Roosevelt-Garner Women's Club, and the other one in the clubrooms of the Duquesne Council, Knights of Columbus, in Oakland.

Al Quaill, of Brookline, and Walter Marm, of Hazelwood, box the main bout of the show at the Moose. Quaill, who represents the Y. M. H. A., is the junior welterweight champion of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U., while Marm is the local Golden Gloves champion. Marm boxes for the Pittsburgh Lyceum.

Other bouts at the Moose: Sparky Ewalt vs. Johnny Ochs, Tubby Mills vs. George Lupinacci, Lenny Burkinelli vs. Steve Kovach, Wade Stevens vs. Mike Wolf, Red Davison vs. Clem Blaha, Felix Casciatti vs. Johnny Saville and Herman La Donne vs. Mike Picciano.

Vaudeville entertainment will augment the K. of C. program, the boxing bouts for which are: Eric Bredl vs. Joe Schultz, Art McGivern vs. Tuffy Lawson, Eddie Katkish vs. George Thomas, Frank Wingo vs. Johnny Turpack, Patsy Contella vs. Gene Pier and Joe Sulk vs. Johnny Burke.

MACK OUTLINES A'S POLICY

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Connie Mack, lean-visaged manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, has termed himself a failure, denied reports he planned to break up the team, and declared he is through with player deals that would make strong clubs stronger.

In a clear-cut statement of the A's future policy, Mack asserted the membership of the former world championship team will remain as it is until the close of the 1933 season. He declared:

"No player who belongs to the club at present will be sold or traded to a major league club until the close of next season. Then if any player is sold or traded it will be to an American League club in the sixth, seventh or eighth position in the standings.

"None of the five ranking clubs in the league will ever be able to buy or trade with me for a player as long as I'm a manager."

Then he kept a promise to explain his surprise sale of Al Simmons, Jimmy Dykes and Mule Haas to the Chicago White Sox, a deal announced last week in New York. Financial reasons were responsible for the sale. He said:

"We went into the red, heavily. We had one of the highest salaried clubs in the league, including even the Yankees with Babe Ruth's $75,000, and our attendance figures were far below those of last year.

"I feel also that I've been a failure—not in playing results, but financially. And that failure forced me to sell those players. Any man who can't make both ends meet must be a failure. And I didn't make ends meet for the A's."

Connie had nothing but praise for the three players just sold.

Demaree Purchase Completed by Cubs

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Frank Demaree, 22, one of the recruit stars in the recent world series, has been purchased by the Chicago Cubs, it was announced today by Lewis Moreing, owner of the Sacramento Club of the Pacific Coast League.

His purchase became effective October 1, the day before he knocked a home run with two men on bases against the Yankees, Moreing said.

The purchase prices was understood to be $25,000.

Demaree, a husky youth, who was picked up by Moreing from sandlots two seasons ago, is expected to reach Sacramento this week en route to the home of his parents in Winters, Yolo County.

The old home town was preparing a lusty welcome for its hero.

MICHIGAN GOOD BET TO BEAT WILDCATS

By HEARTLY W. (HUNK) ANDERSON
Notre Dame Football Coach.

The Big Ten opens its season this week-end with four Conference games, and the two other teams play outside games. The Purdue-Minnesota and the Michigan-Northwestern games will have a great bearing on the outcome of the Conference race.

In picking Michigan to win over the Wildcats, I am playing a hunch. So far, Northwestern's line hasn't shown much. The freshmen made seven first downs against the varsity in scrimmage. Northwestern has a classy set of backs in Rentner, Olson, Sullivan and Potter, but in my opinion a good line can make a mediocre set of backs, but if you have a mediocre line, it doesn't matter how good the backs are. Of course, the Northwestern line may develop by the time of the game, and they will play better ball in the line when they are steamed up for a big game than if they are just going through a light workout against the freshmen.

MICHIGAN LINE STRONG

Michigan's line is still an unknown quantity, but reports from Ann Arbor are that Coach Harry Kipke has a better line than Hanley at Northwestern. The Michigan backs are not mediocre by any means. Young Willie Heston can kick with Olson, and Newman can pass with Rentner.

Purdue's strong line and great backfield should be able to submerge Minnesota. Benny Bierman is starting his first season at Minnesota and doesn't know what his men can do under fire. He is an excellent coach, but will need a little time to bring his team along and to learn the ability of his various men.

Ohio State, with Cramer for its spark plug, should win by a small score over Indiana. Indiana didn't show much an offense last year, and Coach Hayes hasn't had a chance to develop his offense this year. But Indiana is always strong defensively and undoubtedly will hold the score down.

WISCONSIN MEETS IOWA

Two new coaches, Ossie Solem, at Iowa, and Doc Spears, at Wisconsin, will send their teams into their first Big Ten games. Spears has been juggling his line a lot and I think he has better material than Solem and will win from Iowa.

Yale will defeat Chicago's sophomore team at New Haven, although Coach Stagg could give Yale a good fight in a few more weeks. He has Storey at halfback and Rainwater Wells at end to make a good passing combination. But his team hasn't had enough experience to take Yale.

HUSKERS SEEK PITT SPEED

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Ever since the Pitt Panthers slaughtered the Cornhusker football team, 40 to 0, at the Steel City last Thanksgiving Day, there has been one yearning uppermost in the minds of University of Nebraska gridiron mentors.

It is speed! More speed!

They saw the lightning-like precision with which the Panthers literally mowed down the Husker opposition. It was the worst defeat for Nebraska in more than 40 years of football.

Coach Dana X. Bible has a new idea which he is trying out this year in an effort to accelerate the Huskers. He has created a "medallion des speed." At present only five Huskers have gained membership in this exclusive set. They are Mathis and Staab, backs; Roby and Penney, ends, and Hulbert, lineman.

The badge is stenciled plainly on the seat of the member's moleskins. It is a five-letter word which means, the coaches say, the difference between victories and defeats—speed.

In order to become a member, it is not necessary to excel in the sprints. That, of course, helps, but what Coach Bible is demanding of those petitioning for membership is ability to do their particular duty on each play just a bit faster than the other fellow.

Fast Filly Wins In Jamaica Race

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Manya, a daughter of Master Charley, carried J. J. Robinson's silks to close victory in the Lynbrook claiming stakes at Jamaica yesterday.

Tony Pascuma whipped the winner home a nose in front of Mr. Khayyam, with J. H. Louchheim's Fancy Flight a half-length back in third place. Coupled with Little Lad in the betting, Manya paid her backers 6 to 1, and earned $1,440 for her owner.

Bobbie Robertson gave C. V. Whitney's Clotho a smart ride to win the Century highweight handicap under 122 pounds.

JAFFEE TURNS PRO

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Irving Jaffee, winner of the 5,000 and 10,000 meter speed skating races at the 1932 winter Olympic Games at Lake Placid, has announced his retirement from amateur skating competition. Jaffee did not announce any definite plans for professional appearances, but said he had received several offers.

RACES AT ARDEN TRACK

Automobile and motorcycle races are scheduled at the Arden Downs track Saturday afternoon, with a grudge race between Bill Schempp and Herbert Ardinger one of the features. Fast Black, veteran motorcycle racer from Toledo, is among the entrants on the program.

BILL M'KECHNIE SEEKS PUNCH FOR BRAVES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

William B. (Bill) McKechnie, manager of the Boston Braves, was back in his Wilkinsburg home today after having closed another successful season in the National League. Bill's light-hitting Tribe (the Braves were next to last in batting in the league) was picked for the cellar or thereabouts, yet the fighting crew from Boston was in the flag race up to the closing weeks and missed a first division berth by the margin of but one game.

Bill McKechnie

Skipper Bill plans to go to New York late this week to meet with President Emil E. Fuchs, of the Braves, relative to some deals. He said:

DEALS IN SIGHT

"We have something started and are anxious to further the negotiations. I expect to take up prospective deals when I meet with Mr. Fuchs in New York."

The Braves' gallant show against great odds was one of the admirable sidelights on the tight National League race. Serious injuries to Bob Worthington, Art Shires, Pinkey Hargreaves and Fritz Knothe are believed to have cost the club many victories. It is altogether likely the Braves could have finished near the top had they kept their club intact.

TO ADD PUNCH

McKechnie plans to add punch to his club. He knows what he wants and he will go the limit in making a deal or two.

Mrs. McKechnie, who has been ill for several months, is at present confined in a New York hospital, where she has shown steady improvement. Her husband expects to spend several days with her.

BIANCHI STOPPED

Apollo Team Rated Title Contender

By JULIUS LEVIN

The Apollo High School football team, coached by Charley Buzzard, is being heralded as the successor to Hurst High School, of Mt. Pleasant Township, as standard bearer of the Class B schools of Western Pennsylvania as a result of its fine showing to date.

While Apollo has not engaged in any Class B contests to cate, the Allegheny Valley eleven has displayed enough promise in its battles with opponents of higher classification to merit its rating among the favorites.

VETERANS RETURN

Apollo, strengthened by the return of the majority of the 1931 veterans, has played four games this season, and the only defeat so far was that at the hands of John Honse's Ford City eleven, which does not have any bearing on the Class B fight.

After defeating the alumni, 9-6, Apollo stepped out of its class to score a 7-0 victory over Kittanning, a Class A opponent. The third game resulted in a 20-6 defeat by Ford City, Indiana, not a member of the W. P. I. A. L., was Apollo's next victim, losing 13-0.

"Keep your eye on Apollo in the Class B race," is the word being passed along the Allegheny Valley.

GLASSPORT LEADER

First figures computed under the point system in the Class B competition show Glassport running ahead of the field with a total of 120 points, Glassport received 100 points for defeating Centerville and an additional 20 points for the two Class B opponents beaten by Centerville.

Tied for second place are East McKeesport, East Bethlehem and Rankin, all with 110 points. The 14 leaders in the Class B division and their point totals follow:

CLASS B LEADERS

(Contenders must play five Class B opponents to qualify for title consideration)

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.	Pts.
Glassport	1	0	0	120
East McKeesport	1	0	0	110

School Notes

Coach Ed Mazeski will take Erie South Hills High eleven to Marion Ferry, O., Saturday for a game with the Ibach school team of that town.

The Washington-New Castle Double A Conference game, originally scheduled for Washington, Pa., on Saturday, October 15, has been moved to New Castle by mutual consent. The game will be played at Taggart Field under the floodlights on Friday, October 14. The game was moved up to avoid a conflict with the Wash-Jeff Carnegie Tech battle.

Blair (Tuffy) McMillin, coach at Monongahela High School, has Friday or Saturday open for a game abroad. Teams interested in booking Monongahela call Monongahela 111 and ask for Coach McMillin.

East Pittsburgh and East McKeesport, both making a determined bid for the Class B championship, meet Saturday afternoon at East Pittsburgh. Bill Young is coach at East McKeesport and Johnny Coleman at East Pittsburgh. Both teams are evenly matched and should present an interesting duel from start to finish.

Pitcairn High, which has dropped three straight games, Turtle Creek Union, 20-0; East Pittsburgh, 7-6, and Bethel Township, 13-0, will be the attraction at Braddock Friday afternoon. Pitcairn is a Class B school, while Braddock plays under the Class A banner.

Chocolate Whips Johnny Farr Again

DETROIT, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Kid Chocolate, flashy Cuban boxer, won an easy decision over Johnny Farr, of Cleveland, in a 10-round bout here last night. Chocolate, who won nine of the 10 rounds, weighed 129, and Farr, 133.

It took three rounds for Chocolate to find the range. In the fourth, Farr jarred him with a stiff right to the face. That seemed to make the Cuban Kid angry and he waded in with a barrage of blows which Farr could neither block nor return. The Clevelander was crouched on the bottom rope when the storm subsided.

Kirchner, St. Vincent Athlete, Quits Sports

LATROBE, Pa., Oct. 5.—Frances (Manny) Kirchner, one of the most popular athletes to represent St. Vincent College, has decided to abandon sports to enter priesthood.

Kirchner starred at fullback in 1930 and last year held down the quarterback post.

STEEL OUTPUT RATE RISES

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Several favorable developments in the steel industry were reported by the Iron Age today.

Production has risen to slightly above 18 per cent of the country's capacity against 17½ per cent last week; a gain of 15.4 per cent in the daily average rate of pig iron output was reported for September over August, and the review announced "the probability" that unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, as of September 30, would show "an increase of sizeable proportions, perhaps as much as 100,000 tons."

Thus, said the publication, "the steel industry enters the final quarter of the year under conditions that seem favorable for more improvement this month than that of September over August."

Most of the acceleration in steel business continues to come from miscellaneous consumers and in small lots for immediate shipment. Railroad buying has not yet assumed important proportions, "but prospective tonnage is coming into the market." Automobile parts manufacturers are taking small lots of steel for new model development, "presaging larger releases soon by the motor car companies themselves."

Inquiries for structural steel have been running larger than lettings, indicating that the trend of new business in this field is likely to be upward.

POWER OUTPUT SHOWS GAIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Electric production in the United States increased last week to 1,499,459,000 kilowatt hours from 1,490,863,000 in the week ended September 24. Total output was 8.9 per cent under 1931 whereas in the previous week the decrease had been 10.2 per cent.

Both in 1931 and 1930 the last week in September had shown a decrease in production, in contrast to the gain this year.

Smaller declines, compared with a year ago, were registered in all major districts except the Pacific Coast where last week's current production was 8.9 per cent under 1931 against a recession of 8.1 in the previous week.

New England, taken alone, was only 1.6 per cent below 1931, whereas the week before it had been 6 per cent under. The Atlantic seaboard's decline was 4.2 per cent against 6.9 and the central industrial region's 11.1 against 13.8.

Birmingham Cement Mill Recalls Men

BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 5.—The mill of Lehigh Portland Cement Company here has called back 140 men to work this week. The company has a number of orders in hand which promise to increase, so that full production will be warranted shortly.

Campbell Thinks Wheat's Trend Is Upward

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Thomas D. Campbell, reputed to be the world's largest wheat farmer, is preparing to seed a "substantial" part of his large acreage on the Crow Indian Reservation in Eastern Montana, confident, he asserted, that "20 cent wheat" is going to be a thing of the past by next harvest.

Storage Petroleum Reduced in August

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The United States Bureau of Mines reports a reduction of 6,379,000 barrels in total storage of all petroleum, crude and refined, during August. Storage of gasoline declined 3,898,000 barrels during the month.

Production of crude petroleum in the United States during August totaled 66,220,000 barrels, a daily average of 2,136,000 barrels, but a slight decline from the July output of 66,310,000.

The production of motor fuel in August amounted to 33,564,000 gallons as compared with 34,288,000 gallons in July.

United Air Buys Year's Gas Supply

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—United Air Lines, Inc., has contracted with Standard Oil Company of Indiana and California for 7,000,000 gallons of aviation gasoline, constituting one year's supply.

TAYLOR JOINS APOSTLES OF RECOVERY

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Steel, which, in a less sophisticated time before modern statistics were collected in their present abundance, was considered the barometer of trade, has until recently been fully reflecting the intensity of the depression.

As hopes of better times have developed, the steel industry has in recent weeks lifted its operations somewhat above the sensationally subnormal summer level of activity. Since the first week in September, operations have risen from 13¾ to 18 per cent of capacity. Evidently impressed with such gains, Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, was moved to join the band wagon, consisting of those who have heralded the turn of the corner.

Mr. Rukeyser

On account of Mr. Taylor's known conservatism in public utterances, those with the will to be hopeful were impressed with Mr. Taylor's observation that "after a long and painful three years of diminishing activities and reduced returns to those in every walk of life in America, we are entering the fourth year of our unhappiness with some unmistakable signs present indicating that dawn is at hand, and that with renewed courage and confidence we can enter upon it with refreshed hope."

The request for a receiver for the Nickel Plate constitutes a thrust at the Van Sweringens' first acquisition, which led to the projected building of a railroad empire.

HIT BY EXPANSION

The Van Sweringens purchased the Nickel Plate, which was then an unimportant back line of the New York Central, and by the introduction of modern methods of transportation, especially faster movement of freight trains, the system grew with the industrial Middle West into a remarkable profit-maker. With the depression, gross income fell off substantially, and operating economies were insufficient to offset the destruction of net profits. The immediate troubles of the road, however, are due to a financial operation in connection with the acquisition of another road, the Wheeling and Lake Erie.

The prolonged depression has emphasized the danger of assuming fixed obligations in order to get funds to purchase equities.

Conversely, it has stressed the wisdom of using periods of prosperity and good earnings to tend to get out of debt.

Forbes

Will Electric Industry Lead To Prosperity?

By B. C. FORBES

SCIENTISTS TELL us that everything consists of electricity. After world-wrecking wars recovery usually has been stimulated by some epochal invention.

B. C. Forbes

While no one new industry is in sight sufficient by itself to win back recovery, it is significant that the most promising of infant industries spring from electricity.

First, consider electric refrigeration. It has been and still is going ahead by leaps and bounds.

Frigidaire is rapidly approaching its 2,500,000 mark. Last month sales were generously ahead of August, an extraordinary seasonal showing. General Electric has come conspicuously to the front in this same industry.

Kelvinator, early prominent in the field, announces that this year, notwithstanding the unprecedentedly poor business conditions, it has sold more refrigerators than in any previous year during the depression. Norge has this year continued the phenomenal record it created last year. All in all, this industry is affording a welcome amount of employment.

WATCH THE future of air conditioning.

Here is an industrial fledgling destined to attain giant proportions. For aeons man has utilized fire to battle against the discomforts of intense cold, but up till now extremely little effort has been made to battle against the discomforts of intense heat. Electricity promises to solve the disagreeable heat problem in home, office, factory, amusement place, etc.

The cost of the most effective apparatus for cooling and properly conditioning the air in a room or building is today too high to permit of general adoption throughout the country.

Originally, domestic refrigerators also were beyond the purse of all but wealthy people. But just as the cost of producing a satisfactory refrigerator has steadily been lowered, so, unquestionably, will air conditioning costs be lowered.

When one thinks of the discomfort suffered in so many parts of the country during summer months, the prospect of being able to work and live in a delightful, and delightfully healthy, atmosphere has alluring appeal, has it not?

TELEVISION HAS captured the imagination. Experts declare that, although its ultimate achievements are beyond all present imagining, its progress for some time is likely to impress the public as snail-like.

It must be two years since I talked downtown New York with a friend uptown, and saw every feature and expression of the friend as clearly as on a motion picture screen. In fact, it was exactly as if one were conducting a two-way "talkie."

In my ignorance, I foresaw television rapidly sweeping the country. Walter S. Gifford's technical associates in American Telephone, however, warned me that many difficulties remained to be overcome, many problems solved, before television can match the progress of telephony.

THE "TALKIES" have become so universal in this country that we are apt to forget that they are really a most youthful industry. They, too, of course, owe their existence to electricity. Think of how many people, directly and indirectly, they provide with employment.

RADIO HAS become so intimate a part of our daily home and national life that we have ceased to look upon it as a child in age. Electricity again! And much employment!

REFLECT UPON the strides electricity is making on the farm, in the kitchen, in transportation—everywhere—and ponder the potentialities of the young industries here mentioned. Is not the thought impelled that electricity, one way and another, will quicken recovery from this latest period of depression and carry us to heights of prosperity heretofore unapproached?

WEEKLY GRAIN EXPORTS OFF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Grain exports last week from the United States amounted to 833,000 bushels against 1,412,000 for the week previous and 2,849,000 bushels during the corresponding week of last year.

Commerce Department figures gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those of the week before: Barley, 92,000 bushels against 238,000; corn, 289,000 against 103,000; oats, 144,000 against 49,000; wheat, 308,000 against 1,022,000; no exports of rye were reported for either week.

Canadian grains exported last week from United States ports totaled 977,000 bushels against 874,000 bushels the previous week, while exports of North American wheat flour were 42,000 barrels against 72,000 barrels.

BRAZIL ORDERS COFFEE PROBE

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 5.—The president of the National Coffee Council of Brazil has received instructions from the minister of finance to proceed immediately to Santos to investigate conditions and the situation of the coffee market there.

In accordance with the order, the Brazilian government through the minister of the navy has taken official measures in order not to permit the exportation of coffee even after the reopening of the port of Santos until the National Coffee Council has completed its probe.

STOCKS SLUMP UNDER WAVE OF SELLING

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.) — The stock market broke away from its narrow trading range of recent sessions today with a sharp downturn, as successive flurries of selling swept through the list.

Extreme losses of 2 to 6 points were numerous in the leaders, but trading slackened and there were numerous recoveries of from fractions to a point during the early afternoon. The market showed little vitality on the rally, however.

Rails were particularly heavy, with extreme losses of 3 to 6 points in such issues as Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Lackawanna and New York Central. Farm implements, chemicals and utilities were also depressed.

While the mid-week business statistics were moderately favorable, market opinion in Wall street was decidedly mixed. Further gains in steel production and electric power output were indicated as encouraging, although steel business, particularly, has not come up to the more rosy expectations of some weeks ago.

A slump in wheat adversely influenced such stocks as the farm implements and the mail order issues. Oils held up relatively well, despite some uneasiness over crude prices in the mid-continent. The weekly statistics of the American Petroleum Institute were regarded as moderately encouraging.

WHEAT PRICES DROP SHARPLY

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Grain values underwent a sharp, quick setback early today. Despite the fact that in some quarters President Hoover's Des Moines speech was construed as bullish, selling orders overwhelmed the wheat pit, and prices suffered an all around tumble. Opening 7/8-1 3/8 lower, wheat afterward dropped further. Corn started 3/8-7/8 off and continued to point downward.

An outstanding feature of today's break in grain values was the fact that all deliveries of corn outdid the season's bottom price record, with December contracts falling to under 27 cents a bushel, the lowest since 1896. Oats prices, too, reached a complete new low level for the season and for many years back. Much of the selling of corn was of a stop loss character.

About 2 cents a bushel setback in wheat took place before downturns were at least temporarily checked.

Big receipts of corn here, 519 cars, more than double the total either a week ago or a year ago, did much to weigh down corn and oats prices.

Provisions gave way with grains.

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XXXIX.

They both tried to forget what Val had said.

There were times when they were strangers, when their thoughts were secrets from each other, and they spoke with careful, forced cordiality, masking coldness.

"Joe, dear, you're sure you wouldn't like to have the Murphys in for a little bridge? There's half a chocolate cake left, and I can make some little sandwiches."

"No, dear, not unless you're bored."

"Oh, no!"

"Then I'd rather be here with you."

And they'd sit, near enough to reach out and touch each other, he with his book, she with her writing case, miles apart.

Sometimes they'd find each other for a little while. She'd put her head, a little self-consciously, on his shoulder. His arm would go around her, automatically at first.

"Joe . . . you aren't mad at me any more?"

"Val—I never was! If I could just make you happy—"

"Oh, you do! You do! Hold me tight, Joe! Oh, Joe, I do love you You mustn't mind what I say sometimes. I'm just a little crazy. Joe, I do love it here—all the lakes and the snow and Mrs. Peacock—and oh! lots of people—"

"Because, if you don't we'll go back to California, Val. We'll—"

"Oh, no! I'd never let you sacrifice your career for me—"

"But you mean more to me than anything else!"

INVITES PEARL

When he looked at her that way, when she could see the old warmth and love in his eyes she felt that it made up for everything else. Wild horses wouldn't drag her away. She wouldn't let Joe give up his chances and move. She wouldn't even care if she was unhappy herself, she'd be so happy making Joe happy.

In a glow of goodness she invited Pearl to have lunch with her on Saturday and then go skiing at the golf links afterwards She bundled up like a young Eskimo and conscientiously tried to have a good time.

"You'll learn!" Pearl shrieked. "I'll have you doing Christians by next week! Good thing it doesn't hurt to fall. Pick yourself up, you're all right!"

"Yes, I'm all right," Val called back, brushing snow out of her eyes, wondering how much longer before she could conscientiously say it was time to go home and start dinner for Joe.

Joe was all upset because she got such a bad cold afterwards. But she didn't mind. It was rather pleasant, being able to curl up on the davenport and not feel that you really ought to go out somewhere.

Sometimes she didn't know what she'd do without letters. She enjoyed writing them even more than receiving them.

WRITES LETTERS

In the ones to Aunt Julia she was very happy and full of joyful, humorous account of the fun she had trying to ski. And how the skating teacher said that she was really a natural skater and would learn to waltz in no time at all. And how queer it seemed to ride in HEATED street cars, and imagine the department stores offering to check your heavy coat the way they did umbrellas on rainy days at home!

To Millie she was more natural: Everybody here was mad about winter sports, but nobody had anything very exciting in the way of ski costumes. If she decided to go in for it—which she wouldn't because the wind made her head ache, and she disliked being cold and wet—she'd get a real St. Moritz outfit. And she hoped Millie could come back soon. Because she was terribly lonely and homesick.

But in the letters to Marjorie she really let herself go. It was so long since she had seen her that she forgot what a poor listener Marjorie really was, and poured out her heart, feeling sure of understanding and sympathy.

"Of course, I'm terribly happy with Joe," she wrote, "but sometimes I find myself still dreaming of 'what might have been.'"

And Marjorie, who never did understand Val's extravagant flights of fancy, took it literally. Shocked and thrilled, she could hardly wait for Frank to get home to tell him.

VAL AVOIDS PARTIES

'My dear, I had the WILDEST letter from Val. I don't think she's the least bit in love with Joe Carey any more. She wrote PAGES about Les. It's really awfully sad, because he's still MAD about her, and I know perfectly well she's dying to get back here and see him again!"

"Well, divorces are cheap," Frank said, lighting his pipe.

So Marjorie wrote, suggesting that Val come out to California for the summer, because it is supposed to be so hot in the Middle West, and Aunt Julia and everybody always said that Val wasn't really strong.

Gratified with the reminder that she had never been robust, Val allowed Joe to worry just a little over her persistent cold, and took to staying in bed mornings, and refusing to go out in the cold to dinners and parties she didn't want to go to.

"No, you go without me. I won't mind, Joe. You know Dr. Roberts said I wasn't to get another chill. No, I won't be lonesome. Or I'll have Mrs. Peacock come over and stay with me while you're gone."

At first Joe demurred, but when it became a matter of office policy, like the annual dinner and the architects' association and things like that, he went without her, and Val wept a little and tried not to care that Pearl was all too delighted to grab Joe for her escort.

"You don't mind if I borrow your husband, do you, Val?"

"Of course not! Run along, children, and have a good time!"

What else could she say? Besides, one ought to be above that sort of thing, and sometimes she was.

STEPFATHER DEAD

Lying on the sofa Sunday morning, a rug over her knees, a box of chocolates by her side, she craned her neck to listen to Joe talking to someone at the door.

"Oh, dear, I hope it isn't Pearl!" she thought, really too languid and comfortable to care much whether it was or not.

Joe came back alone. "Telegram for you, Val."

"For me?"

As her fingers ripped the envelope she said. "I hate telegrams. I always think they're going to be bad news . . . oh Joe! It's a cable. From Millie—"Arriving New York Wednesday Aquitania account of death poor Deems Harris. Am inconsolable. You must meet me New York and arrange take trip somewhere with me, Millie."

Joe whistled. "Mr. Harris! Dead. What a pity! Nice old man."

Val had jumped from the sofa, scattering blanket, novel and chocolate.

"When do I have to leave? Tonight? Oh, no—it doesn't take that long. But I will have to leave tomorrow, won't I? And my things are all in a mess—nothing ready to wear . . . Joe, will you call Mrs. Peacock? I think she could help me with the packing!"

"Val!" Joe pushed her back gently. Kneeling beside her he took both her hands in his. "Val, with that cold you can't go. Why it's a real blizzard, and you haven't been out of the house for two weeks."

"I'm all right. I'm really all right again." She slipped from his restraining hands, hurried into the bedroom, began pulling at the rows of dresses in the closet. "Joe, will you get my big suitcase for me? Or should I take the trunk?"

"Val, you simply can't go. We'll wire Millie. She'd be the last to expect it of you. She'll come here instead."

She turned on him, blazing. "But I don't want her to come here! I want to go to New York to meet her. No, Joe, don't fuss!"

"I'm not fussing. I'm trying to think of your health. You know your mother wouldn't want you to risk that trip when you're ill!"

"Oh, I'm not ill! I'm just sick and tired of everything. I'll be all right when I get away. Can't you see that I want to go?"

The slow dark color crept slowly over Joe's tanned cheeks. He opened his mouth as if to speak, closed it again.

Presently he said, "All right, Valentine. I'll get your ticket."

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane is practically deserted at the age of 8 by her gay, widowed mother, Millie. She is brought up by a manhating maiden aunt, Julia, and becomes a stenographer. After a brief infatuation for the dashing Lester Sherwood, she marries a neighbor boy, Joe Carey, and goes to Minneapolis, where Joe is an architect. Pearl Neely, one of Joe's friends, visits and begins to take liberties about the apartment. Val dislikes Pearl, but says nothing. Unused to housework, Val becomes discontented. Joe tells Val his plans for the future, but she is unimpressed.

Now Go On

"I'm not ill! I'm sick and tired of everything," said Val.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Carolyn Spoils Plan to Watch Marion

Lillian and I glanced furtively at each other when Marion and Mary exchanged their cleverly camouflaged but no less barbed gibes converning Avis Arlen's probable behavior at the party.

I felt that I should be thankful indeed when the comedy—I prayed that it would be nothing more—should be concluded.

"We really brought you in here for a sartorial council," I said, "with a few other questions on the side. You see, we haven't much time before Friday. I really should not have the party so soon, but I can't very well leave Bill and Hank out of it, and they go back to school the first of next week."

I did not tell them that I had at first purposed doing that very thing, but realized Bill's probable hurt at the party, from the attentions of the "college sheiks" to Marion, would be less than would result from the knowledge that he and Hank had been barred from the party. But I watched Marion jealously to see what her reaction to my announcement would be.

"Oh, of course! The poor kids!" she explained with gratifying promptness, and Carolyn echoed her words earnestly. A grateful, almost affectionate expression smoothed out the rather tense lines of Mary's face, and I knew that the attitude of the girls toward the young brothers, whom Mary tyrannizes but dearly loves, had lessened the antagonism which Marion's jealousy had fostered.

MARION UNDERSTANDS

"But that means we have to utilize every minute," I went on, "so we'll plan clothes and things now."

"Oh-h-h! How exciting!" Carolyn exclaimed. "Do you mean—you want us to have new frocks for the party? I'll have to get hold of my mother. I haven't money enough left to buy a pair of stockings."

"I'm afraid my allowance doesn't run to a new gown," Mary said slowly.

"This won't be an allowance gown, Mary," I told her, smiling. "Just let your Uncle Dicky and me attend to that part of it. All you'll have to do will be to select it tomorrow, when Aunt Lillian takes you all to the city."

Marion was studying her mother's face, and as I finished talking she put her hand under Lillian's chin.

"I see what's up," she said teasingly. "Our guest of honor's going to sail in with a new rig, and our mothers and aunties aren't going to see us have our eyes wiped, are 'ums?'"

"Just a word more along that line," Lillian said warningly, "and the new dresses are off. Rather, they never will be on."

Carolyn grabbed her friend's hand and jerked her away from her mother's side.

"If you open your trap again!" she threatened, laughingly, then turned to Lillian.

"She'll be good," she said. "She's simply so thrilled she doesn't know what she's saying. But how will I get hold of my mother? I know she'll let me have the dress if I ask her."

CAROLYN INTERRUPTS

"If she's at the camp, you may talk to her almost immediately," I said. "I'm going to call her up right away and ask her and your father and your Uncle Charlie to come down for the party. You see it is to be in honor of both Mrs. Arlen and her daughter, and we must have older people as well as youngsters."

Under cover of my volubility I was watching Marion, and I knew that Lillian's eyes, furtively upon her young daughter, were equally keen and anxious. What would be the young girl's reaction to this news of the invitation to Charles Owen?

I could have choked Carolyn cheerfully for the interruption she staged just then. Marion's face was turned away from us, so I was unable to read the expression of her eyes and face, and Carolyn's voluble outburst gave her plenty of time to pull herself together and put on a mask, if she thought she needed one.

"Do you have to have Uncle Charlie?" Carolyn said, her pretty face registering disgust; and I remembered that a few days before she had referred to him as "that moth-eaten old Owen." Yet he was the half-brother of Samuel Brixton, the stepfather whom I knew she adored, and she always had been taught to consider him as an uncle. What was the reason for this resentful attitude toward him?

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Ann Helfgott, "Official Junior Reporter" of the Enright Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club sends in the following news items.

Regina Davis, of the Enright Club likes to eat all-day suckers. Jean Laurse Zimmerman plans to be a "Nursie." Meanwhile she is getting much practice in the art by giving her doll lots of attention. David McClain likes to play baseball and some day hopes to be playing in the major leagues. He may be another Gehrig or Ruth — who can tell. At any rate your club reporter wishes him much luck and happiness.

Add another record smashed and it didn't happen in the World Series. Natalie Larson has broken the all-American kindergarten record at school—she hasn't missed a day. Now what do you club members think of that? Okay, Natalie.

Here's another booster for the Enright, Jimmie Albert Bettilyon enjoys his weekly visits and tries to never miss a day. His brother, Edward, missed today, but the other member of the family, Fred, was here and actively participating in the several events. Mrs. Bettilyon, who attends occasionally, is also fond of our little club.

This is quite unusual. Here's a boy who has no lofty ambitions, but probably will be a huge success just the same. Louis Schiber is going to clerk in a store. In a few years he'll probably own the store. Good work, Louis.

Dorothy Rewinter has great big blue eyes and how she can roll them! She also likes the piano and is quite proficient at pounding the ivories. Just about as good as I am at a typewriter—possibly far better.

Richard Grady plans to enter a theological school and ultimately become a priest. In between studies he enjoys hiking and says, "Mens sano in corpore sano." That's Latin!

Our blue-eyed Jane Fisher is absent today, but we have with us Margaret Jane Bush who closely resembles our Jane. Margaret plans to be a script reader for the movies. Now there is an occupation that appeals to me. No writing, just read and read.

Betty McInerny enjoys jumping rope. She was one of the runner-ups in the contest this Saturday and hopes to do better in future jumping events.

A vote for the Chinese. Louise Peterson likes to eat chop-suey. She says that she is not always sure what it is made of, but likes it just the same.

Page a cat doctor. Ruth Regan's cat is suffering from "tummy ache" having devoured too much candy the other day. Well, we should worry; hasn't a cat nine lives?

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Congratulations to the following boys and girls all members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Club who are celebrating their birthdays today:

A Detective? Bah!

THE BUNGLE FAMILY

ISN'T IT JUST ASTOUNDING, PEGGY, ABOUT YOUR FATHER GETTING IN WITH FOLKS LIKE THOSE WEALTHY GRUBBERS OVER SOME SORT OF A ROBBERY MIXUP?
RARE STAMPS, A MILLION DOLLARS' WORTH, DAD SAID
WELL PEGGY, A PERSON COULD GET A LOT OF SECOND HAND STAMPS FOR A MILLION DOLLARS, TWO OR THREE CARLOADS PROBABLY. WHAT IMPRESSES ME IS THE WAY THAT MR. GRUBBER CALLS YOUR FATHER UP SO OFTEN.
IT SEEMS ODD FOR DAD TO BE A DETECTIVE BUT HE'S ALWAYS BEEN INTERESTED IN THAT SORT OF THING.
I NEVER LIKE TO DISCOURAGE ANYONE, BUT A MAN LIKE YOUR FATHER WON'T HAVE MUCH LUCK FINDING BANDITS AND SO FORTH. HALF THE TIME HE CAN'T EVEN FIND HIS HAT OR SHOES IN THE MORNING.
ANYHOW, DETECTIVE WORK IS INTERESTING.
AND DAD WAS, FROM WHAT HE SAID, SORT OF DRAGGED INTO THE AFFAIR.
HE WAS ALL THROUGH THAT GRUBBER MANSION. IT MUST BE SIMPLY GORGEOUSLY FURNISHED. YOUR FATHER NOTICED NOTHING. NOT EVEN THE KIND OF CARPETS OR RUGS ON THE FLOORS, OR THE DRAPES, NOR FURNITURE EITHER. NOTHING! A DETECTIVE. IMAGINE!

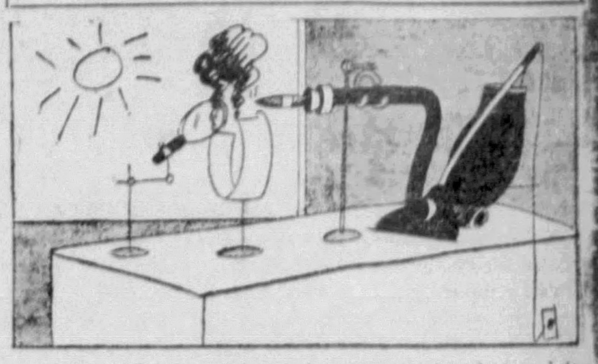
Frisby Has Something If He Does Not Lose His Head



Frisby Laboratories are the scene of frenzied activity these days, as Prof. Frisby, cum laude, toils, with a song in his heart, to do something big for you and for me. At present he is testing campaign cigars, and at the same time trying to discover a substitute for the pocket sulphur match, which, he points out, so many people are always just out of. Above diagram shows the Frisby solar cigar lighter, which eliminates the dangerous and expensive sulphur match for all time. The sun's rays, intensified by a reading glass, ignite the celluloid collar which lights the cigar attached to an ordinary vacuum cleaner going at high speed in reverse.

Justice at Last!

The Interstate Commerce Commission Shows a Fairer Attitude Toward Pittsburgh Shippers.

The Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad recently reduced its rate for hauling a ton of coal from Eastern Ohio mines to Cleveland from $1.74 to $1.45. The Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central were compelled to make a like cut. The Ohio Public Utilities Commission gave its approval.

The rate from Pittsburgh to Cleveland had been $1.84. While this was 10 cents more than the Ohio rate, Pittsburgh operators, having a superior grade of coal, were able to compete for Cleveland business.

The increase of the differential from 10 to 39 cents played havoc, however. It was estimated by the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau that the cut in the Ohio rate resulted in the loss to Pittsburgh operators of sales averaging 3,000 tons a day and threw 600 miners out of work.

The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad undertook to meet the new Ohio rate and re-establish the old differential of 10 cents by reducing its rate from $1.84 to $1.55. But the Pennsylvania, New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio protested against the cut to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which upheld them to the extent of ordering the new rate suspended until April 9, 1933.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot then took a hand in the matter and ordered the powers of the state thrown into the contest in behalf of Pittsburgh. The renewed efforts have brought at least temporary victory, for the Interstate Commerce Commission reversed itself yesterday and authorized the Pittsburgh and West Virginia to put the reduced rate into effect at once, pending the taking of additional testimony.

We have reviewed the case thus at length because of its importance as an example of the difficulties that have to be overcome in obtaining fair railroad rates. It would seem to be a matter of simple elemental justice that the Pittsburgh and West Virginia should be allowed to reduce its rate 29 cents to meet a reduction of similar amount by competing roads in Ohio. And yet it has required a vast amount of hard work and pleading to get permission to make the cut.

The Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central have played an ignoble part in the business. By opposing the effort to put the local rate on a basis which would permit local operators to compete with Ohio coal men these big railroads have shown themselves no friends of Pittsburgh.

Their attitude has been the same in the case of the rates for lake cargo coal from the Southern fields. They have been perfectly willing that Pittsburgh's coal business should go to competitors, provided they could haul our competitors' coal.

As a result 512 bituminous coal mines in Western Pennsylvania, or about one-fourth of the total number in the state, have been permanently abandoned during the last five years, and many others, while still classified as available for operation, are never expected to re-open.

It may be that the railroads, by helping through their unfair rates to strangle Pennsylvania's soft coal business, have unwittingly done themselves an irreparable injury at the same time.

It Must Not Be Allowed

The Closing of the Y. M. & W. H. A. Would Be a Loss to the Whole Community.

The announcement that the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association of Pittsburgh is in a critical financial condition and will have to close its doors unless an emergency fund of $60,000 is raised will give concern to the Christians of Pittsburgh as well as to the Jews. For the Bellefield avenue "Y" is recognized as a force for good that benefits the whole community.

The Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association provides for a considerable section of the population opportunities for education and advancement, opportunities for the improvement and maintenance of health, opportunities for entertainment. Its activities are wholesome. It has been well described as "a safe haven for young people."

Such an institution would be well worth the support of all the people in any year, but it specially deserves support at this time when there is so great a need for a club of this character in which unemployed young men and women can spend their leisure hours in occupations that will help them to maintain their courage and cheerfulness.

The Y. M. & W. H. A. is a Jewish institution, but its hospitable doors have been thrown open at one time or another to multitudes of Pittsburghers of all creeds. Sectarianism, therefore, should play no part in Pittsburgh's response to the news that the "Y" must raise $60,000 or close.

The County's Credit

The Number of Bidders and the Premiums Offered for Road Bonds Are a Good Sign.

With some of the large municipalities of the country on the verge of bankruptcy, it is gratifying to receive fresh evidence of the good financial condition of Allegheny County.

The County Commissioners sold $925,000 of 30-year 4 per cent road and bridge bonds yesterday. There were eight bidders, among them several of the strong conservative local banks and trust companies and several out-of-town concerns. The bonds went to a Philadelphia firm which offered a premium of $9,805.

The citizens will be gratified by this substantial expression of confidence by an out-of-town concern in the county's financial future. There is satisfaction in the assurance that our credit is given a high rating.

A Remarkable Increase

Some Interesting Problems Are Presented by the Demand for High School Education.

In 1900 there were fewer than 27,500 high school students in Pennsylvania, while 30 years later the number was 296,372. The state's population increased 52 per cent in that period, and total public school enrollment increased 66 per cent, but the enrollment in the high schools increased nearly 1,000 per cent!

The figures, taken from a report just issued by James N. Rule, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, raises some interesting problems. Dr. Rule is concerned over the rising financial burden of providing high school facilities.

Another question is, if all of this steadily increasing army of high school boys and girls desire "white collar jobs," how are they to be supplied?

Notwithstanding these perplexities, the increase in the number of youths demanding a high school education is, of course, to be welcomed.

To the Last Ditch!

Although our foreign trade has collapsed under the Hawley-Smoot-Grundy BONEHEAD Tariff Act of June, 1930, causing the curtailment of industry, the closing down of many factories and the throwing out of work of millions, the Hoover-Curtis High Command sticks to the impossible task of defending this indefensible act.

Forty nations, smarting under the stings of the bonehead tariff, adopted retaliatory measures and American commerce suffered greatly.

The Democratic standard bearer stands four-square for reciprocity, the key to foreign trade.

Please note the ditch in this Enright picture editorial.

The American electorate in November will, undoubtedly, make good use of it.

These Modern Romeos

Life is a cross-word puzzle, in which the feat of a modern girl's life is to find a man whose heart contains a four-letter word meaning "affection."

* * *

Even the best-hearted of women can't help feeling secretly gleeful when she discovers that one of her dearest friends weighs five pounds more than she does.

* * *

The delay in announcing the engagement, these days, is not caused by the girl's slowness to realize that a man wants to marry her, but by the amount of time it takes her to make HIM realize it.

It's not much use for a man to spend months assuring a woman that she is beautiful, brilliant and interesting, only to lose out to the first casual Romeo, who spends three minutes in telling her that she has "IT."

* * *

The modern girl finds it hard to admit that the same "freedom" which gives her the right to say, "Let's get married, Big Boy," also gives the ungrateful male the right to say, "No, thanks, Old Girl!"

* * *

No doubt the young husband of the next generation will be constantly reminding his wife that she can't mix a cocktail, open a can or blow smoke-rings "Like Mother used to."

* * *

The only person on earth who gets on a man's nerves worse than a woman who always keeps him waiting is the woman who is always "waiting" for him.

The greatest adventure of a man's life is to find the work for which he was intended; the greatest adventure of a woman's, to find the man for whom she was intended.

* * *

Nothing appears to give a man such a case of emotional dyspepsia as "feasting his eyes" on the same girl, seven evenings in succession.

The Sweetest Hour

With the tranquil light of dusk.
When the shadows eastward fall
And the long day's work is done,
Comes the sweetest hour of all.

Flush of morn and glow of noon,
These are vanished now and done,
And the thought of home and love
Blesses men at set of sun.

Thought of watchful eyes that cast
Eager glances down the street,
Thought of children's gleeful shouts
And of little, toddling feet.

Thoughts of welcome, loyal, true,
And of lifted, clasping arms;
These the things which with the dusk
Lend the sweetest hour its charms.

Years may sweep us far apart,
Who can say what is to be?
But with every twilight hour
You will come, my Love, to me!

EUROPE DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS, Oct. 5.—In one of those precisely-timed strokes of dumb luck, I provided Harry Silvey with a super thrill last evening. Paris, for him, has been chiefly cafe dining, al fresco teas and Bois strolling. He let it drop that he would offer no violent opposition to a peek at the seamy side. You know, tough!

So I took a night off to pilot him through the wicked alley-like rue de Lappe in the Bastile section. It is a shadowy nest of low drinking dens and dance halls, filled with ladies of jet and spangled sorcery.

In low-ceiled rooms clogged with smoke, alcoholic fumes and effluvia of sweat, mechanical pianos furnish music. Cocaine and heroin are hawked brazenly, and now and then a needle is heated openly for "a bust in the arm." Gendarmes move in threes. Coming out of a cellar place quaintly named "Le Pavillon," a crowd clotted.

In the center stood two baggy-capped Apaches — one with a drooping eyelid. Watchers stood breathlessly tense. And like poised vipers the antagonists suddenly struck. After a whirlwind of biting, kicking, gouging, they circled, panther-like. Then in a rapid blur, a wild, reeling twist, knife-flash and scream.

A whistle shrilled. Humanity evaporated like a puff of wind and, retreating in a sort of half-frozen horror, we saw Droopy Eye in a crazy sprawl and a trickle of red at the gutter edge. Back in the gush of boulevard light, I glanced at Silvey—a statue in chalk. I wasn't astonishingly ruddy myself.

* * *

I visited a Chinois pedicure parlor—the lacquered red and black of Roy Howard's office—in rue des Petit Champs. With robes embroidered in golden peacocks, and a jabber of French, they receive with grand salaams. Placing my tootsies under a brilliantly-lit magnifying glass, my Chink began to pick up sharp knives from his array and whittle. In no time a pair of barge-like airedales became sylph-like rosily pink pups. I felt I'd like to play: "This little pig went to market." Indeed, after the ribald limerick, I may christen them Gwendolyn and Aphrodite.

* * *

Never a dog fight in Paris. Canines are so keyed to docility they do not even chase cats. Few are on leash and none is muzzled. All are beribboned, belled or frizzled up, trotting past each other with no interest. Every concierge has some misgotten specimen dogging his or her heels. One yips from the high seat of every carter. No hotel, cafe or restaurant bars them, and somebody tells me, they never heard of a local dog poisoning. Marvelous France!

* * *

Pierre is a wine-bloated chauffeur, whose unesthetic voiture I frequently select from a Pont d'Iexa cab rank. He is florid, heavy of girth, extravagantly mustached, and not only has thick juts of eyebrows, but mountainous tufts sprouting from his ears. After a spin, we had him stop near the Etoile for a little light whistle-wetting, asking the garcon to inquire Pierre's liquid desire. He accepted a breaker of strange shandygaff with a cap lift. Ten minutes later in rue Volney, brushing two taxis, he was erupting in violent argle-bargle a volcano of guttery epithets. A true Frenchman may not become vin triste, ha, ha, but Pierre was beautifully potted.

* * *

Frank curiosity of the French is ever engaging. To stand blandly before a stranger and eye him from head to foot is not bad manners. Such a once-over is a part of the saunter of the world's most accomplished saunterers. On Boulevard Haussmann, a whiskered rustic, carrying a photo enlargement, was trailed by a fat wife and two gawky sons. Suddenly he decided to look at the aggrandizement. Removing the covering, he placed it against a facade, stepped back, cocked a prismatic eye, puffed at a blackened briar and admired. As did members of his humorously bucolic family along with a score who gravely stopped in passing. Simple life at its simplest.

Out of the vast thicket of restaurants, if I were to name—and why not, right out?—those most soothing the palate, the list would be: Foyot's, La Perouse, Tour d'Argent, Poccardi's and Boeuf a la Mode. These are yap places. But a seasoned traveler finds the best cooking. Of course, there's Robinson—what a strain to drop the apostrophe!—where meals are served in trees by girls on donkeys. Grand mange, too, mesdames et messieurs!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

A word of chaos!
What have I
That I can keep
In spite of chaos?
If my job goes,
If my home goes,
What have I left

That cannot go?

I HAVE MYSELF.
Not my body.
This box of flesh
Is not Myself.
Not my personality.
This set of tricks
Is not Myself.

No!

I am something else;
Something that lives
In the body
But is not flesh;
Something that looms
Behind gestures
But is not bound
By gestures;
A spirit
Detached, mysterious,
Owned by no one,
Not even by
Its own body,
Utterly independent,
Responsible only
To itself;
Beyond the reach
Of any power
Save itself,
THAT IS MYSELF.

Myself!
That is what I have.
That is all I have.
That is what
I can count on.

And what have I
In Myself?
What resources,
What treasure
Which this chaos
Cannot destroy?

I have in Myself
Whatever
I want to have.
I am in Myself
Whatever
I want to be.
Over other things,
Over other people,
I have no power.

Over the things
That happen to me
I have little power.
But I have power
Over Myself.
I am
What I desire,
And only
What I desire.

I am as strong
As I want to be;
As merry
As I want to be;
As wise and honest,
As tender and skillful,
As peaceful
As I want to be.

All that
I really am,
All that
I really have,
I determine
For Myself.
Riches and poverty—
They do not determine
Life for me.
Wars and depressions,
Blood or creed,
Family or position—
They do not determine
Life for me.

Only I, Myself,
In Myself, determine
What my life
Shall be.

I am
What I am.
I have
What I have,
And only
What I have—

And I am
And I have Only that which
I, Myself, desire.
This is true.
This will always
Be true,
No matter
What happens.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

Soon the college boys and girls will be writing Dad for money.

While parents desire to hear from their children, much of the pleasure of receiving letters is lost because of the financial demands.

What a joy it would be to get a real letter with money not mentioned.

When letters come with no regularity and always seeking for cash it is not surprising that parents think that a shortage of cash was incentive to write.

Young people ought to realize that in the majority of cases where boys and girls are sent to college the home folk are sacrificing; the fathers and mothers are getting along without something.

This is especially true at the present time

All incomes are curtailed, many are borrowing if they can get the money to send the children to school.

Boys and girls should cut themselves down to the lowest limit for personal outlay as the tuition and board and incidentals to the trip are well nigh prohibitive in the majority of households.

Dr. Butler: Approval With Corrections

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Nicholas Murray Butler, in his opening talk with the students at Columbia University, took the two parties and their nominees to task for refusing to discuss what he terms the problems that must be solved if prosperity is to be restored. He enumerates as the problems three; those relating to the tariff, to money and to the European debts. But on all these subjects the Democrats have taken a position, and Mr. Roosevelt has accepted the platform whole-heartedly and amplified upon them in two speeches.

There is nothing that Dr. Butler says about the artificial trade barriers put up at the behest of Grundy and under the Presidential lash of Mr. Hoover that has not been said hundreds of times by Democrat leaders in House and Senate. Everything he says on this subject was said by men like Senator Hull when the Democrats were fighting the Grundy economic monstrosity; and Mr. Hoover was using all the pressure of his high office to force it through.

Everything that has happened as a result of the passage of that impossible measure was predicted on the floor of the House and Senate by men who are among the leaders in the Roosevelt campaign. And the position taken by Dr. Butler as to method for getting rid of these barriers is the position taken by the House, accepted by the Senate and vetoed by Mr. Hoover.

* * *

The Best That Can Be Done Now

It certainly is not true that either the Democrats or Mr. Roosevelt have refused to take a position upon that subject. The Democratic position was set forth clearly in the House bill which Hoover killed. This called for the very thing Dr. Butler wants—negotiations through diplomatic channels or in an international conference to bring about reciprocal action for the reopening of foreign trade. That is the best that can be done now after other nations, retaliating naturally on us, have raised barriers against our products. This position is stated in the Democratic platform. It has been reiterated by Mr. Roosevelt, and it is being opposed by the administration and its supporters on the stump.

It is therefore amazing that Dr. Butler should put both candidates and both parties in the same category in regard to the tariff. Both have spoken out. The position of both is plain.

* * *

International Action Is Necessary

Dr. Butler is right in his conclusion that something must be done in reference to money for the benefit of foreign exchange of goods. But "politicians" have not been unmindful of that at all. It is common knowledge that under existing conditions we cannot hope for trade in silver countries; and there is not the most remote possibility that these countries will go up to the gold basis. Here is another problem that can only be met by international action.

But—Senator Pittman, supporter of Mr. Roosevelt, embodied this idea in a Senate resolution asking President Hoover to call an international conference—which, apparently, is what Dr. Butler wants.

This resolution had nothing to do with "16 to 1;" it did not remotely contemplate the abandonment of the gold standard here! it merely recognized realities and proposed that a plan be sought by international agreements through which countries like ours can trade with countries like China.

There was no party significance to the resolution; and for that reason every Republican as well as every Democrat in the Senate voted for the resolution. It passed—and has been ignored by Mr. Hoover. Meanwhile Mr. Roosevelt has—despite Mr. Butler's statement—expressed himself as in sympathy with the purport of the resolution.

Thus it would seem that Dr. Butler's quarrel here is not with either party, for both parties, as a whole, have taken the position he holds; and his quarrel certainly is not with Mr. Roosevelt, who has taken this position; and it is confined to Mr. Hoover, the one man who stubbornly has refused to act on the Senate resolution, unanimously passed.

On the subject of the transfer of the debt of eleven billions, owed to us by other nations that borrowed and used the money, the Democrats in their platform came out flat-footed against the transfer of these debts to American taxpayers; and the Republicans said nothing. The doctor therefore should confine his criticism to those who have maintained silence and not include, as silent, those whose position is clearly stated.

* * *

Dr. Butler Must Know the Democratic Position

I am in sympathy with most of what Dr. Butler says, but he has been unfair in conveying the impression that the Democrats have ignored questions on which they stand four-square. He must know that as far as the tariff barriers are concerned that is one of the issues being pressed most vigorously by the Democrats. And he must know that Democratic position is that of Mr. Roosevelt and has been right along.

Meanwhile, there is another issue of primary importance which Dr. Butler does not include on which both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hoover have taken positions; the former by a clear exposition of his views backed by his record as Governor of New York, the latter by his consistent policy for years. That is the issue of public utilities and power. And it would be absurd to say that this issue is not of public interest; or that Europe has anything to do with it.

We can agree entirely with Dr. Butler's statement that world conditions have something to do with our situation, but that "conditions particularly our own" are responsible for much of the human misery we see about us. If Europe had been reeking with prosperity, that would not have prevented the inevitable market crash here due to gambling operations and the grotesque inflation on the market.

That crash, which wiped out 80 billions in credit almost over night, began the panic here. And that criminal inflation was due in a measure to the zealous use of the bellows by the Hoover administration.

The Insull crash, made possible by a tolerance of crooked financial operations by utilities, would not have been possible under the more civilized laws of England, Germany and France.

And Mr. Roosevelt proposes measures for the protection of the people against future ruin and Mr. Hoover and his sponsors scout the thought.

Senator Norris has found another issue which has a great deal to do with American prosperity and well-being when he says:

"Under his (Roosevelt's) administration I have no fear but that the natural resources of the country will be preserved and developed, for the benefit of the people, rather than for the benefit of the Power Trust."

Of More Interest Than the Transfer of the Debts

And the future well-being of the American people is more involved in that question than in the transfer of the debts of 14 nations to the backs of American taxpayers.

That is the reason that progressives and real liberals, like Senator Norris and Senator Cutting, are coming over openly for Roosevelt and against their own party's nominee; and the reason that a progressive like Senator Johnson is able to say that he is in complete accord with the Roosevelt concept of what is needed for the good of all the people of the country.

Isn't It So?

No one loves a quitter.

Some children learn to lie from their parents.

Speaking of matrimonial ties, lots of men have to wear those their wives buy.

The ideal wife is one who grows dearer all the time instead of merely more expensive.
